Truman Tells Stalin War Means Downfall

New Awesome Weapons Seen By President

Message Is Given Mixed Reception

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7 (AP)—President Truman today warned Soviet Premier Stalin to steer clear of war or risk destruction of the Russian homeland by awesome new U. S. atomic weapons perhaps even dwarfing the hydrogen "hell" bomb.

And to the incoming Republican administration of President-elect Eisenhower, Truman bade Godspeed in coping with the grave problems that lie ahead. With it he coupled this admonition:

"We must stick to our guns and carry out our policies."

In a farewell State of the Union message to Congress, the President addressed himself directly to Stalin as he cautioned the Soviet Premier that vast strides in the development of American atomic weapons and growing Western military strength would doom Russia in the event of another great war.

"Peace Or Ruin" Warning

Bluntly, the President told Stalin that war between the East and West would spell "ruin for your regime and your homeland."

Such a war is not possible for rational men, he said. He declared it could send Western civilization down to ruin along with Russia.

Hinting that the development of even more fearsome weapons than the H-bomb may be in the offing, Truman told Congress:

"Recently, in the thermonuclear (hydrogen bomb) tests at Eniwetok, we have entered another stage in the world-shaking development of atomic energy.

"We have no reason to think that the stage we have now reached . . . will be the last. We are being hurried forward, in our mastery of the atom, from one discovery to another, toward yet unforseeable peaks of destructive power."

The President's 10,000-word message, read aloud by clerks in both houses of Congress and broadcast by radio throughout the world, drew a mixed reception on Capitol Hill.

Sen. George Praises

Sen. George (D-Ga) praised it as a "timely warning to Stalin." Sen. Ellender (D-La) said he hoped it foreshadowed "the time when we can serve an ultimatium on the Russians to halt the cold war and the war in Korea or fight."

Ellender added: "I hope we can do that late this year."

Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) commented that the handling of foreign policy under Truman had been "so full of error" that the Eisenhower administration is left "with the most dangerous foreign problem this country has ever faced."

The 68-year-old President, who retires to private life 13 days hence, broadly reviewed the years since the death of Franklin D. Roosevelt elevated him to the White House and picked out the following events as high-lighting his administration.

The end of World War II . . . the "great white flash of light" that "opened the doorway to the atomic age" . . . the post-war economic boom . . . the barriers "coming down" in matters involving civil rights . . . the war in Korea . . . and the Marshall Plan which he said is "changing the map of Europe in more hopeful ways that it has been changed for 500 years."

Named Assistant Defense Secretary

NEW YORK, Jan. 7 (AP) — President-elect Eisenhower today named John A. Hannah (above), president of Michigan State College, to replace Mrs. Anna Rosenberg as assistant secretary of defense in charge of manpower and personnel.

The 50-year-old educator, of East Lansing, Mich., is taking a leave of absence from the college to accept the appointment, it was announced by James C. Hagerty, press secretary to the President-elect.

Hannah, a Republican, will receive a salary of $15,000 a year in the post.

Four Men Killed In Tex. Gas Plant Explosion, Fire

SHERIDAN, Tex., Jan. 7 (AP)—Four men died today in a flame-spouting explosion of natural gas products they helped make in a giant plant here.

They were believed to have been inspecting fire fighting equipment when the blast and fire killed them.

Four men were injured—three in the explosion and one while fighting fire or carrying out rescue work—but none was badly hurt.

Two smaller explosions echoed the first roaring blast in the Shell Oil Company's plant. Flames immediately engulfed the main building. Oily, black smoke rolled in thick clouds from the 10-million-dollar plant.

Fire Under Control

For a time, more explosions were feared. The plant extracts a number of volatile products from natural gas. These include distillate, natural gasoline, normal butane, iso-butane and propane.

But the fire was brought under control about two hours after the first explosion, and late today it was being allowed to burn itself out while firemen stood by.

As nearly as company officials and observers could figure out, this is what happened to the sprawling Southeast Texas plant:

Spherical Tank Explodes

A 10-by-12 foot section blew out of a spherical, heavy steel tank used in the extraction process, called "fractioning." A spark leaped from the tank as the monster piece of shrapnel ripped through the adjoining building, where equipment and products were stored, and sailed on to land about 200 yards away after smashing a fence.

The volatile products roared into flame.

The dead men were believed to have been working under the spherical tank.

Bank Robber's Getaway Car Spotted By "Junior G-Man"

BERLIN, Conn., Jan. 7 (AP) — It happened just the way it does in story books.

Around 10-year-old Robert J. Bardoorian were clustered FBI agents, state policemen and Police Chief George J. Kanupka, all seeking a bandit who late yesterday robbed the New Britain National Bank's local branch of $25,650.

Beside the group, on the Old Berlin Turnpike, was a blue sedan.

"You see, I'm a junior G-man," said Robert, "and I've got a habit of noticing the numbers of cars. That's how I spotted this one. It's the getaway car the bandit that robbed the National Bank used. It's the one they've been looking for."

He wiped his sleeve across his nose.

"The way it happened, I was on my way home from school, and this car was parked here, and my house is over there" — he indicated a small white dwelling.

"I noticed the number and went into the house. My mother had the radio on and just then it came over the air — the number of this very car. I told my mother, I said call up Chief Kanupka. That's the hold-up car. That's the way it was."

"That's the way it was," agreed Chief Kanupka. "You've got a real policeman here."

Then Robert got his first real assignment. State Police Lt. Victor Clarke, pointing to the department's identification expert Lt. Frank Chameroy, said:

"Robert, you go with this policeman here and continue the investigation."

"Someone else said: "I'll bet Commissioner Edward J. Hickey will make you a state policeman."

Second Target Of Red Charge Quits U. N. Post

Zablodowsky Gives Up $10,800-Year Job

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Jan. 7 (AP)—Another high U. N. official quit his job today while under fire of a U. S. congressional inquiry into Communism.

He is David Zablodowsky, $10,800-a-year director of the documents and publications division, who admitted to the McCarran Senate subcommittee that he served with Whittaker Chambers in the Red underground during the 1930s.

His resignation followed by one day that of David Weintraub, director of the U. N. division of economic stability and development.

Save U. N. 'Embarrassment'

Both men said they quit to save the U. N. embarrassment. They were on a U. S. State Department list of 11 American U. N. employes labeled "Communists or under Communist discipline." A Senate internal security subcommittee published the list Jan. 1.

In a letter to Secretary General Trygve Lie, Zablodowsky said:

"Ever since the recent outbreak of sensational publicity given to certain events in my remote past, I have been as much concerned over the effects upon the United Nations as upon me personally. Though these events have been given an entirely unwarranted coloring by the climate of these times and though I know myself morally not to blame for being thus used to hurt the organization, I have perforce also known that it always lay in my power to relieve somewhat the pressure and embarrassment on the United Nations by voluntarily severing my relations with it.

Asserts His Loyalty

". . . I know myself to have been completely and unequivocally loyal" to both the U. S. government and the U. N. during 10 years of "faithful civil service."

Lie in his reply said:

"I am deeply appreciative of the motives which have prompted you to submit your resignation and I earnestaly hope that you will be able to overcome completely the difficulties now facing you.

". . . Your energy, enthusiasm and keen devotion to duty have long been an example to your colleagues in the Secretariat and your service will be sorely missed."

Of the 11 persons listed New Year's Day, one high ranking officer and eight minor employes remained on the U. N. payroll tonight.

Negro Slayer Gets Life Term

BEL AIR, Md., Jan. 7 (AP) — John Thomas Hill, 49-year-old Kent Island Negro, was sentenced to life imprisonment late today for the robbery-murder of an elderly Eastern Shore storekeeper.

The state had asked for a first degree verdict with capital punishment, but the jury, which deliberated about 50 minutes, returned a first degree verdict specifying no capital punishment.

Harford County Sheriff Raymond A. Fuller had commitment papers drawn up immediately and said he would try to deliver Hill to the penitentiary today.

The jury verdict made the life imprisonment sentence, pronounced by Judge Frederick Lee Cobourn, mandatory.

Hill was accused of being the leader of a six-man gang which attacked and robbed Winchester Smith, 72, in Smith's store at Willoughby in March, 1950.

Five other men who participated in the robbery-slaying are serving penitentiary terms for second-degree murder, but State Attorney Clayton O. Carter asked for a first-degree verdict against Hill on the grounds that he engineered the attack and struck the actual fatal blows.

Mrs. Vanderbilt Dies

NEW YORK, Jan. 7 (AP)—Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, for years the acknowledged leader of New York society's most exclusive circle, died tonight at her Fifth Avenue home.

She was the widow of Brig. Gen. Cornelius Vanderbilt III.

Sets Precedent

Mrs. Kimie Yanagawa, 38, El Paso, Tex., public school teacher who has lived in this country since she was six, is believed to be the first Japanese woman admitted to U. S. citizenship. She filed for declaration of intention five years ago and recently applied for citizenship under the McCarran Act, that became effective Dec. 24. Mrs. Yanagawa, naturalized in U. S. District Court this week, is shown with her son, Tamio, 12, who attended the ceremony.

Ike And Winston Hold Their Third Meeting

NEW YORK, Jan. 7 (AP)—Old friends Dwight Eisenhower and Winston Churchill tonight held their third private conference in as many days—an hour and a half talk which ended without a clue as to what was discussed.

The discussion between the British Prime Minister and the U. S. President-elect could hardly have failed, however, to include at least some of the mutual problems facing their two countries.

It took place at the Manhattan home of Financier Bernard Baruch, and was the last scheduled between them for the present. At its close, Churchill accompanied Eisenhower to the door.

"Informal" Sessions

An Eisenhower aide had said before the meeting that no statement was expected afterward. None had followed earlier talks between the two on Monday, the day of Churchill's arrival in this country en route to a Caribbean vacation.

World capitals have watched the meetings with interest, although the sessions have been labeled "informal" and Churchill said in advance there was nothing "extraordinary" about his seeing an old friend who will become president 13 days from now.

Churchill To Call On Truman

Churchill will fly to Washington tomorrow aboard the presidential plane, Independence, to make a courtesy call on President Truman before continuing on Friday to the British West Indies for a vacation.

Eisenhower, meanwhile, will lay plans for a pre-inauguration "dress rehearsal" meeting with his Cabinet and other top incoming Republican officials in New York Monday and Tuesday.

The two-day meeting will deal with domestic and foreign problems facing the new administration.

Former Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts, who will be United States ambassador to the United Nations, talked with Eisenhower for about an hour today and later told newsmen:

"Gen. Eisenhower is on top of the job in every way. He has a full grasp of the problems he is going to have to face."

Sabres Bag Red Jet, Damage Two

SEOUL, Thursday, Jan. 8 (AP) — U. S. Sabre jets scored three times Wednesday against Communist MIGs while swarms of bombers riddled the ragged enemy rail network and blew up 80 Red trucks along the roads.

The MIG-hunting Sabres swarmed to the mouth of the Yalu River —at the Manchurian frontier—before finding any Red jets. The Fifth Air Force said they knocked down one MIG and damaged two more.

Fighter-bombers protected by the Sabres ripped into enemy supply routes, inflicting 56 rail cuts. They concentrated on main lines in Northwest Korea, including the rail link between the Red capital of Pyongyang and its port of Chinnampo to the Southwest.

The Fifth Air Force reported the 80 Communist trucks were destroyed by twin-engine light bombers in pre-dawn strikes.

Ground action was quiet during the day Wednesday after small but bitter battles in the early morning hours before dawn.

GOP In Driver's Seat As Maryland Senate Demos Take Feud To Floor

ANNAPOLIS, Jan. 7 (AP) — Two evenly divided Democratic factions brought their tussle for control of the Senate to the floor tonight where a standoff developed with the Republicans being pushed into the driver's seat.

It was the first time in history of the Maryland General Assembly the party in power had been unable to agree in advance on leadership of the Senate.

The long-delayed attempt to organize the opening session of the Senate came at 9 p. m. and got no farther than a deadlock over election of a temporary president.

Sen. Kimble (R-Allegany), who conceivably could emerge the permanent president even though his party is in the minority, got 10 Republican votes and he abstained. The two Democratic candidates Sen. Dippel of Baltimore's Third District, and Sen. Preston of Baltimore's Fifth, each got eight votes. They each abstained, too.

Andrew Schaab, secretary serving as temporary chairman, ruled a majority of those voting, 14 in this case, was necessary for election. The Republicans promptly moved to recess.

The Democratic scrap is over the permanent presidency, held for two sessions by George W. Della (D-Balto 6th) and the two most important committee posts, Finance and Judiciary.

Nine senators lined up on each side and neither would budge after five hours of caucusing last night and most of today. They finally decided to fight it out in the open on the floor.

"Let the chips fall where they may," said Della. "We'll just see what happens."

He added in advance of the session that he "refused to make any deals with the Republicans if four Democrats want to join the Republicans and make one of them president, that's the way it will be."

The delay in organizing the Senate fouled up the General Assembly completely. The House was ready and waiting and so was Gov. McKeldin. The governor has a "State of the State" message ready to deliver whenever the two chambers can hold a joint session.

C-46 Carrying 37 Korea War Vets Missing

Down In Southeast Idaho Or Wyoming

SEATTLE, Jan. 7 (AP) — A chartered transport plane carrying 37 soldiers on the last long leg of their homeward trip from the Far East was missing today over mountainous country of Southeast Idaho or Wyoming.

All 37 passengers were veterans of the Korean campaign, returning on hard-earned rotation.

The Texas owners of the C-46 reported a crew of three was aboard—two officers and a stewardess — although flight officials here said they thought there was a crew of four.

The plane's destination was Ft. Jackson, S. C., where the soldiers were to be released for return to their homes in that region.

Fails To Reach Cheyenne

The plane failed to arrive at Cheyenne, Wyo., for a refueling stop at 5:15 a. m. Its gasoline would have been exhausted at dawn. It left Seattle shortly before midnight.

The big twin-engine transport's last radio report was from over Malad City, Idaho. There was no indication of any trouble. Malad City, in extreme Southeast Idaho, is 414 miles from Cheyenne.

Search operations were set up at Hill Air Force Base at Ogden, Utah, as a snow storm threatened.

Only One Faint Hope

The plane was one of about 15 which left Seattle during the night with troops who returned from Korea and Japan yesterday aboard the troop ship Marine Adder, which brought 3,169.

The only faint hope was that the plane might have landed, with radio out, on one of the small and isolated emergency fields along the rugged route.

Ft. Lawton authorities issued a passenger list showing all 37 of the servicemen were from North and South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama and Florida. The plane was from San Antonio, Tex.

A big snow storm is in the making in Western Wyoming, where the plane search is on.

German Reds Purge Jews

BERLIN, Jan. 7 (AP)—A full scale purge is now under way against the 2,700 Jews remaining in Communist-ruled East Germany, West Berlin Jews said today.

These informants reported Communist bosses, carrying out Kremlin orders, are driving the Jews out of public life. The action extends to Jews holding minor jobs in the nationalized economy and those who take part in community cultural affairs, they said.

Some East German Jews, who saw the handwriting on the wall, fled to West Berlin only a few days ago.

One of these was Dr. Leo Zuckerman, 50, director of a Communist law college at nearby Potsdam. Fearing threatened prosecution, he fled to West Berlin with his wife and two children.

Jewish circles here said that all party officers in East Germany were ordered by Moscow to start sweeping the Jews out.

The order became effective immediately after the Czechoslovak treason trial last fall in Prague. There, the one-time Communist boss of Czechoslovakia, Rudolf Slansky, a Jew himself, was executed along with 10 colleagues.

Liz Taylor And Her Baby Son Doing Fine

SANTA MONICA, Calif., Jan. 7 (AP)—Actress Elizabeth Taylor and her baby son were reported doing fine today, but there may be an amiable controversy brewing over his name.

A spokesman at Miss Taylor's studio said she has named the baby Michael although her husband, British Actor Michael Wilding, 39, has a belief one Michael in the family is enough.

The seven-pound, three-ounce baby was delivered by Caesarean section last midnight.

Danish Queen-To-Be?

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Jan. 7 (AP)—Princess Margrethe, pretty, vivacious, 12-year-old daughter of King Frederik IX, was named heir presumptive to the Danish throne today.

EXPLORER DIES — Mrs. Osa Johnson (above), 58, author and explorer, was found dead yesterday in her New York hotel suite, apparently the victim of a heart attack. She was the widow of the noted big game hunter and explorer, Martin Johnson.

Truman Warning Believed Based On "Hell Bomb"

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7 (INS)—Military observers believe tonight that President Truman's stark "peace or ruin" warning to Russia was based on U. S. possession of a successfully tested hydrogen superbomb.

The chief executive declared in his State of the Union message to Congress that the recent Eniwetok tests furthering development of the H-bomb hurled man into "a new era of destructive power."

The Atomic Energy Commission, entrusted with the nation's most dread secrets, has shrouded hydrogen bomb activity in an airtight security cloak, but the President made it clear that a weapon of terrifying magnitude is actually in being.

Believe H-Bomb Exploded

Close students of nuclear research are convinced:

1. That a prototype H-bomb was detonated at Eniwetok.

2. That the success of the experimental blast assures production of a whole arsenal of weapons which, as the President said, could "extinguish millions of lives at one blow, demolish the great cities of the world."

Mr. Truman's assertion that weapons even more terrifying than the "hell bomb" are inevitable pointed toward an atomic-hydro-cobalt device known to be under study in closely-guarded recesses of the Pentagon and in scientific laboratories.

Tons Of Radioactivity

Experts say that the explosion of such an almost fantastically lethal instrument would leave literally tons of death-dealing radioactivity in its wake.

The President's grimly graphic description of an atomic war which could "destroy the very structure of civilization" recalled the awed accounts of eyewitnesses who, in unauthorized letters, told of the Eniwetok blast last autumn.

Mr. Truman told Congress that new atomic weapons which the U. S. has produced "in substantial quantities" dwarf the "mushroom clouds of Hiroshima and Nagasaki," so far history's only targets for atomic attack.

Dixie Demos, GOP Team Up Against Curb

Republican Chiefs Pledge Later Try

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7 (AP) — Most Senate Republicans teamed with Democrats from the South today to kill a move to make it easier to shut off filibusters. The roll-call vote was 70-21.

Republican leaders promised an effort later in the session to go part of the way with the opponents of unending talk. The anti-filibuster forces replied that defeat of the current move would spell doom for any changes at all —and for any civil rights legislation such as fair employment practices or anti-lynching laws.

Old Southern Weapon

Senators from the South for years have been heading off legislation of that nature by simply talking — or threatening to talk — until the sponsors gave up hope of reaching a vote. A number of such bills have passed the House and been smothered in the Senate.

The proposal that lost today would have permitted 49 senators, a bare majority of the 96 members, to cut off debate on an issue and bring it to a vote. Under the present rule 22 of the Senate, that requires two-thirds of the membership, or 64.

Fourteen Democrats from the group who call themselves "liberals" were joined by four Republicans and Sen. Morse (Ind-Ore) who quit the Republican Party in the last presidential campaign, as sponsors of the rules change plan.

The sponsoring Republicans were Sens. Ives (NY), Tobey, (NH), Duff (Pa) and Hendrickson (NJ).

Coalition Still Real Power

On the roll call the sponsors picked up only two votes, both from new senators — Kuchel (R-Calif) and Symington (D-Mo).

The vote demonstrated that despite the change in majority control of Congress the real power still rests with much the same coalition of Republicans and Southern Democrats who have called the shots in the Senate for some years.

The count was 41 Republicans and 29 Democrats against the change, with 15 Democrats, five Republicans, and the lone independent, Morse of Oregon, on the losing side.

That accounted for 91 senators. A pair, Schoeppel (R-Kan) against the change and Magnuson (D-Wash) for it, accounted for two others.

The only senators not recorded were Kefauver (D-Tenn), Chavez (D-NM) and Griswold (R-Neb).

New York Bus Strike Peace Talks Collapse

NEW YORK, Jan. 7 (AP) — Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri and Council President Rudolph Halley sprang at each other over the bus strike today, as peace talks collapsed.

Both are potential candidates for mayor at next November's election. The week-old strike is against eight private bus lines in Manhattan, the Bronx and Queens.

Halley accused the mayor of "half baked accusations" and a double crossing lone wolf attempt to settle the strike that has idled busses carrying 2,300,000 fares a day.

Impellitteri retorted that Halley was engaged in "back door conferences" with the striking CIO Transport Workers union and was trying to promote a split in City Hall ranks.

Osa Johnson, 58, Explorer, Author, Dies In New York

Mrs. Johnson was found dead in her hotel suite by her attorney, who said she had been preparing to make another safari in Africa in about six weeks.

The attorney, John Crane, said Mrs. Johnson had been working day and night in preparation for the trip and probably "just worked herself out."

She apparently died of a heart attack, in a two-hour interval between a chat with a hotel maid and the attorney's visit.

Mrs. Johnson's famous husband died in an airplane crash in California in 1937, and she was badly hurt in the accident. But she gave more than 1,000 lectures from a wheelchair and later recovered from her injury, a shattered knee, to make another trip to Africa in the mid-1940s with a movie company on location.

Two years after Johnson's death, Mrs. Johnson secretly married a booking agent, Clark H. Getts, and in 1941 the marriage was publicly solemnized by New York's late Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia.

She got an uncontested divorce from Getts in Chicago in 1949 with permission to resume the name Johnson.

Mrs. Johnson was born Osa Helen Leighty at Chanute, Kan.

She was only 16 when she married Johnson and once said she had expected to settle in Chanute and "grow a couple of kids and a vegetable garden." Instead, she made countless jungle trips with him, helped film 17 movies, lectured and collaborated with him on many books about wild life.

Hill was accused of being the leader of a six-man gang which attacked and robbed Winchester Smith, 72, in Smith's store at Willoughby in March, 1950.

Five other men who participated in the robbery-slaying are serving penitentiary terms for second-degree murder, but State Attorney Clayton O. Carter asked for a first-degree verdict against Hill on the grounds that he engineered the attack and struck the actual fatal blows.

Bank Robber's Getaway Car Spotted By "Junior G-Man"

BERLIN, Conn., Jan. 7 (AP) — It happened just the way it does in story books.

Around 10-year-old Robert J. Bardoorian were clustered FBI agents, state policemen and Police Chief George J. Kanupka, all seeking a bandit who late yesterday robbed the New Britain National Bank's local branch of $25,650.

Beside the group, on the Old Berlin Turnpike, was a blue sedan.

"You see, I'm a junior G-man," said Robert, "and I've got a habit of noticing the numbers of cars. That's how I spotted this one. It's the getaway car the bandit that robbed the National Bank used. It's the one they've been looking for."

He wiped his sleeve across his nose.

"The way it happened, I was on my way home from school, and this car was parked here, and my house is over there" — he indicated a small white dwelling.

"I noticed the number and went into the house. My mother had the radio on and just then it came over the air — the number of this very car. I told my mother, I said call up Chief Kanupka. That's the hold-up car. That's the way it was."

"That's the way it was," agreed Chief Kanupka. "You've got a real policeman here."

Then Robert got his first real assignment. State Police Lt. Victor Clarke, pointing to the department's identification expert Lt. Frank Chameroy, said:

"Robert, you go with this policeman here and continue the investigation."

"Someone else said: "I'll bet Commissioner Edward J. Hickey will make you a state policeman."

Robert didn't answer, but his fine, sharp brown eyes danced, and his little jacket seemed hardly able to hold his swelling chest as he trudged off with Chameroy.

Mrs. Vanderbilt Dies

She was the widow of Brig. Gen. Cornelius Vanderbilt III.

Sets Precedent

Mrs. Kimie Yanagawa, 38, El Paso, Tex., public school teacher who has lived in this country since she was six, is believed to be the first Japanese woman admitted to U. S. citizenship. She filed for declaration of intention five years ago and recently applied for citizenship under the McCarran Act, that became effective Dec. 24. Mrs. Yanagawa, naturalized in U. S. District Court this week, is shown with her son, Tamio, 12, who attended the ceremony.

Ike And Winston Hold Their Third Meeting

NEW YORK, Jan. 7 (AP)—Old friends Dwight Eisenhower and Winston Churchill tonight held their third private conference in as many days—an hour and a half talk which ended without a clue as to what was discussed.

The discussion between the British Prime Minister and the U. S. President-elect could hardly have failed, however, to include at least some of the mutual problems facing their two countries.

It took place at the Manhattan home of Financier Bernard Baruch, and was the last scheduled between them for the present. At its close, Churchill accompanied Eisenhower to the door.

"Informal" Sessions

An Eisenhower aide had said before the meeting that no statement was expected afterward. None had followed earlier talks between the two on Monday, the day of Churchill's arrival in this country en route to a Caribbean vacation.

World capitals have watched the meetings with interest, although the sessions have been labeled "informal" and Churchill said in advance there was nothing "extraordinary" about his seeing an old friend who will become president 13 days from now.

Churchill To Call On Truman

Churchill will fly to Washington tomorrow aboard the presidential plane, Independence, to make a courtesy call on President Truman before continuing on Friday to the British West Indies for a vacation.

Eisenhower, meanwhile, will lay plans for a pre-inauguration "dress rehearsal" meeting with his Cabinet and other top incoming Republican officials in New York Monday and Tuesday.

The two-day meeting will deal with domestic and foreign problems facing the new administration.

Former Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts, who will be United States ambassador to the United Nations, talked with Eisenhower for about an hour today and later told newsmen:

"Gen. Eisenhower is on top of the job in every way. He has a full grasp of the problems he is going to have to face."

Sabres Bag Red Jet, Damage Two

SEOUL, Thursday, Jan. 8 (AP) — U. S. Sabre jets scored three times Wednesday against Communist MIGs while swarms of bombers riddled the ragged enemy rail network and blew up 80 Red trucks along the roads.

The MIG-hunting Sabres swarmed to the mouth of the Yalu River —at the Manchurian frontier—before finding any Red jets. The Fifth Air Force said they knocked down one MIG and damaged two more.

Fighter-bombers protected by the Sabres ripped into enemy supply routes, inflicting 56 rail cuts. They concentrated on main lines in Northwest Korea, including the rail link between the Red capital of Pyongyang and its port of Chinampo to the Southwest.

The Fifth Air Force reported the 80 Communist trucks were destroyed by twin-engine light bombers in pre-dawn strikes.

GOP In Driver's Seat As Maryland Senate Demos Take Feud To Floor

ANNAPOLIS, Jan. 7 (AP) — Two evenly divided Democratic factions brought their tussle for control of the Senate to the floor tonight where a standoff developed with the Republicans being pushed into the driver's seat.

It was the first time in history of the Maryland General Assembly the party in power had been unable to agree in advance on leadership of the Senate.

The long-delayed attempt to organize the opening session of the Senate came at 9 p. m. and got no farther than a deadlock over election of a temporary president.

Sen. Kimble (R-Allegany), who conceivably could emerge the permanent president even though his party is in the minority, got 10 Republican votes and he abstained. The two Democratic candidates Sen. Dippel of Baltimore's Third District, and Sen. Preston of Baltimore's Fifth, each got eight votes. They each abstained, too.

Andrew Schaab, secretary serving as temporary chairman, ruled a majority of those voting, 14 in this case, was necessary for election. The Republicans promptly moved to recess.

The Democratic scrap is over the permanent presidency, held for two sessions by George W. Della (D-Balto 6th) and the two most important committee posts, Finance and Judiciary.

Nine senators lined up on each side and neither would budge after five hours of caucusing last night and most of today. They finally decided to fight it out in the open on the floor.

"Let the chips fall where they may," said Della. "We'll just see what happens."

He added in advance of the session that he "refused to make any deals with the Republicans if four Democrats want to join the Republicans and make one of them president, that's the way it will be."

The delay in organizing the Senate fouled up the General Assembly completely. The House was ready and waiting and so was Gov. McKeldin. The governor has a "State of the State" message ready to deliver whenever the two chambers can hold a joint session.

C-46 Carrying 37 Korea War Vets Missing

Down In Southeast Idaho Or Wyoming

SEATTLE, Jan. 7 (AP) — A chartered transport plane carrying 37 soldiers on the last long leg of their homeward trip from the Far East was missing today over mountainous country of Southeast Idaho or Wyoming.

All 37 passengers were veterans of the Korean campaign, returning on hard-earned rotation.

The Texas owners of the C-46 reported a crew of three was aboard—two officers and a stewardess — although flight officials here said they thought there was a crew of four.

The plane's destination was Ft. Jackson, S. C., where the soldiers were to be released for return to their homes in that region.

Fails To Reach Cheyenne

The plane failed to arrive at Cheyenne, Wyo., for a refueling stop at 5:15 a. m. Its gasoline would have been exhausted at dawn. It left Seattle shortly before midnight.

The big twin-engine transport's last radio report was from over Malad City, Idaho. There was no indication of any trouble. Malad City, in extreme Southeast Idaho, is 414 miles from Cheyenne.

Search operations were set up at Hill Air Force Base at Ogden, Utah, as a snow storm threatened.

Only One Faint Hope

The plane was one of about 15 which left Seattle during the night with troops who returned from Korea and Japan yesterday aboard the troop ship Marine Adder, which brought 3,169.

The only faint hope was that the plane might have landed, with radio out, on one of the small and isolated emergency fields along the rugged route.

Ft. Lawton authorities issued a passenger list showing all 37 of the servicemen were from North and South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama and Florida. The plane was from San Antonio, Tex.

A big snow storm is in the making in Western Wyoming, where the plane search is on.

German Reds Purge Jews

BERLIN, Jan. 7 (AP)—A full scale purge is now under way against the 2,700 Jews remaining in Communist-ruled East Germany, West Berlin Jews said today.

These informants reported Communist bosses, carrying out Kremlin orders, are driving the Jews out of public life. The action extends to Jews holding minor jobs in the nationalized economy and those who take part in community cultural affairs, they said.

Some East German Jews, who saw the handwriting on the wall, fled to West Berlin only a few days ago.

One of these was Dr. Leo Zuckerman, 50, director of a Communist law college at nearby Potsdam. Fearing threatened prosecution, he fled to West Berlin with his wife and two children.

Jewish circles here said that all party officers in East Germany were ordered by Moscow to start sweeping the Jews out.

The order became effective immediately after the Czechoslovak treason trial last fall in Prague. There, the one-time Communist boss of Czechoslovakia, Rudolf Slansky, a Jew himself, was executed along with 10 colleagues.

Liz Taylor And Her Baby Son Doing Fine

SANTA MONICA, Calif., Jan. 7 (AP)—Actress Elizabeth Taylor and her baby son were reported doing fine today, but there may be an amiable controversy brewing over his name.

A spokesman at Miss Taylor's studio said she has named the baby Michael although her husband, British Actor Michael Wilding, 39, has a belief one Michael in the family is enough.

The seven-pound, three-ounce baby was delivered by Caesarean section last midnight.

Truman Warning Believed Based On "Hell Bomb"

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7 (INS)—Military observers believe tonight that President Truman's stark "peace or ruin" warning to Russia was based on U. S. possession of a successfully tested hydrogen superbomb.

The chief executive declared in his State of the Union message to Congress that the recent Eniwetok tests furthering development of the H-bomb hurled man into "a new era of destructive power."

The Atomic Energy Commission, entrusted with the nation's most dread secrets, has shrouded hydrogen bomb activity in an airtight security cloak, but the President made it clear that a weapon of terrifying magnitude is actually in being.

Believe H-Bomb Exploded

Close students of nuclear research are convinced:

1. That a prototype H-bomb was detonated at Eniwetok.

2. That the success of the experimental blast assures production of a whole arsenal of weapons which, as the President said, could "extinguish millions of lives at one blow, demolish the great cities of the world."

Mr. Truman's assertion that weapons even more terrifying than the "hell bomb" are inevitable pointed toward an atomic-hydrocobalt device known to be under study in closely-guarded recesses of the Pentagon and in scientific laboratories.

Tons Of Radioactivity

Experts say that the explosion of such an almost fantastically lethal instrument would leave literally tons of death-dealing radioactivity in its wake.

The President's grimly graphic description of an atomic war which could "destroy the very structure of civilization" recalled the awed accounts of eyewitnesses who, in unauthorized letters, told of the Eniwetok blast last autumn.

Mr. Truman told Congress that new atomic weapons which the U. S. has produced "in substantial quantities" dwarf the "mushroom clouds of Hiroshima and Nagasaki," so far history's only targets for atomic attack.

Dixie Demos, GOP Team Up Against Curb

Republican Chiefs Pledge Later Try

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7 (AP) — Most Senate Republicans teamed with Democrats from the South today to kill a move to make it easier to shut off filibusters. The roll-call vote was 70-21.

Republican leaders promised an effort later in the session to go part of the way with the opponents of unending talk. The anti-filibuster forces replied that defeat of the current move would spell doom for any changes at all —and for any civil rights legislation such as fair employment practices or anti-lynching laws.

Old Southern Weapon

Senators from the South for years have been heading off legislation of that nature by simply talking — or threatening to talk — until the sponsors gave up hope of reaching a vote. A number of such bills have passed the House and been smothered in the Senate.

The proposal that lost today would have permitted 49 senators, a bare majority of the 96 members, to cut off debate on an issue and bring it to a vote. Under the present rule 22 of the Senate, that requires two-thirds of the membership, or 64.

Fourteen Democrats from the group who call themselves "liberals" were joined by four Republicans and Sen. Morse (Ind-Ore) who quit the Republican Party in the last presidential campaign, as sponsors of the rules change plan.

The sponsoring Republicans were Sens. Ives (NY), Tobey, (NH), Duff (Pa) and Hendrickson (NJ).

Coalition Still Real Power

On the roll call the sponsors picked up only two votes, both from new senators — Kuchel (R-Calif) and Symington (D-Mo).

The vote demonstrated that despite the change in majority control of Congress the real power still rests with much the same coalition of Republicans and Southern Democrats who have called the shots in the Senate for some years.

The count was 41 Republicans and 29 Democrats against the change, with 15 Democrats, five Republicans, and the lone independent, Morse of Oregon, on the losing side.

That accounted for 91 senators. A pair, Schoeppel (R-Kan) against the change and Magnuson (D-Wash) for it, accounted for two others.

The only senators not recorded were Kefauver (D-Tenn), Chavez (D-NM) and Griswold (R-Neb).

New York Bus Strike Peace Talks Collapse

NEW YORK, Jan. 7 (AP) — Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri and Council President Rudolph Halley sprang at each other over the bus strike today, as peace talks collapsed.

Both are potential candidates for mayor at next November's election. The week-old strike is against eight private bus lines in Manhattan, the Bronx and Queens.

Halley accused the mayor of "half baked accusations" and a double crossing lone wolf attempt to settle the strike that has idled busses carrying 2,300,000 fares a day.

Impellitteri retorted that Halley was engaged in "back door conferences" with the striking CIO Transport Workers union and was trying to promote a split in City Hall ranks.

Osa Johnson, 58, Explorer, Author, Dies In New York

NEW YORK, Jan. 7 (AP)—Osa Johnson, 58-year-old author and explorer who with her late husband, Martin Johnson, filmed wild animals and natives in many remote parts of the world, died today.

Mrs. Johnson was found dead in her hotel suite by her attorney, who said she had been preparing to make another safari in Africa in about six weeks.

The attorney, John Crane, said Mrs. Johnson had been working day and night in preparation for the trip and probably "just worked herself out."

She apparently died of a heart attack, in a two-hour interval between a chat with a hotel maid and the attorney's visit.

Mrs. Johnson's famous husband died in an airplane crash in California in 1937, and she was badly hurt in the accident. But she gave more than 1,000 lectures from a wheelchair and later recovered from her injury, a shattered knee, to make another trip to Africa in the mid-1940s with a movie company on location.

Two years after Johnson's death, Mrs. Johnson secretly married a booking agent, Clark H. Getts, and in 1941 the marriage was publicly solemnized by New York's late Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia.

She got an uncontested divorce from Getts in Chicago in 1949 with permission to resume the name Johnson.

Mrs. Johnson was born Osa Helen Leighty at Chanute, Kan.

She was only 16 when she married Johnson and once said she had expected to settle in Chanute and "grow a couple of kids and a vegetable garden." Instead, she made countless jungle trips with him, helped film 17 movies, lectured and collaborated with him on many books about wild life.

Army Orders Flu Shots For Troops

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7 (AP) — The Army has ordered immediate vaccination for all United Nations troops in Korea and American forces in Europe in a move to offset the threat of widespread influenza.

The Army plans to jab every man as soon as possible, even if it has to rouse some from their sleep.

Air-lifting of supplies of vaccine from this country to Korea has already begun—and the first planes consigned for Europe were to take off tonight from St. Louis.

The action was taken, the Army said, following "sporadic" outbreaks of apparent flu among rearline troops in Korea and "important" outbreaks of definitely diagnosed flu among troops in various parts of Europe, especially Germany.

The ailments are relatively mild and there have been no deaths, the Army said.

Churchill Visits His Mother's Birthplace

NEW YORK, Jan. 7 (AP)—Winston Churchill took time out today from considerations of global problems to make his first visit to the birthplace of his American mother in Brooklyn.

Britain's doughty prime minister told a crowd assembled outside the remodelled old brownstone house at 426 Henry Street, Brooklyn, that he had found it "a very moving occasion."

Churchill thus finally put his own seal of approval on Brooklyn as the birthplace of Jennie Jerome who became Lady Randolph Churchill. Rochester, N. Y., had also put in a claim as the city where the celebrated beauty of another era had been born.

Snow Forecast Promises Baltimore More Trouble

BALTIMORE, Jan. 7 (AP)—Badgered Baltimoreans eyed jam-packed garbage pails today, then turned with misgiving to a weather forecast which promised fresh trouble in the seventh day of a strike of city employes.

A series of storm centers from all parts of the country will begin moving into Maryland tonight with rain and maybe snow, the Weather Bureau announced.

The city employes who normally would be out to clean the streets of any snow covering are among the manual workers who walked out Jan. 1 over an unmet wage demand.

Residents of the nation's sixth largest city still remember the snowfall last year which tied up transportation so completely that hundreds of downtown workers were forced to spend the night in the city. And there was no strike on then.

The cold weather, however, provided sufficient refrigeration to keep the health problem at a minimum, and make-shift incinerators and mechanical garbage disposals were being worked on an overtime basis.

The big experiment of school by television was under expansion with more classes being planned to offset the closing of 107 of the city's 174 schools. Dr. John H. Fischer, assistant superintendent of schools, said 67 buildings were open today since all of the janitors and engineers who keep the heating plants in operation are not striking union members.

Acheson Sees No End To State Dept. Attacks

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7 (AP)—Secretary of State Acheson in a farewell speech to American diplomats predicted today that "wicked, unfounded" criticisms of the State Department would continue under President-elect Eisenhower's administration.

"In my judgment, once something really evil is let loose in the world it can not be eradicated overnight without patience and effort," he said.

Acheson lashed out at State Department critics in a closed-door luncheon given in his honor by the State Department's Foreign Service Association.

State Senator Plans Truck Pullover Bill

ANNAPOLIS, Jan. 7 (AP)—Sen. McLaughlin (R-Wash) wants to make is mandatory for trucks to pull over to the extreme right of a highway when they are toiling slowly up steep hills.

McLaughlin expects to introduce such a bill in the General Assembly.

Police and trucking firms are conducting educational campaigns to get drivers to pull over to the right when they are going up hills, McLaughlin said, but there still are many drivers who hog the road.

Victim Of Ax Attack Dies; Negro Quizzed

TOWSON, Md., Jan. 7 (AP)—Baltimore County police today continued to grill a Trenton, N. J., negro in the ax killing of 65-year-old nurse-employe of a prominent old Maryland family.

Police arrested the 35-year-old man yesterday, but as yet have filed no charges and refuse to disclose his identity.

The victim, Mrs. Jesse Potter Stockton, died in a Baltimore hospital today.

Mrs. Stockton was brutally beaten by an ax-wielding burglar early Tuesday in a rambling 20-room home in Pikesville.

Mother Is Absolved In Rat Bite Death Of Her Baby Girl

DENTON, Md., Jan. 7 (AP) — A young mother was absolved today of negligence in the horrible rat bite death of her baby girl.

Two judges found Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Seigler, 22, could not reasonably have been expected to foresee the attack upon 5-month-old Kathryn Ann Seigler on Dec. 4.

Nor, said the judges, was it shown beyond a reasonable doubt that it was Mrs. Seigler's fault the little girl was weak and undernourished.

The judges ordered a directed verdict of acquittal on the manslaughter charges brought against the mother when an autopsy showed the primary cause of the baby's death was malnutrition.

Kathryn Ann had been born two months premature in Florida, where her soldier father was stationed at the time.

When the father was transferred to New Jersey he was desperate for a place for his wife and two children to live. He sent them to his mother, whom he had not seen since he left home years ago. He did not know it was a hovel his mother and step-father lived in at the east edge of Denton.

Many Taxpayers Will Face Double Obligation Jan. 15

By FRANCIS J. KELLY

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Several million taxpayers face a double obligation to the federal tax collector soon.

Jan. 15 is the deadline for filing amended estimates of income taxes for 1952, and also for paying the final installment on estimated taxes for last year.

You won't have to bother about an amended estimate, however, if you file your regular 1952 tax return and pay the tax due by Jan. 15. An amended estimate is needed only if your previous estimate was off more than 20 per cent from actual income.

The big majority of U. S. taxpayers are wage-earners, most of whom are not required to file tax estimates. Most of the estimates come from persons in business for themselves, or from those with considerable investments.

Tax estimates are required from wage earners only if:

1. Their wages were not subject to withholding last year.

2. They have more than $100 income apart from their wages from which taxes were withheld. Examples of such income are rents received, dividends on stock, or profit from the sale of property such as an automobile or securities. (In the latter case, only half of the profit is taxable if the property was bought more than six months before its sale.)

3. If their 1952 wages subject to withholding tax were more than $4,500 plus $600 for each exemption, which figures out $5,100 for a single person or $6,900 for a married man with two children.

Farmers do not have to make an advance estimate or taxes due if they file their 1952 returns and pay their taxes by Jan. 31. In writing this provision into the law, Congress took into consideration the fact that many crops are harvested late in the year and the farmer isn't sure what his production is going to be until he gets it into the barn.

The tax estimate forms—Form 1040-ES—may be obtained from the director of internal revenue for the district in which you live. Your postoffice or bank can give you the address.

Congress And Investigations

The success of the Eisenhower program in the 83rd Congress is bound to depend to some extent on how well the leaders "downtown" — that is, immediately around the President — manage to keep Senate and House leaders from devoting their energies to investigations at the expense of new legislation.

"The whole matter of investigations," Senator Taft declared on December 31, "involves an important policy question and should be referred to the (Republican) Policy Committee, at least for its recommendations." And on December 15, Rep. Martin (R., Mass.), now speaker of the House, said he thought Congress should put the emphasis on legislation rather than investigation.

"The people want us to enact a constructive legislation program," Martin told an interviewer. "That should receive our first attention." But Martin said he was in favor of continuing the House investigations of the Justice and Treasury Departments and of the Internal Revenue Bureau.

Logically, the GOP will want to continue investigations to substantiate its campaign charges of corruption in the Truman administration. Much of this work will be done by the House Committee on Government Operations, headed by Representative Hoffman (R., Mich.). Probing in somewhat the same field will be a House Ways and Means subcommittee headed by Representative Kean (R., N.J.). The Alien Property office is under scrutiny by a Senate subcommittee.

But Senator McCarthy (R., Wis.) has indicated that his Senate Government Operations Committee and its permanent investigations subcommittee will look into a wide range of government and non-government activities. On December 2 McCarthy said he had received complaints about tax settlements made by the Internal Revenue Bureau, also about "tremendous waste" in the Mutual Security Agency. McCarthy also has indicated an interest in possible "favoritism" in the Federal Communications Commission.

Moreover McCarthy declared, December 29, that one of his first activities will be an investigation of subversive influences or "Communist thinkers" in colleges and universities. Also interested in Communist infiltration of colleges—and labor unions—is Representative Velde (R., Ill.), new chairman of the House Un-American Activities Committee. And investigation of Communist activity in general will presumably be continued by the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee under Senator Ferguson (R., Mich.).

The American system of governmental checks and balances gives Congress the logical role of inquiring into the conduct or policies of the executive branch. However, there are wide differences of opinion as to the advantages of congressional inquiries into broader questions. Thus Senator Kefauver in the Senate on April 24, 1951, a week before he relinquished the chairmanship of the Crime Investigating Committee, said, "The work of a legislative investigating committee is for the purpose of obtaining facts upon which to make legislative recommendations, and . . . there is no justification for an investigating committee's continuing forever, unless there are certain facts which it can investigate and which would be of assistance in proposing legislation."

Investigations took so much of the time and energy of congressional leaders in 1951 that the legislative output of Congress in that year fell far short of the output of other recent Congresses. And in 1952 investigative activities, plus the normal election-year political activities of members, made for difficulty in maintaining quorums.

Single Money Bill

Another way for Congress to save billions, says Senator Byrd, would be to consolidate all the regular appropriations bill into one omnibus bill. The Virginia Democrat intends to press for the plan again in the new Congress. He says it would give Congress a better picture of how much money it was voting altogether.

Executive requests could be more fairly and intelligently pruned, Byrd insists, whereas under the present system of 10 separate regular bills, the ones enacted early usually show less cutting than the ones enacted late. A consolidated bill is supposed also to minimize duplication, log-rolling for special projects, and legislation ("riders") that doesn't belong in money bills.

Opponents of the one-package bill argue that it would prevent a President from heading off pork-barrel items, because he could hardly veto an omnibus bill whereas he could veto separate bills with unjustifiable sections. The opposition insists that log-rolling and local favoritism would be harder to detect, or at least oppose, in one huge all-inclusive bill, and that members of Congress couldn't give individual items as careful scrutiny as they can give those in separate bills.

The omnibus bill idea was followed in 1950. The measure carrying all regular appropriations was finally passed almost two months after the new fiscal year had opened, delayed to some extent by the outbreak of hostilities in Korea in late June. In 1951 the Senate was willing to try the experiment again, but House sentiment was against it, so Congress returned to the old system.

TV And College Football

One of the most explosive issues before the annual meeting of the National Collegiate Athletic Association opening in Washington today will be the association's policy on television. The NCAA's 10-man television committee is expected to recommend that telecasts of college football be limited in 1953, as in the past, to one previously designated game each week.

But Notre Dame, advocating unrestricted televising of football games, has served notice that the fight will be taken to the floor. "We don't think any one should dictate to us whether we can or cannot televise our football games," Ed Krause, athletic director of "The Irish," has declared. Agreeing with Krause are athletic directors of some other football powers—notably the University of Pennsylvania—and, oddly enough, U. S. government attorneys.

The government is prosecuting the National (professional) Football League under the anti-trust laws for the league's system of restricted television. The case is scheduled to come up for trial in Philadelphia on January 26. A brief colloquy at the opening of the suit against the pros disclosed the Justice Department attitude on college games and television.

The judge asked the prosecuting attorney whether the government argument on restricted TV coverage of professional football would apply to college games. The reply was that it would.

Eradicating Varicose Veins

Treatment of varicose veins has undergone many radical changes in the last quarter of a century. At one time they were eliminated thru a series of mutilating operations. This plan was abandoned in favor of the injection method but in more recent years our surgeons obtained better results if injections were combined with tying off the large vein in the groin. This procedure is popular still but we are hearing more and more about a process in which the involved vein is eliminated entirely via stripping.

When varicosities lead to congestion they are likely to cause a feeling of fullness or a tired, heavy sensation of the legs, particularly after standing. Swelling of the ankles also may arise after being up and about thru the day. Sitting with the legs elevated brings relief. Pain is unusual and when it coexists is traceable generally to other circulatory disturbances or an arthritic condition of the knee, hip, or back.

Varicose veins are more than a simple dilatation of the passageways. It is the duty of normal veins to return blood from the tissues to the heart. Their function can be likened to a branched system of channels extending from the floor to the chest. With each contraction of the heart, the blood is propelled upward. But what happens between beats when no force is exerted? Does the blood fall back into the leg? This is exactly what would occur if it were not for the small oneway valves that allow the circulation to go up but not down. The situation is comparable to a series of channel locks, each opening in turn to allow a boat to go upstream.

But when the outer wall of one of these structures stretches the locks no longer meet snugly and leakage occurs. The blood flow is uphill but between beats it recedes. This is the principal fault of the varicose vein. When the wall dilates, the valve no longer fits and more and more blood is left behind to produce congestion in the feet. This takes place only among the surface veins because the deeper structures are protected by powerful muscles.

These facts are mentioned to demonstrate why it is important to eliminate varicosities. The circulation will continue to be impaired as long as the nonfunctioning veins remain. Moreover, there are hundreds of other veins to take over their duties and to do a good job. In the injection treatment, an irritating solution was introduced directly into the affected vein. This produced a chemical reaction that was followed by clot formation and obliteration of the blood vessel. But the desired effect was not always obtained, hence the usefulness of this method is limited.

Litigation is more helpful. Here the vein is tied off in the groin and occasionally this is done just below the knee to bring about permanent blockage of the passageway. To the novice, this arrangement may sound ideal but there are so many side roads that complete blockage may be impossible as blood will find a pathway to get thru. This defect has led to more research and the medical profession has come up with the stripping plan. The individual is anesthetized and two or three small incisions are made along the course of the vericose vein. A wire-like stripper is passed thru an opening in the vein at the level of the knee, down to the ankle and here it is anchored. The wire is then pulled out and with it comes a long strip of vein. This eliminates the passageway entirely without producing long, unsightly scars.

TOMORROW: Gasless gas symptoms.

VITAMINS AND NERVOUSNESS

L. P. writes: Will taking vitamins help nervousness?

REPLY

No, because there is no type of nervousness brought on by a deficiency of vitamins. On the other hand, if nervousness results from lack of energy and pep, improvement may follow when vitamins have a tonic effect.

SURGERY OF BRONCHI

L. F. writes: Is there an operation to help sufferers from chronic bronchitis?

REPLY

This depends upon the cause. In bronchiectasis, for example, surgical removal of the involved lobes is possible and the same can be said when bronchitis is associated with abscesses or pressure on the bronchial tubes from tumor or enlarged thyroid.

MAY PROVE BURDENSOME

R. L. writes: Is it safe to marry a man who has been told he has schizophrenia?

REPLY

It is safe but at this time it may not be the thing to do. Marriage increases a man's responsibilities and his condition might be aggravated by this added burden.

CANCER DEATHS

F. D. writes: At what age do the majority of deaths from cancer occur?

REPLY

The death toll from cancer is greatest in the 65-74 age group, followed in order by the 55-65 age group, 75 and over, and the 45-54 year olds.

Key McCarthy Witness Flew Out Of The Country; Sen. Rayburn Gives Demos Fighting Pep Talk; Bolivian Pilot Boasts Of Killing 55 Americans

WASHINGTON—One of the most sensational aspects of the McCarthy investigation was not known even to the Senate Elections Committee members themselves. It was the sudden flight from the U. S. of a key witness and friend of McCarthy's — wealthy divorcee Arvilla Bentley.

Mrs. Bentley, formerly married to the new GOP congressman from Michigan, Alvin Bentley, skipped out of the country under the assumed name of Mary Peterson. Reason for her hurried exit was because she had officially given $7,000 to McCarthy, which is more than the legal limit; in addition to which she told friends that she and her ex-husband had actually given around $75,000.

Naturally, she didn't want to be cross-examined by the Senate Elections Committee.

Mrs. Bentley is a society lady living next door to Averill Harriman on swank Foxhall Road in Washington. For a time her husband was in the State Department. For a time also, both he and Mrs. Bentley were great friends of McCarthy's. Now divorced, she is still a friend.

When the Senate Elections Committee got hold of some of Mrs. Bentley's canceled checks, they telephoned her, asked to see her. But she flew the coop before a subpoena could be served. Boarding an Eastern Airlines plane at 1 a. m. Nov. 28, she arrived in Miami, transferred to Pan American Airlines, and arrived in Nassau that afternoon

Meanwhile, her Washintgon lawyer, Joseph Rafferty, claimed he didn't know where she was, though actually she was in touch with him and asked him to get certain records of canceled checks from the Riggs National Bank.

Mrs. Bentley was escorted to the Bahamas by a professional ex-Communist, Harvey Matusow, who then returned to New York, but flew back to the Bahamas after the storm had blown over in order to pick her up and escort her back to Washington.

It was $10,000 of Mr. and Mrs. Bentley's money given to McCarthy that the Senate Elections Committee found was carefully withdrawn by Jean Kerr, his secretary, then deposited through circuitous channels in Wisconsin where it was used to speculate on soy beans.

Congressman Bentley, when interviewed by the Senate Elections Committee, emphatically stated that he had not given the money to McCarthy to be used by him personally.

Sam Rayburn Fights

Sam Rayburn, the redoubtable Texan who celebrated his 71st birthday this week, was heartbroken when the Democrats lost last November. For a time he was determined to resign from Congress altogether and retire to Bonham, Texas, where he is building a library to house his books, the records of some 20 Congresses, and the gavels he has wielded when Churchill, the Queen of England, MacArthur, Eisenhower et al. addressed Congress.

But his old friend and brother-in-law, Judge Marvin Jones of Amarillo, finally cheered Sam up, persuaded him not to resign. And the other day, when Sam stepped down as speaker and took the humble position of minority leader, he delivered a fighting pep talk to the closed-door session of House Democrats.

"The recent election was not a victory for the Republican party," declared the ex-speaker. "All it demonstrated was that a nationally advertised product, whose place in the sun was made possible largely by two Democratic Presidents, is the national hero he's cracked up to be.

"It was a personal victory for Eisenhower rather than the Republican party.

"Aside from Ike's 'great personal popularity with the peaple'," Rayburn continues, "I don't think 40 years in the military service automatically qualifies a man for the most important civil job in the land, any more than my 40 years in legislative work qualifies me to be a military leader.

"But I hope the general will learn fast, that he will take advice and that he will get good advice."

Boastful Bolivian

Eric Rios Bridoux, the Bolivian pilot who crashed into an Eastern Airlines plane, killing 55 persons near the Washington airport three years ago, almost made the headlines again last week.

Two Air Force officers nearly swung on the brash young Bolivian as he boasted about the tragic accident at the young mens' store on F Street in Washington. Bridoux, who was charged with responsibility by the Civil Aeronautics Board, apparently became irked at a shoe clerk for not recognizing him.

"Why, I thought everybody knew me," the pilot arrogantly told the clerk. "I'm famous. I was involved in the biggest air accident Washington ever had. It was my plane that collided with that airliner several years ago, killing 55 people."

When the clerk remarked that the tragedy was hardly a matter to brag or joke about, Bridoux laughingly replied:

"Oh, accidents will happen."

The two Air Force officers who overheard Bridoux sounding off were as shocked and angry as employes in the store, but decided not to spoil their Christmas leave by socking the crude pilot.

The Taft Leadership

The unanimous election of Senator Robert A. Taft as floor leader of the Republican party should put an end to the rumors, reports, guesses and prognostications of antipathy between Mr. Republican and Mr. President. Taft and Eisenhower get along remarkably well, considering that they are both strong men with developed and mature points of view.

Taft's leadership within the Republican party cannot be questioned. It has been acknowledged time after time by his colleagues in the Senate and House of Representatives. It is important to recall that he was defeated in his candidacy for the Presidency not because he was regarded as unsuited but because it was assumed that he could not be elected. Daniel Webster and Henry Clay suffered from the same assumption without any question as to their ability.

The task of the floor leader is to carry through to success the legislative program of his party. When that party has an incumbent in the White House, the legislative program is composed by the President and his cabinet as well as by members of the Congress. The floor leader, in those circumstances, has to reconcile differences which are inevitable in our form of government.

In the British system, the legislative program of the prime minister and his cabinet is the platform of the party in power and is rarely contested by members of Parliament of that party. The prime minister sits in Parliament and is actually the floor leader.

In the United States, this system does not prevail. Each member of the Senate or the House is elected by his own constituency. He is not obligated to follow the President or the floor leader. The President holds the whip of patronage; the floor leader depends upon parliamentary skill and personal prestige.

Since 1937, our Congress has been in revolt against the growing power of the President. From 1933 to 1937, Franklin D. Roosevelt was able to use Congress as though he were a British prime minister. He sent to Congress "must" legislation, prepared not by the committees of Congress but by his own draftsmen, such as Thomas Corcoran and Benjamin Cohen. For instance, the National Labor Relations Act was not prepared by Senator Wagner, whose name it bears, but by a group of young lawyers, headed by Lee Pressman, a Communist. The court packing bill brought that era to an end. The Congress rebelled, resisting the President and defeating the bill.

Since then, Congress has been seeking ways to enforce the separation of powers in accordance with the Constitution. Roosevelt's quarantine speech in 1937 arrested a revolt against the appointment of Hugo Black to the Supreme Court. Since then foreign affairs, including the major war of our history, have absorbed the attention of Congress and strengthened the executive.

Nevertheless, Harry Truman found that no Congress would work with him on his own terms. Only one of his Congresses, the 80th, was Republican; yet, it is a fact that Truman failed to find the 79th, 81st and 82nd Congresses cooperative with the President's conception of his office. In fact, Truman conceived the doctrine that the Presidency possessed "inherent powers,"—a concept that went to court and was duly thrown out by Judge David Pine in a leading decision.

The powers of the President, according to the Constitution, are few and limited. Most of the powers of the President are legislated by Congress, either in the form of mandatory functions designated to executive departments or delegated to the President by Congress from its own constitutional authority. No act of Congress is permanent in the sense that a provision of the Constitution is permanent. An act of one Congress may be amended or rescinded by another.

During the Truman administration, Congress has been step by step recapturing its authority from the executive. The Democrats have taken the lead in this. Many of the investigations instituted by Democratic senators and representatives, while perhaps not designed to weaken the executive branch of government, have served to restore the constitutional rights of Congress.

The leadership of Robert A. Taft in the Senate will have the political effect of strengthening the Eisenhower administration. A President is only as competent as he is serviced. No man can carry the whole load himself.

When the President's relations with Congress are proper, the government runs smoothly. If either side usurps the authority of the other, confusion sets in.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — The unlimited right to smear seems to have been firmly upheld by a subcommittee of three from the Senate Committee on Elections—but the right is extended apparently not to the public but only to members of Congress.

Senator McCarthy, of Wisconsin, is this time the victim of the smear, but he need not be downhearted. For if ever there was a justification given him for his methods of attack, it is to be found in the Senate subcommittee's report about the Wisconsin senator himself.

With innuendoes and without proof, with questions that are full of wrongdoing yet with no actual evidence to bear out the implications, a Senate subcommittee of three opponents attempts to discredit the Wisconsin senator by repeating the very same charges which were aired during his recent political campaign. The fact that the people of Wisconsin, by an overwhelming majority, reelected Senator McCarthy after hearing virtually all the same charges doesn't seem to have influenced the Senate subcommittee. It did say, however, that some charges against Senator Benton, who was defeated last November, had become "moot," which means they need not be further investigated. Yet their mention is in itself injurious and unfair.

Confirms "Right To Smear"

The report is not persuasive with respect either to Senator Benton or Senator McCarthy, and so far as integrity is concerned the people who know and like both senators are not likely to be influenced by the innuendoes.

What is most important in the whole matter is that the "right to smear" now is confirmed by the Senate subcommittee. It is a sort of inalienable right in Congress anyhow. But thought often condemned, one will not hear any criticism of it from the folks who dislike Senator McCarthy. They will chuckle with glee, which only goes to prove that there isn't much fundamental principle behind many of those who shout loudest about "McCarthyism" and do not criticize it when the shots are fired at those they dislike anyhow.

Congressional committees for years have wielded a sharp scalpel in carving up the reputations of innocent persons again and again, but when the surgery was being performed by New Dealers in charge of the investigations for congressional committees, especially in the early days of the Democratic reign, there was no outcry from the so-called "liberal" side. In fact, much political capital was made by the Democratic party out of those very smear investigations.

It would be a sorry day for the American system of representative government if the right of Congress to investigate was curtailed, and it would be a step backward if individual members of Congress were deprived of congressional immunity. Maybe Senator McCarthy was maligned unfairly today, and yesterday he maligned somebody unfairly. The opportunity is afforded nevertheless under the present system to fight these battles in the press and on the radio, and the debate itself furnishes its own correctives.

Senator McCarthy's place in history will not be determined by his enemies who try to prove he speculated in the market or by any other personal attacks on him. It isn't McCarthy or his methods that are the real issue, but whether the main charges he has made against the administration's harboring of Communists in government and the evil influences that are alleged to have affected our foreign policy are true or false. Those issues are still unresolved, though the pendulum lately has swung in favor of several of McCarthy's points.

Bulldozer Tactics Work

The larger questions are more important than whether one senator is or is not polite in his methods. The methods of the Wisconsin senator are those of a bulldozer. He rides roughshod over opponents because there has been suppression of facts and he, like many predecessors in Congress, has found that only bulldozer methods can get the facts out into the open when fighting the concealment techniques of bureaucracy.

What remedy is there against excesses? Only the remedy of an informed public opinion, which, after hearing all sides, renders its verdict. But after observing the work of congressional committees over a long period of time, one must come to the conclusion that they do far more good than harm and that they do expose wrongdoing which the executive branch is either unwilling or unable to expose. Except for congressional committee activity, Alger Hiss would be free today, and, except for congressional investigations, some of the various collectors of Internal Revenue recently removed and some indicted would still be continuing their corrupt activities. The cases are numerous in favor of congressional committees as a check on the other two co-ordinate branches of government.

Matter Of Fact

By JOSEPH And STEWART ALSOP

Mantis, Take Over

WASHINGTON

In their New Year's review of the last year, the able editors of "Time" magazine made a striking statement. The people of the United States, they remarked with some complacency, "turned a bored ear to science's biggest bang—the explosion of a hydrogen bomb."

The people of the United States, not to mention the editors of "Time", would probably be a bit less bored if the significance of the successful test of the first American hydrogen bomb had not been deliberately muffled and concealed by the responsible authorities.

For example, most healthy men and women, whether civilized or savage, feel a very lively concern about their ability to reproduce their own kind. It is a fearful tragedy for a man or woman to be told, "You are one of the unlucky ones; you are sterile." It would be immeasurably worse to be told, "You can give birth, but only to monsters."

Yet the explosion at Eniwetok can conceivably presage a nightmare time, when the race of men will become wholly sterile, or will breed only monster-mutations. Perhaps the era when the praying mantis will rule over the earth may not be very far off. If people understood that the Eniwetok explosion has taken us a small but quite measurable distance down this road, they might give way to paroxysms of needless fear, but they would certainly be unlikely to suffer from ennui.

To Much Is Dangerous

This is another way of saying that one of the things people ought to understand about the hydrogen bomb is the problem of carbon 14. Carbon 14 is a radio active isotope of common carbon. It exists, in tiny traces, in all organic matter. These traces are normally harmless. They can even be useful. At the moment, for example, Dr. W. F. Libby of Chicago University, is causing a sensation in historical circles, by measuring the carbon 14 in the relics of ancient cultures and so determining their true dates. The mysteries of Stonehenge and Ur of the Chaldees are being unlocked by the carbon 14 key.

These measurements are possible because carbon 14 has the very long half-life of 5,600 years—which is the scientists way of saying that it takes 5,600 years for a carbon 14 atom to lose half of its original radio activity.

This long half-life is what makes carbon 14 a problem, when hydrogen bombs are to be exploded. The radio actiye by-products of ordinary atomic bombs lose their noxious power very rapidly. But in an explosion of a hydrogen bomb, very great quantities of carbon 14 are inescapably produced by nutron-bombardment of the nitrogen in the air. Each hydrogen bomb that is exploded quite significantly increases the total of the carbon 14 component in the make-up of this planet.

Now as everyone knows, a little X-ray hurts no one and can do much good. But if what the doctors call the "radiation threshold" is passed, too much X-ray can damage the victim's reproductive apparatus, or cause actual impotence, or induce necrosis of the bone, or do other kinds of serious harm. By the same token, this planet's existing, normal component of carbon 14 is no threat to anyone. But if there is too much carbon 14, the whole earth will pass the "radiation threshold." All living creatures will then be exposed to the same sort of harm that results from too much X-ray.

Life And Death Problems

On the whole, the reproductive apparatus of the higher forms of life is expected to suffer the earliest and most severe damage. In this respect, there is a sort of inverse order of precedence. The race of men is among the most vulnerable; the insect and other lower forms of life are the least. To the higher forms of life, at any rate, too much carbon 14 will constitute a very real and peculiarly horrible threat.

Some scientists argue that the threat is extremely remote. Most scientists are convinced, however, that the indiscriminate explosion of hydrogen bombs, such as might occur in a war or series of wars, will probably produce too much carbon 14. On the whole, the recent scientific trend has been to lower the estimate of the critical number of bombs. Pessimists even place the critical number in the fairly low hundreds. After that, they say, human genes will mutate or will be destroyed.

Even from this very special viewpoint, therefore, it was no light thing to test the first hydrogen bomb at Eniwetok. The previous report in this space described the unexpected triumph of this test. We now have a bomb with a terrifying power equivalent to the explosive force of three to five million tons of TNT. We now know we can build future bombs with even greater power than this. No doubt great military problems are solved by our possession of these absolute weapons.

But as may be suggested by the story of carbon 14, the absolute weapons create problems as well as solve them. The problems will be all the greater when the Soviets have a hydrogen bomb of their own, which they will probably have pretty soon. The problems are unbearably unpleasant, which is the real reason why nobody is thinking about them. But they have got to be thought about all the same, if only because they are problems of life and death for us all.

Congress And Investigations

The success of the Eisenhower program in the 83rd Congress is bound to depend to some extent on how well the leaders "downtown" — that is, immediately around the President — manage to keep Senate and House leaders from devoting their energies to investigations at the expense of new legislation.

"The whole matter of investigations," Senator Taft declared on December 31, "involves an important policy question and should be referred to the (Republican) Policy Committee, at least for its recommendations." And on December 15, Rep. Martin (R., Mass.), now speaker of the House, said he thought Congress should put the emphasis on legislation rather than investigation.

"The people want us to enact a constructive legislation program," Martin told an interviewer. "That should receive our first attention." But Martin said he was in favor of continuing the House investigations of the Justice and Treasury Departments and of the Internal Revenue Bureau.

Logically, the GOP will want to continue investigations to substantiate its campaign charges of corruption in the Truman administration. Much of this work will be done by the House Committee on Government Operations, headed by Representative Hoffman (R., Mich.). Probing in somewhat the same field will be a House Ways and Means subcommittee headed by Representative Kean (R., N.J.). The Alien Property office is under scrutiny by a Senate subcommittee.

But Senator McCarthy (R., Wis.) has indicated that his Senate Government Operations Committee and its permanent investigations subcommittee will look into a wide range of government and non-government activities. On December 2 McCarthy said he had received complaints about tax settlements made by the Internal Revenue Bureau, also about "tremendous waste" in the Mutual Security Agency. McCarthy also has indicated an interest in possible "favoritism" in the Federal Communications Commission.

Moreover McCarthy declared, December 29, that one of his first activities will be an investigation of subversive influences or "Communist thinkers" in colleges and universities. Also interested in Communist infiltration of colleges—and labor unions—is Representative Velde (R., Ill.), new chairman of the House Un-American Activities Committee. And investigation of Communist activity in general will presumably be continued by the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee under Senator Ferguson (R., Mich.).

The American system of governmental checks and balances gives Congress the logical role of inquiring into the conduct or policies of the executive branch. However, there are wide differences of opinion as to the advantages of congressional inquiries into broader questions. Thus Senator Kefauver in the Senate on April 24, 1951, a week before he relinquished the chairmanship of the Crime Investigating Committee, said, "The work of a legislative investigating committee is for the purpose of obtaining facts upon which to make legislative recommendations, and . . . there is no justification for an investigating committee's continuing forever, unless there are certain facts which it can investigate and which would be of assistance in proposing legislation."

Investigations took so much of the time and energy of congressional leaders in 1951 that the legislative output of Congress in that year fell far short of the output of other recent Congresses. And in 1952 investigative activities, plus the normal election-year political activities of members, made for difficulty in maintaining quorums.

Single Money Bill

Another way for Congress to save billions, says Senator Byrd, would be to consolidate all the regular appropriations bill into one omnibus bill. The Virginia Democrat intends to press for the plan again in the new Congress. He says it would give Congress a better picture of how much money it was voting altogether.

Executive requests could be more fairly and intelligently pruned, Byrd insists, whereas under the present system of 10 separate regular bills, the ones enacted early usually show less cutting than the ones enacted late. A consolidated bill is supposed also to minimize duplication, log-rolling for special projects, and legislation ("riders") that doesn't belong in money bills.

Opponents of the one-package bill argue that it would prevent a President from heading off pork-barrel items, because he could hardly veto an omnibus bill whereas he could veto separate bills with unjustifiable sections. The opposition insists that log-rolling and local favoritism would be harder to detect, or at least oppose, in one huge all-inclusive bill, and that members of Congress couldn't give individual items as careful scrutiny as they can give those in separate bills.

The omnibus bill idea was followed in 1950. The measure carrying all regular appropriations was finally passed almost two months after the new fiscal year had opened, delayed to some extent by the outbreak of hostilities in Korea in late June. In 1951 the Senate was willing to try the experiment again, but House sentiment was against it, so Congress returned to the old system.

TV And College Football

One of the most explosive issues before the annual meeting of the National Collegiate Athletic Association opening in Washington today will be the association's policy on television. The NCAA's 10-man television committee is expected to recommend that telecasts of college football be limited in 1953, as in the past, to one previously designated game each week.

But Notre Dame, advocating unrestricted televising of football games, has served notice that the fight will be taken to the floor. "We don't think any one should dictate to us whether we can or cannot televise our football games," Ed Krause, athletic director of "The Irish," has declared. Agreeing with Krause are athletic directors of some other football powers—notably the University of Pennsylvania—and, oddly enough, U. S. government attorneys.

The government is prosecuting the National (professional) Football League under the anti-trust laws for the league's system of restricted television. The case is scheduled to come up for trial in Philadelphia on January 26. A brief colloquy at the opening of the suit against the pros disclosed the Justice Department attitude on college games and television.

The judge asked the prosecuting attorney whether the government argument on restricted TV coverage of professional football would apply to college games. The reply was that it would.

Eradicating Varicose Veins

Treatment of varicose veins has undergone many radical changes in the last quarter of a century. At one time they were eliminated thru a series of mutilating operations. This plan was abandoned in favor of the injection method but in more recent years our surgeons obtained better results if injections were combined with tying off the large vein in the groin. This procedure is popular still but we are hearing more and more about a process in which the involved vein is eliminated entirely via stripping.

When varicosities lead to congestion they are likely to cause a feeling of fullness or a tired, heavy sensation of the legs, particularly after standing. Swelling of the ankles also may arise after being up and about thru the day. Sitting with the legs elevated brings relief. Pain is unusual and when it coexists is traceable generally to other circulatory disturbances or an arthritic condition of the knee, hip, or back.

Varicose veins are more than a simple dilatation of the passageways. It is the duty of normal veins to return blood from the tissues to the heart. Their function can be likened to a branched system of channels extending from the floor to the chest. With each contraction of the heart, the blood is propelled upward. But what happens between beats when no force is exerted? Does the blood fall back into the leg? This is exactly what would occur if it were not for the small oneway valves that allow the circulation to go up but not down. The situation is comparable to a series of channel locks, each opening in turn to allow a boat to go upstream.

But when the outer wall of one of these structures stretches the locks no longer meet snugly and leakage occurs. The blood flow is uphill but between beats it recedes. This is the principal fault of the varicose vein. When the wall dilates, the valve no longer fits and more and more blood is left behind to produce congestion in the feet. This takes place only among the surface veins because the deeper structures are protected by powerful muscles.

These facts are mentioned to demonstrate why it is important to eliminate varicosities. The circulation will continue to be impaired as long as the nonfunctioning veins remain. Moreover, there are hundreds of other veins to take over their duties and to do a good job. In the injection treatment, an irritating solution was introduced directly into the affected vein. This produced a chemical reaction that was followed by clot formation and obliteration of the blood vessel. But the desired effect was not always obtained, hence the usefulness of this method is limited.

Litigation is more helpful. Here the vein is tied off in the groin and occasionally this is done just below the knee to bring about permanent blockage of the passageway. To the novice, this arrangement may sound ideal but there are so many side roads that complete blockage may be impossible as blood will find a pathway to get thru. This defect has led to more research and the medical profession has come up with the stripping plan. The individual is anesthetized and two or three small incisions are made along the course of the vericose vein. A wire-like stripper is passed thru an opening in the vein at the level of the knee, down to the ankle and here it is anchored. The wire is then pulled out and with it comes a long strip of vein. This eliminates the passageway entirely without producing long, unsightly scars.

TOMORROW: Gasless gas symptoms.

VITAMINS AND NERVOUSNESS

L. P. writes: Will taking vitamins help nervousness?

REPLY

No, because there is no type of nervousness brought on by a deficiency of vitamins. On the other hand, if nervousness results from lack of energy and pep, improvement may follow when vitamins have a tonic effect.

SURGERY OF BRONCHI

L. F. writes: Is there an operation to help sufferers from chronic bronchitis?

REPLY

This depends upon the cause. In bronchiectasis, for example, surgical removal of the involved lobes is possible and the same can be said when bronchitis is associated with abscesses or pressure on the bronchial tubes from tumor or enlarged thyroid.

MAY PROVE BURDENSOME

R. L. writes: Is it safe to marry a man who has been told he has schizophrenia?

REPLY

It is safe but at this time it may not be the thing to do. Marriage increases a man's responsibilities and his condition might be aggravated by this added burden.

CANCER DEATHS

F. D. writes: At what age do the majority of deaths from cancer occur?

REPLY

The death toll from cancer is greatest in the 65-74 age group, followed in order by the 55-65 age group, 75 and over, and the 45-54 year olds.

Key McCarthy Witness Flew Out Of The Country; Sen. Rayburn Gives Demos Fighting Pep Talk; Bolivian Pilot Boasts Of Killing 55 Americans

WASHINGTON—One of the most sensational aspects of the McCarthy investigation was not known even to the Senate Elections Committee members themselves. It was the sudden flight from the U. S. of a key witness and friend of McCarthy's — wealthy divorcee Arvilla Bentley.

Mrs. Bentley, formerly married to the new GOP congressman from Michigan, Alvin Bentley, skipped out of the country under the assumed name of Mary Peterson. Reason for her hurried exit was because she had officially given $7,000 to McCarthy, which is more than the legal limit; in addition to which she told friends that she and her ex-husband had actually given around $75,000.

Naturally, she didn't want to be cross-examined by the Senate Elections Committee.

Mrs. Bentley is a society lady living next door to Averill Harriman on swank Foxhall Road in Washington. For a time her husband was in the State Department. For a time also, both he and Mrs. Bentley were great friends of McCarthy's. Now divorced, she is still a friend.

When the Senate Elections Committee got hold of some of Mrs. Bentley's canceled checks, they telephoned her, asked to see her. But she flew the coop before a subpoena could be served. Boarding an Eastern Airlines plane at 1 a. m. Nov. 28, she arrived in Miami, transferred to Pan American Airlines, and arrived in Nassau that afternoon

Meanwhile, her Washintgon lawyer, Joseph Rafferty, claimed he didn't know where she was, though actually she was in touch with him and asked him to get certain records of canceled checks from the Riggs National Bank.

Mrs. Bentley was escorted to the Bahamas by a professional ex-Communist, Harvey Matusow, who then returned to New York, but flew back to the Bahamas after the storm had blown over in order to pick her up and escort her back to Washington.

It was $10,000 of Mr. and Mrs. Bentley's money given to McCarthy that the Senate Elections Committee found was carefully withdrawn by Jean Kerr, his secretary, then deposited through circuitous channels in Wisconsin where it was used to speculate on soy beans.

Congressman Bentley, when interviewed by the Senate Elections Committee, emphatically stated that he had not given the money to McCarthy to be used by him personally.

Sam Rayburn Fights

Sam Rayburn, the redoubtable Texan who celebrated his 71st birthday this week, was heartbroken when the Democrats lost last November. For a time he was determined to resign from Congress altogether and retire to Bonham, Texas, where he is building a library to house his books, the records of some 20 Congresses, and the gavels he has wielded when Churchill, the Queen of England, MacArthur, Eisenhower et al. addressed Congress.

But his old friend and brother-in-law, Judge Marvin Jones of Amarillo, finally cheered Sam up, persuaded him not to resign. And the other day, when Sam stepped down as speaker and took the humble position of minority leader, he delivered a fighting pep talk to the closed-door session of House Democrats.

"The recent election was not a victory for the Republican party," declared the ex-speaker. "All it demonstrated was that a nationally advertised product, whose place in the sun was made possible largely by two Democratic Presidents, is the national hero he's cracked up to be,

"It was a personal victory for Eisenhower rather than the Republican party.

"Aside from Ike's 'great personal popularity with the peaple'," Rayburn continues, "I don't think 40 years in the military service automatically qualifies a man for the most important civil job in the land, any more than my 40 years in legislative work qualifies me to be a military leader.

"But I hope the general will learn fast, that he will take advice and that he will get good advice."

Boastful Bolivian

Eric Rios Bridoux, the Bolivian pilot who crashed into an Eastern Airlines plane, killing 55 persons near the Washington airport three years ago, almost made the headlines again last week.

Two Air Force officers nearly swung on the brash young Bolivian as he boasted about the tragic accident at the young mens' store on F Street in Washington. Bridoux, who was charged with responsibility by the Civil Aeronautics Board, apparently became irked at a shoe clerk for not recognizing him.

"Why, I thought everybody knew me," the pilot arrogantly told the clerk. "I'm famous. I was involved in the biggest air accident Washington ever had. It was my plane that collided with that airliner several years ago, killing 55 people."

When the clerk remarked that the tragedy was hardly a matter to brag or joke about, Bridoux laughingly replied:

"Oh, accidents will happen."

The two Air Force officers who overheard Bridoux sounding off were as shocked and angry as employes in the store, but decided not to spoil their Christmas leave by socking the crude pilot.

The Taft Leadership

The unanimous election of Senator Robert A. Taft as floor leader of the Republican party should put an end to the rumors, reports, guesses and prognostications of antipathy between Mr. Republican and Mr. President. Taft and Eisenhower get along remarkably well, considering that they are both strong men with developed and mature points of view.

Taft's leadership within the Republican party cannot be questioned. It has been acknowledged time after time by his colleagues in the Senate and House of Representatives. It is important to recall that he was defeated in his candidacy for the Presidency not because he was regarded as unsuited but because it was assumed that he could not be elected. Daniel Webster and Henry Clay suffered from the same assumption without any question as to their ability.

The task of the floor leader is to carry through to success the legislative program of his party. When that party has an incumbent in the White House, the legislative program is composed by the President and his cabinet as well as by members of the Congress. The floor leader, in those circumstances, has to reconcile differences which are inevitable in our form of government.

In the British system, the legislative program of the prime minister and his cabinet is the platform of the party in power and is rarely contested by members of Parliament of that party. The prime minister sits in Parliament and is actually the floor leader.

In the United States, this system does not prevail. Each member of the Senate or the House is elected by his own constituency. He is not obligated to follow the President or the floor leader. The President holds the whip of patronage; the floor leader depends upon parliamentary skill and personal prestige.

Since 1937, our Congress has been in revolt against the growing power of the President. From 1933 to 1937, Franklin D. Roosevelt was able to use Congress as though he were a British prime minister. He sent to Congress "must" legislation, prepared not by the committees of Congress but by his own draftsmen, such as Thomas Corcoran and Benjamin Cohen. For instance, the National Labor Relations Act was not prepared by Senator Wagner, whose name it bears, but by a group of young lawyers, headed by Lee Pressman, a Communist. The court packing bill brought that era to an end. The Congress rebelled, resisting the President and defeating the bill.

Since then, Congress has been seeking ways to enforce the separation of powers in accordance with the Constitution. Roosevelt's quarantine speech in 1937 arrested a revolt against the appointment of Hugo Black to the Supreme Court. Since then foreign affairs, including the major war of our history, have absorbed the attention of Congress and strengthened the executive.

Nevertheless, Harry Truman found that no Congress would work with him on his own terms. Only one of his Congresses, the 80th, was Republican; yet, it is a fact that Truman failed to find the 79th, 81st and 82nd Congresses cooperative with the President's conception of his office. In fact, Truman conceived the doctrine that the Presidency possessed "inherent powers,"—a concept that went to court and was duly thrown out by Judge David Pine in a leading decision.

The powers of the President, according to the Constitution, are few and limited. Most of the powers of the President are legislated by Congress, either in the form of mandatory functions designated to executive departments or delegated to the President by Congress from its own constitutional authority. No act of Congress is permanent in the sense that a provision of the Constitution is permanent. An act of one Congress may be amended or rescinded by another.

During the Truman administration, Congress has been step by step recapturing its authority from the executive. The Democrats have taken the lead in this. Many of the investigations instituted by Democratic senators and representatives, while perhaps not designed to weaken the executive branch of government, have served to restore the constitutional rights of Congress.

The leadership of Robert A. Taft in the Senate will have the political effect of strengthening the Eisenhower administration. A President is only as competent as he is serviced. No man can carry the whole load himself.

When the President's relations with Congress are proper, the government runs smoothly. If either side usurps the authority of the other, confusion sets in.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — The unlimited right to smear seems to have been firmly upheld by a subcommittee of three from the Senate Committee on Elections—but the right is extended apparently not to the public but only to members of Congress.

Senator McCarthy, of Wisconsin, is this time the victim of the smear, but he need not be downhearted. For if ever there was a justification given him for his methods of attack, it is to be found in the Senate subcommittee's report about the Wisconsin senator himself.

With innuendoes and without proof, with questions that are full of wrongdoing yet with no actual evidence to bear out the implications, a Senate subcommittee of three opponents attempts to discredit the Wisconsin senator by repeating the very same charges which were aired during his recent political campaign. The fact that the people of Wisconsin, by an overwhelming majority, re-elected Senator McCarthy after hearing virtually all the same charges doesn't seem to have influenced the Senate subcommittee. It did say, however, that some charges against Senator Benton, who was defeated last November, had become "moot," which means they need not be further investigated. Yet their mention is in itself injurious and unfair.

Confirms "Right To Smear"

The report is not persuasive with respect either to Senator Benton or Senator McCarthy, and so far as integrity is concerned the people who know and like both senators are not likely to be influenced by the innuendoes.

What is most important in the whole matter is that the "right to smear" now is confirmed by the Senate subcommittee. It is a sort of inalienable right in Congress anyhow. But thought often condemned, one will not hear any criticism of it from the folks who dislike Senator McCarthy. They will chuckle with glee, which only goes to prove that there isn't much fundamental principle behind many of those who shout loudest about "McCarthyism" and do not criticize it when the shots are fired at those they dislike anyhow.

Congressional committees for years have wielded a sharp scalpel in carving up the reputations of innocent persons again and again, but when the surgery was being performed by New Dealers in charge of the investigations for congressional committees, especially in the early days of the Democratic reign, there was no outcry from the so-called "liberal" side. In fact, much political capital was made by the Democratic party out of those very smear investigations.

It would be a sorry day for the American system of representative government if the right of Congress to investigate was curtailed, and it would be a step backward if individual members of Congress were deprived of congressional immunity. Maybe Senator McCarthy was maligned unfairly today, and yesterday he maligned somebody unfairly. The opportunity is afforded nevertheless under the present system to fight these battles in the press and on the radio, and the debate itself furnishes its own correctives.

Senator McCarthy's place in history will not be determined by his enemies who try to prove he speculated in the market or by any other personal attacks on him. It isn't McCarthy or his methods that are the real issue, but whether the main charges he has made against the administration's harboring of Communists in government and the evil influences that are alleged to have affected our foreign policy are true or false. Those issues are still unresolved, though the pendulum lately has swung in favor of several of McCarthy's points.

Bulldozer Tactics Work

The larger questions are more important than whether one senator is or is not polite in his methods. The methods of the Wisconsin senator are those of a bulldozer. He rides roughshod over opponents because there has been suppression of facts and he, like many predecessors in Congress, has found that only bulldozer methods can get the facts out into the open when fighting the concealment techniques of bureaucracy.

What remedy is there against excesses? Only the remedy of an informed public opinion, which, after hearing all sides, renders its verdict. But after observing the work of congressional committees over a long period of time, one must come to the conclusion that they do far more good than harm and that they do expose wrongdoing which the executive branch is either unwilling or unable to expose. Except for congressional committee activity, Alger Hiss would be free today, and, except for congressional investigations, some of the various collectors of Internal Revenue recently removed and some indicted would still be continuing their corrupt activities. The cases are numerous in favor of congressional committees as a check on the other two co-ordinate branches of government.

Matter Of Fact

By JOSEPH And STEWART ALSOP

WASHINGTON

In their New Year's review of the last year, the able editors of "Time" magazine made a striking statement. The people of the United States, they remarked with some complacency, "turned a bored ear to science's biggest bang—the explosion of a hydrogen bomb."

The people of the United States, not to mention the editors of "Time", would probably be a bit less bored if the significance of the successful test of the first American hydrogen bomb had not been deliberately muffled and concealed by the responsible authorities.

For example, most healthy men and women, whether civilized or savage, feel a very lively concern about their ability to reproduce their own kind. It is a fearful tragedy for a man or woman to be told, "You are one of the unlucky ones; you are sterile." It would be immeasurably worse to be told, "You can give birth, but only to monsters."

Yet the explosion at Eniwetok can conceivably presage a nightmare time, when the race of men will become wholly sterile, or will breed only monster-mutations. Perhaps the era when the praying mantis will rule over the earth may not be very far off. If people understood that the Eniwetok explosion has taken us a small but quite measurable distance down this road, they might give way to paroxysms of needless fear, but they would certainly be unlikely to suffer from ennui.

To Much Is Dangerous

This is another way of saying that one of the things people ought to understand about the hydrogen bomb is the problem of carbon 14. Carbon 14 is a radio active isotope of common carbon. It exists, in tiny traces, in all organic matter. These traces are normally harmless. They can even be useful. At the moment, for example, Dr. W. F. Libby of Chicago University, is causing a sensation in historical circles, by measuring the carbon 14 in the relics of ancient cultures and so determining their true dates. The mysteries of Stonehenge and Ur of the Chaldees are being unlocked by the carbon 14 key.

These measurements are possible because carbon 14 has the very long half-life of 5,600 years—which is the scientists way of saying that it takes 5,600 years for a carbon 14 atom to lose half of its original radio activity.

This long half-life is what makes carbon 14 a problem, when hydrogen bombs are to be exploded. The radio active by-products of ordinary atomic bombs lose their noxious power very rapidly. But in an explosion of a hydrogen bomb, very great quantities of carbon 14 are inescapably produced by nutron-bombardment of the nitrogen in the air. Each hydrogen bomb that is exploded quite significantly increases the total of the carbon 14 component in the make-up of this planet.

Now as everyone knows, a little X-ray hurts no one and can do much good. But if what the doctors call the "radiation threshold" is passed, too much X-ray can damage the victim's reproductive apparatus, or cause actual impotence, or induce necrosis of the bone, or do other kinds of serious harm. By the same token, this planet's existing, normal component of carbon 14 is no threat to anyone. But if there is too much carbon 14, the whole earth will pass the "radiation threshold." All living creatures will then be exposed to the same sort of harm that results from too much X-ray.

Life And Death Problems

On the whole, the reproductive apparatus of the higher forms of life is expected to suffer the earliest and most severe damage. In this respect, there is a sort of inverse order of precedence. The race of men is among the most vulnerable; the insect and other lower forms of life are the least. To the higher forms of life, at any rate, too much carbon 14 will constitute a very real and peculiarly horrible threat.

Some scientists argue that the threat is extremely remote. Most scientists are convinced, however, that the indiscriminate explosion of hydrogen bombs, such as might occur in a war or series of wars, will probably produce too much carbon 14. On the whole, the recent scientific trend has been to lower the estimate of the critical number of bombs. Pessimists even place the critical number in the fairly low hundreds. After that, they say, human genes will mutate or will be destroyed.

Even from this very special viewpoint, therefore, it was no light thing to test the first hydrogen bomb at Eniwetok. The previous report in this space described the unexpected triumph of this test. We now have a bomb with a terrifying power equivalent to the explosive force of three to five million tons of TNT. We now know we can build future bombs with even greater power than this. No doubt great military problems are solved by our possession of these absolute weapons.

But as may be suggested by the story of carbon 14, the absolute weapons create problems as well as solve them. The problems will be all the greater when the Soviets have a hydrogen bomb of their own, which they will probably have pretty soon. The problems are unbearably unpleasant, which is the real reason why nobody is thinking about them. But they have got to be thought about all the same, if only because they are problems of life and death for us all.

Boys Sentenced In Theft Cases

Three boys who admitted breaking and entering charges and a number of thefts, were given a hearing in Allegany County Juvenile Court with one youth sentenced to the Maryland Training School for Boys.

The other two boys were released in the custody of their parents and Homer S. Higgins, supervisor of pupil personnel for county schools. Magistrate Alban C. Thompson also gave the youths and their parents a warning about "keeping out of trouble." He told the parents to make sure their sons were of good behavior.

Authorities said the boys were arrested last week and admitted breaking into Street's Auto Repair Shop on Willowbrook Road and taking $19 in cash.

The youths also admitted breaking in to the Cumberland Country Club and a parked auto on Harding Avenue and stealing a number of items. Police added the boys had turned in several false alarms in the past few weeks.

Three Students To Practice Here

Three University of Maryland seniors who chose to do their practice teaching in their home county were checked yesterday by a university official.

Miss Marie Bryan, head of practice teaching at the university, arrived in Cumberland Tuesday.

She conferred with Miss Patricia Green, who is instructing guidance at Allegany High School; Miss Delores Chase, science at Fort Hill High School and Thomas Spicer, social studies at Oldtown School.

Miss Green is from Frostburg while Miss Chase and Spicer list Cumberland as their homes.

Apple Price Fix Hearings End

GETTYSBURG, Pa., Jan. 7 (AP)—Three days of hearings were concluded here today by the Federal Trade Commission which charged the Appalachian Apple Service, Martinsburg, W. Va., and five other firms with price fixing.

The final day's session ended with FTC lawyers and counsel for the companies reviewing 390 exhibits offered as evidence in the Gettysburg hearings. The case now moves to Washington for further litigation.

The FTC says Appalachian and the five other respondents fixed apple prices in 1950.

Disaster hit the span on April 25. 1838, when the chain bridge gave away at the west abutment, allowing the bridge to fall in to the stream.

It was a close call for two men and a boy who were on the bridge as it went down, but Lowdermilk records that all of them escaped from the swollen waters.

The chain bridge was replaced in 1838 by a covered wooden bridge. The heart of this span consisted of two big wooden arches which stretched from one side of the stream to the other.

It was wider than most of its predecessors, for it contained a carriage way and sidewalks on each side.

Was Covered Bridge

For protection against the elements, the bridge was covered. It had latticed sides and the floor was covered with tan bark.

This span must have been very satisfactory for it lasted under heavy traffic until 1854, when the city and county agreed to replace it, with the city paying one fifth of the cost.

The contract was awarded to a Baltimore firm for an iron bridge built upon a Ballman design. This span lasted until 1891, when it was replaced with a plate girder bridge.

This bridge stood until 1916, when the present reinforced concrete bridge was built.

The design of the proposed new Baltimore Street bridge is being prepared by the J. E. Greiner Company, Baltimore, which designed the Bay Bridge.

Preliminary plans are expected to be turned over to the Mayor and Council this month.

Construction of this new bridge, and similar replacement spans at Market and Valley Streets, will be completed during the latter stages of the flood job, when the channel work now underway on Wills Creek is completed.

One phase of this work is now underway, but the Corps of Engineers plan this spring to switch to the river phases, including the industrial dam, and then come back to the channel work.

The E. J. Albrecht Company, Chicago, which has the contract for the first phase of the channel improvements, will be busy for some time on a $1,606,725 project which will carry the channel paving of the creek to the city limits.

Crosstown Bridge For City Proposed In SRC Plans

The State Roads Commission includes a number of projects for Western Maryland in its proposed 12 year roads programs which will cost 568 million dollars.

Russell H. McCain, chairman of the SRC, recently told The Cumberland papers that publicity given a crosstown facility here was an example of the work proposed to show scope and ideas of the plan.

The crosstown bridge for Cumberland was listed in an engineering magazine article on the SRC proposals and prompted a query to McCain on area projects.

McCain said the listing had prompted Sen. J. Glenn Beall to call and ask why no other projects were scheduled for this section of the state. McCain explained to Beall that the crosstown bridge was an example of the work.

Booklet Explains Program

Yesterday, the commission got ont 10,000 copies of a slick, 20-page booklet telling why it believes Maryland should undertake the roads program. First copies went to Annapolis for distribution to the General Assembly members.

Bundles of 300 to 400 booklets were sent seven district engineers, including Cumberland, who will distribute them to county commissioners, city and town officials, heads of civic service and women's clubs. Weekly and daily papers, radio and TV stations were also mailed the booklets.

The brochure does not go into specific highways the commission and its advisory council propose to build or rebuild in the three four-year phases of the 12-year program.

The rundown will be covered in a publication being prepared. The SRC is divulging none of the details until it is ready for the legislators in about ten days or two weeks.

The crosstown facility here has been discussed for a number of years and is one of the proposed routes suggested in the 1950 traffic survey made by the State Roads Commission.

The facility, according to that survey, would start at a point near the intersection of Greene and Johnson Streets and by means of a viaduct cross Wills Creek, Western Maryland Railway and the downtown area in a generally eastward direction, ending at approximately the intersection of Maryland Avenue and Emily Street. It would continue from that point in a general eastward direction with a surface connection made with U. S. Route 40 east at a point near Willowbrook Road.

Cost of that facility was estimated two years ago at $4,064,000.

The SRC booklet urged the General Assembly to take action on the program. The financial crux of the projected plan is approval of a one-cent increase in the gasoline tax to six cents a gallon; increase in licenses fees from $15 to $20 on light passenger cars and proportionately on others and authorization for up to 33 million dollars in bonds to be paid off by 1980.

The public may obtain copies of the explanatory booklet from the Public Relations Division of the State Roads Commission, Baltimore.

Over 100 Couples Fail To Pick Up Marriage Permits

Records at the Court House show that 116 couples who made application for marriage licenses since last July 1 have failed to return to pick up their permits.

A total of 3,121 marriage licenses were issued here during 1952, which is a drop of 352 from the previous year. The number of marriage licenses issued here has shown a steady decline since the war years and the two years immediately following the conflict.

The matrimonial voyages of 152 couples ended up on the rocks during the past year, according to records in the office of Clerk of Court Joseph E. Boden. These divorces involved residents of Allegany County while the bulk of the marriage licenses issued here are to residents of nearby Pennsylvania and other out of state points.

Americans are Rolling Up Their Sleeves
Yes, all Kinds of People are Giving Blood So That Our Wounded May Live!

But— WHAT HAPPENED TO THAT PINT OF BLOOD YOU WERE GOING TO GIVE?

It's a fine thing to give blood—and it gives you a wonderful feeling: The deep, inner-satisfaction of knowing that you have helped make it possible for a man to live.
Right now the need for blood is urgent. In hospitals—at home and overseas—many men require four and six transfusions during delicate operations. And the blood must be there—when it's needed. So give the most precious gift of all—the gift for which there is no substitute—your blood! It will flow back into the veins of a human being, give him a new lease on life—help him along the road to recovery.
If you have already given blood, you know that it is neither difficult nor distressing. So—mark your calendar and donate again. And tell your friends and neighbors about your experience. Let them share the wonderful feeling Americans get when they roll up their sleeves—and give blood.

The rundown will be covered in a publication being prepared. The SRC is divulging none of the details until it is ready for the legislators in about ten days or two weeks.

The crosstown facility here has been discussed for a number of years and is one of the proposed routes suggested in the 1950 traffic survey made by the State Roads Commission.

The facility, according to that survey, would start at a point near the intersection of Greene and Johnson Streets and by means of a viaduct cross Wills Creek, Western Maryland Railway and the downtown area in a generally eastward direction, ending at approximately the intersection of Maryland Avenue and Emily Street. It would continue from that point in a general eastward direction with a surface connection made with U. S. Route 40 east at a point near Willowbrook Road.

Cost of that facility was estimated two years ago at $4,064,000.

The SRC booklet urged the General Assembly to take action on the program. The financial crux of the projected plan is approval of a one-cent increase in the gasoline tax to six cents a gallon; increase in licenses fees from $15 to $20 on light passenger cars and proportionately on others and authorization for up to 33 million dollars in bonds to be paid off by 1980.

The public may obtain copies of the explanatory booklet from the Public Relations Division of the State Roads Commission, Baltimore.

Over 100 Couples Fail To Pick Up Marriage Permits

Records at the Court House show that 116 couples who made application for marriage licenses since last July 1 have failed to return to pick up their permits.

A total of 3,121 marriage licenses were issued here during 1952, which is a drop of 352 from the previous year. The number of marriage licenses issued here has shown a steady decline since the war years and the two years immediately following the conflict.

The matrimonial voyages of 152 couples ended up on the rocks during the past year, according to records in the office of Clerk of Court Joseph E. Boden. These divorces involved residents of Allegany County while the bulk of the marriage licenses issued here are to residents of nearby Pennsylvania and other out of state points.

Americans are Rolling Up Their Sleeves
Yes, all Kinds of People are Giving Blood So That Our Wounded May Live!

But— WHAT HAPPENED TO THAT PINT OF BLOOD YOU WERE GOING TO GIVE?

It's a fine thing to give blood—and it gives you a wonderful feeling: The deep, inner-satisfaction of knowing that you have helped make it possible for a man to live.
Right now the need for blood is urgent. In hospitals—at home and overseas—many men require four and six transfusions during delicate operations. And the blood must be there—when it's needed. So give the most precious gift of all—the gift for which there is no substitute—your blood! It will flow back into the veins of a human being, give him a new lease on life—help him along the road to recovery.
If you have already given blood, you know that it is neither difficult nor distressing So—mark your calendar and donate again. And tell your friends and neighbors about your experience. Let them share the wonderful feeling Americans get when they roll up their sleeves—and give blood.

The Civil Defense chairman, Miss Virginia Koegel was named in charge of the January 20 meeting.

Opportunities for the 60 percent of the high school students interested in vocational training was stressed by Ralph R. Webster, superintendent of schools in speaking on "What Allegany County Schools Are Doing in Vocational Education."

The speaker emphasized the overall picture of vocational education in the county. He pointed out that 20 percent of the high school students are going on to college; 20 percent are going into shop work, but emphasized the fact that the vocational aims are beamed at the 60 percent of the students. These courses include commercial, industrial art, vocational homemaking, vocational shop, printing, and distributive education. Mr. Webster also mentioned the adult night classes.

Marie Shaffer Becomes Bride Of Graydon Poling

Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Shaffer, Parsons, are announcing the marriage of their daughter, Miss Marie Shaffer, to Graydon Poling, son of Mr. and Mrs. Artie Poling, Parsons.

The single ring ceremony was read in St. Paul's Methodist Church, Oakland, Christmas day, by Rev. Winfred S. Petterson. Miss Bernettie Pennington, Washington, was maid of honor and Donovan Poling served as his brother's best man.

For her marriage the bride chose a winter white wool dress with white accessories. She carried a white Bible, topped with an orchid and white satin streamers.

Her attendant wore a Navy blue suit with matching accessories and had a corsage of white carnations.

Mrs. Poling selected a grey crepe dress with red carnation corsage for her son's wedding.

The bride is a graduate of Parsons High School, and is employed in the offices of the Dorman Mills. The bridegroom, a graduate of Parsons High School, is a teacher in the Tucker County schools and is a senior at Davis and Elkins College, where he will complete his work during the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Shaffer entertained the bridal party and immediate families at a wedding reception in their home, after which the couple left for a trip in Ohio. They will reside in Parsons.

Other guests at the wedding were Miss Gladys Pennington, Don Gnegy, both of Washington; and Miss Grace Poling, Parsons.

John Gable, Deloris Reel Marry In Home Ceremony

The marriage of Miss Deloris Reel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Reel, Akron, to John Gable, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gable, Parsons, took place December 19 at 6 p. m., in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Morris White, Parsons.

Rev. Robert L. Greynolds, pastor of St. John's Methodist Church, officiated at the double ring ceremony before an improvised altar of purple velvet. It was decorated with white carnations, mums and greenery and lighted with tall white tapers.

Mrs. White, sister of the bridegroom, was matron of honor and little Susan Gable was flower girl. Morris White served as best man.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a bouffant gown of white nylon net over pale pink satin. Her veil was attached to a coronet of pale pink flowers and she carried a cascade bouquet of pink and white carnations.

Her matron of honor's gown was of blue taffeta and she had a coronet of blue flowers. The little flower girl was in a velvet dress and carried a basket of pink sweetpeas.

The bride's mother wore a blue crepe dress with yellow roses and Mrs. Gable, a pink fille with pink rosebuds.

The bride is a graduate of Parsons High School, and is employed in the office of Dorman Mills. The bridegroom, a graduate of Parsons High School, is a senior at Concord College, Athens, where he is affiliated with Sigma Tau Gamma.

A reception followed the ceremony. Mrs. Theodore Dorman cut the four tiered cake, topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom and encircled with greenery, lily of the valley and pink roses. Miss Esther Sill presided at the punch bowl.

Local National Guard Unit Receives Superior Rating

A superior rating was given Company C, 115th Infantry, Maryland National Guard, in the annual quartermaster technical inspection by Lieut. D. H. Sandler, Quartermaster Corps, Second Army, Fort Meade, recently.

Lieut. John R. Jackle, commanding officer of the Guard unit, said the rating was granted on the basis of an inspection of the shoes, clothing, equipment (such as small arms etc.) signal equipment (radios, etc.) field ranges and immersion heaters and miscellaneous items.

Achieving the superior rating resulted from the fine work of Sgt. George R. Drew, unit caretaker, according to Lieut. Jackle. The sergeant is responsible for all equipment of Company C. He has nine years experience in supply and six years with the Guard as a unit caretaker.

Lieut. Jackle also announced that members of Company C will resume drills today at 7:30 p. m. Following the drill the company will have a shrimp feed.

There are many vacancies in all ranks of the company, Lieut. Jackle said, and interested young men may apply at the State Armory. The company has a strength of 48 men. There are three openings for commissioned officers, he added.

The annual encampment period will be from June 27 to July 11 at the A. P. Hill Military Reservation in Virginia, according to Lieut. Jackle.

Are your hair, eyes and skin of medium coloring? Then you're the newly evolved American-type beauty!

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

My "Question Box" mail recently yielded just the kind of query in which I take double delight. It's a problem many of you have. It's easy to answer. And for those who follow the advice given, the beauty rewards are both sudden and great.

The query reads: "Must I go through life looking and feeling nondescript? My hair is medium brown, my skin is medium dark and my eyes are medium light. I'm neither blonde nor brunette and it seems that all beauty advice is written for everybody else but me. Won't you consider my problem?"

New Type

Lady, that's what I'll do today with the greatest of pleasure!

First of all, my compliments to all of you with the coloring of my correspondent. You may not realize it but you are a most unique type—the fascinating result of our melting pot of nationalities and quite distinctively American. You seldom find advice that is geared to your coloring simply because your type has so recently evolved as a real factor.

I predict that within a short time, perhaps not more than a year or two, you will find makeup and fabric colors mixed and coordinated solely for your enchantment. In the meantime, be clever about selecting exactly what suits you from those dedicated to the blonde, brunette and redhead. Since you are an admixture of the best in all types, you achieve distinctive appeal the moment you point up this fact.

Special Effects

How do you pick and choose? Here are your guides: Your foundation and powder must match your skin and color and depth and carry a trace of pink for radiance. Your top lipstick and rouge shade is a true-true red. Eyeshadow glamor comes in shades that contrast to that of your iris. Highlights for your tresses are to be found in after-rinses with gold or reddish glints.

In your wardrobe, shun black, navy and beige. Warm darks and rich brights are the colors that flatter you. Among the best are golden browns, pink-tinged grays, apricot, tangerine, reds from coral to rusty, pale or deep yellows, the currently high-fashion light or shady yellow-greens, purples from pink mauve to red violet. Blue? Only when bright and vibrant like peacock and royal.

Put these suggestions into practice and never again will you call yourself medium or nonedescript. How could you, when everyone else will be calling you striking?

YOUR POSTURE

To achieve grace of the highest degree—to make yours the posture ideal—to improve stance, figure, health and the appearance of your clothes as well, read the informative, easy-to-follow booklet "YOUR POSTURE". For a copy write to Secrets of Charm in care of this paper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope and 10c in coin to help cover cost.

Mooning Around

Wish to remind planetarium manufacturers that I have an upper comet reservation for a rocket safari to the moon.

The Hayden factory issued its zipologue folder for guided missiles just two years ago. It got 25,000 requests. The space merchants turned down half of them. They didn't have the space.

This is in the nature of a guided complaint. I wouldn't mind so much but I got my ticket from a speculator.

This is a three-dimensional proposition. With an option on the fourth.

Somewhere up in the segregated orbit my star-snoopers say there is an ozone terminal satelliting around the vacuum stockpile.

The interorobiting rocket's first local stop will be anything it hits.

After that, motion will be a centrifugal substitute for gravity.

NBC Star Lauds Times, City On Radio Program

Meredith Willson, National Broadcasting Company star, honored The Cumberland Evening Times on his radio program "Every Day" yesterday.

Willson based his program on an editorial appearing in The Times recently entitled "News And Good Men." The editorial was read over the air.

Willson said: "Today we honor the Evening Times of the second city of Maryland, Cumberland, in the foothills of the Allegheny Mountains. In 1755, almost 200 years ago, a British general named Braddock and his forces arrived at Fort Cumberland and made it their headquarters. You may remember of reading how he marched westward from Cumberland to battle the French and was killed and his troops routed because he refused to take the advice of a young American officer by the name of George Washington, who was with him.

Later, Washington established his first headquarters at Cumberland and they are still there in Riverside Park on the Potomac River. With this great historical background, Cumberland has developed into a thriving city with a fine balance of industry, culture, recreational advantages and human values.

"In 1869, our honor paper, the Evening Times, was founded and for the past 83 years has faithfully and efficiently recorded national, state and local news for citizens of Cumberland and Western Maryland. John J. McMullen is publisher of The Evening Times and Paul Martin-Dillon is editor of a fine editorial page." x x x x

The editorial prepared by Mr. Dillon and read by Willson dealt with contributions made by convicts to the well-being of their fellow men but which were overshadowed by reports of rioting in some of the nation's prisons.

During his daily program Willson not only brings listeners music and comments on things in general but has adopted a daily feature of saluting a particular newspaper in the country. The show is heard locally from 9:45 to 10 a. m. over Station WTBO.

Dr. Ley To Head Rapplier Club

Dr. Leo H. Ley Jr. was elected president of the Rapplier Club, which is comprised of the graduating class of 1933 from LaSalle High School, at its annual dinner-reunion at Happy Hills dining room recently.

Marcus A. Naughton was reelected secretary-historian. James B. Reinhart, is the retiring president.

Fifteen members of the class of 28 men were present including these from out-of-town, Harold F. Fleming, Detroit; John V. Berkard, Lawrenceburg, Ind., and James T. Berkenbaugh, Philadelphia.

Annual reports were made by the awards committee, which handles the Rapplier Award at LaSalle High School for the outstanding student athlete, and the sick and welfare committee.

600 Are Signed In Legion Drive

Joseph F. Challinor, chairman of the membership drive being conducted by Fort Cumberland Post 13, American Legion, yesterday morning said that over 600 have been signed up in the campaign.

The goal of the drive, Challinor said, is to increase last year's membership of 1,000 to 1,500. The campaign will end February 28.

Plans for the campaign dinner, March 2 at the Post Home, were completed Tuesday night at a meeting of the Post Auxiliary. The winning team is scheduled to eat ham, and the losers, beans. The competing teams are captained by Howard Spiker and Paul Weisenmiller, with the former maintaining a lead of 19 more signed.

Grantsville Firms Fined

The Union Trucking Company of Grantsville was fined $84.75 during the period December 6-20 on overweight charges.

James F. George, also of Grantsville, paid $70.75 for overloading. Arrests were made by inspectors of the State Roads Commission.

Rec Program For Men Over 30 Proposed

Robert E. Pence, recreation director, revealed yesterday letters have been sent service clubs of the city in an effort to organize a recreation group of men over 30 which would participate in athletic activity of a less strenuous nature.

Clubs are being asked to send representatives to a brief organizational meeting scheduled Friday at 5:30 p. m. in the department office of City Hall.

Under present plans, the group will meet weekly or bi-weekly at one of the local high schools. Pence has suggested volleyball as one form of activity and when warm weather arrives, formation of horseshoe leagues.

Pence added that in addition to athletics another aim of the plan is social activity.

Reaction Is Mixed On Bread Plan

The reaction of local grocers to the new schedule of deliveries by bakeries was mixed yesterday.

Four area bakeries began this week the new schedule whereby no deliveries are made on Wednesdays. This is provided under terms of a contract with Local 453, Teamsters Union (AFL), and the bakeries.

One grocer said the new system "won't work". He said bread products, especially sweet rolls and pasteries are "too perishable".

Another grocer said the plan is working all right.

"We'll never miss it, most people buy bread three or four times a week and the one day without deliveries won't hurt anything," he pointed out. He said grocers can estimate their needs and get in their Wednesday supply on Tuesday.

CD Radio Section Planning Meet

The Communications Section of the county Civil Defense organization will meet Friday at 7:30 p. m. in Room 112 of the Union Street County Building, J. Vincent Gafney, chairman, announced yesterday.

Gafney said new equipment including portable generators, receivers and transmitter will be available for inspection.

A film on communications will also be shown.

Member amateur radio operators and members of the Radio Club are asked to attend and efforts are being made to get Carl Bolkmer, Baltimore, Maryland radio officer, here for the session.

The Communications Section has a membership of about 25, Gafney added.

An American physician, Crawford Long, is believed to have been the first to use ether as an anesthetic in a surgical operation.

Officers Are Installed By Wiley Ford Firemen

Officers of the Wiley Ford Volunteer Fire Company were installed Monday night with Ernest Ganoe assuming the presidency.

Others seated were William Ruckman, first vice president; Lewis Hardy, second vice president; Charles Mongold, recording secretary; Lloyd Brooke, financial secretary; B. Whitacre, chief; Earl Brown, captain, and Denver Sachs, chaplain.

In 1755, almost 200 years ago, a British general named Braddock and his forces arrived at Fort Cumberland and made it their headquarters. You may remember of reading how he marched westward from Cumberland to battle the French and was killed and his troops routed because he refused to take the advice of a young American officer by the name of George Washington, who was with him.

Later, Washington established his first headquarters at Cumberland and they are still there in Riverside Park on the Potomac River. With this great historical background, Cumberland has developed into a thriving city with a fine balance of industry, culture, recreational advantages and human values.

"In 1869, our honor paper, the Evening Times, was founded and for the past 83 years has faithfully and efficiently recorded national, state and local news for citizens of Cumberland and Western Maryland. John J. McMullen is publisher of The Evening Times and Paul Martin-Dillon is editor of a fine editorial page." x x x x

The editorial prepared by Mr. Dillon and read by Willson dealt with contributions made by convicts to the well-being of their fellow men but which were overshadowed by reports of rioting in some of the nation's prisons.

During his daily program Willson not only brings listeners music and comments on things in general but has adopted a daily feature of saluting a particular newspaper in the country. The show is heard locally from 9:45 to 10 a. m. over Station WTBO.

Rec Program For Men Over 30 Proposed

Robert E. Pence, recreation director, revealed yesterday letters have been sent service clubs of the city in an effort to organize a recreation group of men over 30 which would participate in athletic activity of a less strenuous nature.

Clubs are being asked to send representatives to a brief organizational meeting scheduled Friday at 5:30 p. m. in the department office of City Hall.

Under present plans, the group will meet weekly or bi-weekly at one of the local high schools. Pence has suggested volleyball as one form of activity and when warm weather arrives, formation of horseshoe leagues.

Pence added that in addition to athletics another aim of the plan is social activity.

Reaction Is Mixed On Bread Plan

The reaction of local grocers to the new schedule of deliveries by bakeries was mixed yesterday.

Four area bakeries began this week the new schedule whereby no deliveries are made on Wednesdays. This is provided under terms of a contract with Local 453, Teamsters Union (AFL), and the bakeries.

One grocer said the new system "won't work". He said bread products, especially sweet rolls and pasteries are "too perishable".

Another grocer said the plan is working all right.

"We'll never miss it, most people buy bread three or four times a week and the one day without deliveries won't hurt anything," he pointed out. He said grocers can estimate their needs and get in their Wednesday supply on Tuesday.

The Communications Section has a membership of about 25, Gafney added.

Piedmont Edges Keyser; Beall Wins Sixth

Keyser Rallies But Smith's Fouls Turn Tide For Home Five

PIEDMONT, W. Va., Jan. 7 — Two foul goals by Glen Smith following Johnny Jackson's long set shot gave Piedmont High School's Lions a thrilling 43-41 overtime victory over Keyser High's Golden Tornado here tonight before some 600 fans.

The triumph broke a four-game Piedmont losing streak and earned Coach William "Huck" Miers' Lions their second straight Potomac Valley Conference win as well as a verdict in the Mineral County Basketball League.

Smith's fouls offset a pair of charity tosses by Becker of Keyser in the final ten seconds of play which knotted the regulation game at 39-all, climaxing a great fourth quarter rally by Keyser which overcame a 13-point deficit to knot the count and send the contest into an extra period.

Piedmont, playing before a partisan home crowd, broke on top and took a 12-5 first period lead, had a 23-13 margin at intermission and was on top 35-22 as the third stanza closed.

But here Keyser caught fire and although the Tornado never was ahead in the game they tied the score on Becker's fouls only to have Piedmont ice the contest in the three-minute overtime on Jackson's goal and a pair of free tosses by Smith. George Karras then tallied a layup goal for Keyser with only seconds left to close out the scoring.

Smith and Jackson paced the Piedmont scoring with 11 points apiece while Becker had 14 for the losers.

In the preliminary contest the Keyser Jayvees topped the Piedmont Jayvees by a 37-25 count. The lineups:

As You Were

(This is the 44th in a series of sketches with pictures of well known sport personalities of the past from the album of the Cumberland News Sports Editor. See if you can identify them by their photo.)

This fellow was Robert Moses "Lefty" Grove's first manager in organized baseball. A native of Pittsburgh, he starred as a football and baseball player at Piedmont, W. Va., before embarking on his major league career. In 1907 he played with the New York Highlanders, who are the New York Yankees of today. In 1912 and 1913 he was with the Detroit Tigers when Ty Cobb hit .410 and .390, played with Buffalo in the Federal League in 1914 and 1915 and wound up his big league career with the Cincinnati Reds in 1916. The player pictured here was a shortstop and second baseman and was in the Reds' lineup September 4, 1916 in the "farewell game" in which Christy Mathewson of Cincinnati pitched against Mordecai "Three Finger" Brown, of the Chicago Cubs. Other members of that Cincinnati team included Heinie Groh, Hal Chase, Ivy Wingo, Earl "Greasy" Neale, Eddie Roush, Tommy Griffith and Larry Kopf. In 1920 he was manager of Martinsburg in the Blue Ridge League when Grove joined the team after having pitched for the Midland Indians. What is the name of this former baseball star?

He's William "Bill" Louden, whose widow, Mrs. Pearl Louden, now resides at 235 Maryland Avenue, Westernport. Bill is believed to be the second player from this section to make good in the major leagues. He was preceded by Nick Maddox, also a Piedmont product, who was with Pittsburgh from 1907 to 1910 and starred in the 1909 World Series in which the Pirates defeated Detroit. The photo of Louden was taken 37 years ago when he was with Cincinnati.

Kramer To Seek Win Over Sedgman In Second Match

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 7 (AP) — America's top professional tennis star, Jack Kramer, found himself the underdog for the first time in many years as he prepared tonight to renew his rivalry with Australia's newly turned pro, Frank Sedgman, in the second match of their 1953 tour.

Last night 25-year-old Sedgman and his erstwhile Davis Cup partner from down under, Ken McGregor, made their pro debut.

Sedgman came from behind to topple Kramer, 3-6, 6-4, 6-4, in what most critics called an impressive bow.

McGregor was less successful however. Pancho Segura, the little fellow from Ecuador who swings a racquet with both hands, defeated 23-year-old McGregor, 6-2, 7-5.

The Aussie team defeated Kramer and Segura in doubles 11-9 and 6-3.

Bob Locke To Play In Hopkins Match

JOHANNESBURG, Jan. 7 (AP)— Bobby Locke, South African holder of the British Open golf championship, has accepted an invitation to play for Canada again in the annual Johns Hopkins trophy matches against American professionals, June 6-7.

Last year Locke defeated Julius Boros, U. S. Open champion, 3 and 2, in the Hopkins match.

Sign High School Ace

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 7 (INS)—The St. Louis Browns today announced the signing of a Negro high school pitching sensation.

Leahy Favors 'Sucker Shift' Rules Change

However Irish Will Continue Maneuver

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7 (AP) — Coach Frank Leahy of Notre Dame said today he approved proposed football legislation aimed at outlawing the "sucker shift", but that he would keep on shifting.

Other college coaches meeting here joined in an almost unanimous opinion that the suggested rules change wouldn't get rid of football shifts, or the suckers who are pulled off side by them.

"I think the proposed rules change is a good one and I gave it my wholeheartedly support," Leahy said.

Shift Changed Slightly

"It will change our shift to a small degree. Instead of first throwing our linemen out wide and then bringing them in tight, we'll keep them stationary and shift our backfield as usual."

The coaches rules committee, of which Leahy is a member, offered a change which would make it illegal for an offensive lineman to make another move once he has assumed the proper line position.

Nothing was said about limiting the backfield shift, where most of the maneuvers actually take place.

"We are not concerned about linemen," said Ed (Moose) Krause Notre Dame athletic director. "Actually this rule only backs up the Notre Dame shift. That's the way we've been doing all along."

Lou Little of Columbia, chairman of the coaches rules committee, said the rule change was suggested on the theory that defensive linemen are pulled off-side by watching the linemen opposite rather than watching the ball.

Linemen Can't Move

Under the proposed change, the lineman, having assumed a stance with his hands on the ground, can't stand up and return to his stance and can't move laterally. The backfield motion already is covered in the rules which say it's illegal for a team to simulate a play without going through with it.

Leahy was accused of using unethical tactics by employing the shift in the Southern California and Oklahoma games particularly, and forcing the enemy into five-yard penalties near the goal-line.

The proposed change must be approved by the rules-making committee, which meets early next week.

Jim Sottile Has Average Of 18.1

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Jan. 7 — Capt. Jim Sottile, whose 27 points last Saturday night tied a record for West Virginia players in Madison Square Garden, has lifted his scoring average to 18.1 points per game and at that rate will outdo every other Mountaineer star save Mark Workman.

Provided West Virginia makes the Southern Conference tournament in March, Sottile will break Fred Schaus' old record of 442 points in 1949 and be second only to Workman in Mountaineer scoring history. Workman got 705 and 577 in 1951 and '52.

The Bristol Bomber, only senior on the West Virginia varsity, has scored consistently high, hitting double figures in all but a five-point effort against Maryland. And while he shoots with abandon, he has made 37 percent of his field-goal tries. His point total is 199.

Sottile's 27 points in the close loss to New York U. last Saturday tied the standard set by Schaus against CCNY in 1949.

Globetrotters To Start Cage Series March 29

NEW YORK, Jan. 7 (INS) — Owner-coach Abe Saperstein of the Harlem Globetrotters announced today his famous team will open its fourth annual coast-to-coast "world series" against the 1953 College All-Americans at New York's Madison Square Garden on March 29.

Tribe Rooter To Lose His $400 Beard

CLEVELAND, Jan. 7 (AP)—A 20-month-old beard Loyd Culp intended to let grow until the Cleveland Indians won a pennant will come off a week from tomorrow and the shave will cost Culp $400.

The 40-year-old tavern proprietor said he would donate that amount to a police benefit fund, fulfilling his side of a bet made in May, 1951, with Tommy O'Toole of Wickliffe. The bet was Culp would pay the $400 if he shaved before the Tribe won a flag.

Next Thursday Culp promotes his fifth annual polio fund benefit dance for about 400 persons at his tavern. The shearing of his 10-inch beard will be a special entertainment feature. O'Toole will take the first swipe, and Culp's barber will finish the job.

Gavilan, Davey To Meet Feb. 11

Title Bout Is Set For Chicago Arena

CHICAGO, Jan. 7 (AP)—Chuck Davey, unbeaten southpaw darling of television, gets a shot at the world welterweight title against Champion Kid Gavilan at the Chicago Stadium the night of Wednesday, Feb. 11.

The 15-round championship bout, which will be televised nationally, was announced today by James D. Norris, president of the International Boxing Club.

Although ranked third as a contender by the National Boxing Association, the fancy Davey is regarded as TV's best ring showman and his meeting with bolo-punching Gavilan may give the IBC a $225,000 net gate.

Gavilan, making his fifth 147-pound title defense, will get 40 per cent of the net gate with 20 per cent going to Davey.

This is the first big money shot for Davey, who has been carefully brought along the professional trail without defeat in 38 bouts.

A return match within 90 days is guaranteed.

Norris said Gavilan has two bouts preliminary to the title scrap, appearing at Tampa, Jan. 15 and at Washington, D. C., Jan. 21. Davey has one tune-up, fighting Johnny Williams at Toledo, Ohio, next Tuesday.

Christenberry Gets Police Gazette Award

NEW YORK, Jan. 7 (INS)—The Police Gazette announced tonight it is awarding its annual Edward Van Every memorial award to Bob Christenberry, chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission, "for meritorious service to boxing in 1952."

Publisher H. H. Roswell said the award, named for a former Police Gazette sports editor, was made for Christenberry's "courageous though controversial" action in reversing the decision in the Billy Graham—Joey Giardello bout last month.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7 (AP) — Bowden Wyatt, young University of Wyoming football coach, said today he will visit Fayetteville, Ark., next Monday to confer with officials about the University of Arkansas head coaching vacancy.

Wyatt is said to be the No. 1 candidate to succeed Otis Douglas, who resigned at the end of the 1952 season.

Dizzy Trout Quits Baseball

Bosox Hurler Will Broadcast For Tigers

DETROIT, Jan. 7 (AP) — Paul (Dizzy) Trout, ex-Detroit Tiger traded to the Boston Red Sox last year, today announced his retirement from baseball to take a new job assisting in the broadcast and televising of Tiger games in 1953.

The announcement came at a press conference attended by Trout at Briggs Stadium, where "Old Diz" toiled for 13 years in a Tiger uniform.

The righthander, who posted 10 wins and 13 losses during the 1952 American League baseball campaign, said his retirement would be met with "weeping and wailing" throughout the league.

"There's going to be a lot of batters who will take salary cuts and go back to the minors now I'm not pitching," Trout said.

Trout's return to his hometown will start no weeping among Detroit fans. The popular six-foot-three flinger pitched and clowned his way into their hearts.

His best year was 1944 when he won 27 and lost 14, while his lifetime record shows 170 wins and 150 losses.

Siexas, Rose Tourney Favorites

MELBOURNE, Jan. 7 (AP) — With Frank Sedgman and Ken McGregor playing professionally, Vic Siexas of Philadelphia and Mervyn Rose of Australia were favored today to battle it out for the Australian tennis championship.

Seixas, playing captain of the U. S. Davis Cup team, was seeded first in the foreign list while Rose headed the domestic seedings for the tournament starting Thursday.

McGregor won the title last year defeating Sedgman in four sets.

NCAA Favors Bowl Tilts, Greater TV Restrictions

Events Group Report To Be Unveiled Today

By HUGH FULLERTON Jr.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7 (AP) — The Extra Events Committee of the National Collegiate Athletic Association today issued a report strongly favoring the continuation of football "bowl" games and other post-season blue ribbon contests.

At the same time, the NCAA Television Committee was expected to recommend that even stricter controls should be clamped down on TV broadcasts of football games than prevailed during 1952.

Wants Tighter Restrictions

A sampling of opinion among the NCAA's 400 college members showed a big majority in favor of tighter TV restrictions.

Last year, amid some outcries by stay-at-home grid fans, the NCAA permitted only one nationally televised game a week, but permitted a few regional telecasts when games were a sell-out.

Notre Dame and the University of Pennsylvania both fought—and are continuing to fight—against the restrictions. Apparently they face a losing battle, at least for the time being.

The Television Committee's report will be made to an NCAA roundtable meeting tomorrow. Until then plans for the 1953 season are officially secret. But off-record discussions indicated that the efforts of the group headed by Notre Dame and Pennsylvania to get unlimited television of football will not bring any results.

The television industry also has been campaigning to eliminate controls, and two or three conferences have proposed a switch from national to regional controls. The latter plan would set up a committee in each of the eight NCAA districts to decide how much football television would be permitted in their area.

Report Is Ready

The Extra Events Committee came up with rather surprising statistics and conclusions in its 63-page printed report which also will be presented tomorrow.

Although replies to a questionnaire showed a majority of college presidents disapprove of football bowl games, the tenor of the report is favorable to bowls and other post-season events. It points out that while 53.8 per cent of the presidents frown on bowl games and only 31.4 per cent approve, the opposition is centered in groups which had little or no experience with such games.

Jim Hearn of the New York Giants handled 71 chances without an error to top the 1952 National League pitchers in the fielding department.

Piedmont Edges Keyser; Beall Wins Sixth

Keyser Rallies But Smith's Fouls Turn Tide For Home Five

PIEDMONT, W. Va., Jan. 7 — Two foul goals by Glen Smith following Johnny Jackson's long set shot gave Piedmont High School's Lions a thrilling 43-41 overtime victory over Keyser High's Golden Tornado here tonight before some 600 fans.

The triumph broke a four-game Piedmont losing streak and earned Coach William "Huck" Miers' Lions their second straight Potomac Valley Conference win as well as a verdict in the Mineral County Basketball League.

Smith's fouls offset a pair of charity tosses by Becker of Keyser in the final ten seconds of play which knotted the regulation game at 39-all, climaxing a great fourth quarter rally by Keyser which overcame a 13-point deficit to knot the count and send the contest into an extra period.

Piedmont, playing before a partisan home crowd, broke on top and took a 12-5 first period lead, had a 23-13 margin at intermission and was on top 35-22 as the third stanza closed.

But here Keyser caught fire and although the Tornado never was ahead in the game they tied the score on Becker's fouls only to have Piedmont ice the contest in the three-minute overtime on Jackson's goal and a pair of free tosses by Smith. George Karras then tallied a layup goal for Keyser with only seconds left to close out the scoring.

Smith and Jackson paced the Piedmont scoring with 11 points apiece while Becker had 14 for the losers.

In the preliminary contest the Keyser Jayvees topped the Piedmont Jayvees by a 37-25 count. The lineups:

As You Were

(This is the 44th in a series of sketches with pictures of well known sport personalities of the past from the album of the Cumberland News Sports Editor. See if you can identify them by their photo.)

This fellow was Robert Moses "Lefty" Grove's first manager in organized baseball. A native of Pittsburgh, he starred as a football and baseball player at Piedmont, W. Va., before embarking on his major league career. In 1907 he played with the New York Highlanders, who are the New York Yankees of today. In 1912 and 1913 he was with the Detroit Tigers when Ty Cobb hit .410 and .390, played with Buffalo in the Federal League in 1914 and 1915 and wound up his big league career with the Cincinnati Reds in 1916. The player pictured here was a shortstop and second baseman and was in the Reds' lineup September 4, 1916 in the "farewell game" in which Christy Mathewson of Cincinnati pitched against Mordecai "Three Finger" Brown, of the Chicago Cubs. Other members of that Cincinnati team included Heinie Groh, Hal Chase, Ivy Wingo, Earl "Greasy" Neale, Eddie Roush, Tommy Griffith and Larry Kopf. In 1920 he was manager of Martinsburg in the Blue Ridge League when Grove joined the team after having pitched for the Midland Indians. What is the name of this former baseball star?

He's William "Bill" Louden, whose widow, Mrs. Pearl Louden, now resides at 235 Maryland Avenue, Westernport. Bill is believed to be the second player from this section to make good in the majors. He was preceded by Nick Maddox, also a Piedmont product, who was with Pittsburgh from 1907 to 1910 and starred in the 1909 World Series in which the Pirates defeated Detroit. The photo of Louden was taken 37 years ago when he was with Cincinnati.

Kramer To Seek Win Over Sedgman In Second Match

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 7 — America's top professional tennis star, Jack Kramer, found himself the underdog for the first time in many years as he prepared tonight to renew his rivalry with Australia's newly turned pro, Frank Sedgman, in the second match of their 1953 tour.

Last night 25-year-old Sedgman and his erstwhile Davis Cup partner from down under, Ken McGregor, made their pro debut.

Sedgman came from behind to topple Kramer, 3-6, 6-4, 6-4, in what most critics called an impressive bow.

McGregor was less successful however. Pancho Segura, the little fellow from Ecuador who swings a racquet with both hands, defeated 23-year-old McGregor, 6-2, 7-5.

The Aussie team defeated Kramer and Segura in doubles 11-9 and 6-3.

Bob Locke To Play In Hopkins Match

JOHANNESBURG, Jan. 7 — Bobby Locke, South African holder of the British Open golf championship, has accepted an invitation to play for Canada again in the annual Johns Hopkins trophy matches against American professionals, June 6-7.

Last year Locke defeated Julius Boros, U. S. Open champion, 3 and 2, in the Hopkins match.

Sign High School Ace

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 7 (INS)—The St. Louis Browns today announced the signing of a Negro high school pitching sensation.

He is Edward (Moe) Isley, a 20-year-old, fast-balling right-hander who weighs 145 pounds and stands five feet, six and one-half inches.

Leahy Favors 'Sucker Shift' Rules Change

However Irish Will Continue Maneuver

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7 — Coach Frank Leahy of Notre Dame said today he approved proposed football legislation aimed at outlawing the "sucker shift", but that he would keep on shifting.

Other college coaches meeting here joined in an almost unanimous opinion that the suggested rules change wouldn't get rid of football shifts, or the suckers who are pulled off side by them.

"I think the proposed rules change is a good one and I gave it my wholeheartedly support," Leahy said.

Shift Changed Slightly

"It will change our shift to a small degree. Instead of first throwing our linemen out wide and then bringing them in tight, we'll keep them stationary and shift our backfield as usual."

The coaches rules committee, of which Leahy is a member, offered a change which would make it illegal for an offensive lineman to make another move once he has assumed the proper line position.

Nothing was said about limiting the backfield shift, where most of the maneuvers actually take place.

"We are not concerned about linemen," said Ed (Moose) Krause Notre Dame athletic director. "Actually this rule only backs up the Notre Dame shift. That's the way we've been doing all along."

Lou Little of Columbia, chairman of the coaches rules committee, said the rule change was suggested on the theory that defensive linemen are pulled off-side by watching the linemen opposite rather than watching the ball.

Linemen Can't Move

Under the proposed change, the lineman, having assumed a stance with his hands on the ground, can't stand up and return to his stance and can't move laterally. The backfield motion already is covered in the rules which say it's illegal for a team to simulate a play without going through with it.

Leahy was accused of using unethical tactics by employing the shift in the Southern California and Oklahoma games particularly, and forcing the enemy into five-yard penalties near the goal-line.

The proposed change must be approved by the rules-making committee, which meets early next week.

Jim Sottile Has Average Of 18.1

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Jan. 7 — Capt. Jim Sottile, whose 27 points last Saturday night tied a record for West Virginia players in Madison Square Garden, has lifted his scoring average to 18.1 points per game and at that rate will outdo every other Mountaineer star save Mark Workman.

Provided West Virginia makes the Southern Conference tournament in March, Sottile will break Fred Schaus' old record of 442 points in 1949 and be second only to Workman in Mountaineer scoring history. Workman got 705 and 577 in 1951 and '52.

The Bristol Bomber, only senior on the West Virginia varsity, has scored consistently high, hitting double figures in all but a five-point effort against Maryland. And while he shoots with abandon, he has made 37 percent of his field-goal tries. His point total is 199.

Sottile's 27 points in the close loss to New York U. last Saturday tied the standard set by Schaus against CCNY in 1949.

Globetrotters To Start Cage Series March 29

NEW YORK, Jan. 7 (INS) — Owner-coach Abe Saperstein of the Harlem Globetrotters announced today his famous team will open its fourth annual coast-to-coast "world series" against the 1953 College All-Americans at New York's Madison Square Garden on March 29.

Tribe Rooter To Lose His $400 Beard

CLEVELAND, Jan. 7 — A 20-month-old beard Loyd Culp intended to let grow until the Cleveland Indians won a pennant will come off a week from tomorrow and the shave will cost Culp $400.

The 40-year-old tavern proprietor said he would donate that amount to a police benefit fund, fulfilling his side of a bet made in May, 1951, with Tommy O'Toole of Wickliffe. The bet was Culp would pay the $400 if he shaved before the Tribe won a flag.

Next Thursday Culp promotes his fifth annual polio fund benefit dance for about 400 persons at his tavern. The shearing of his 10-inch beard will be a special entertainment feature. O'Toole will take the first swipe, and Culp's barber will finish the job.

Gavilan, Davey To Meet Feb. 11

Title Bout Is Set For Chicago Arena

CHICAGO, Jan. 7 —Chuck Davey, unbeaten southpaw darling of television, gets a shot at the world welterweight title against Champion Kid Gavilan at the Chicago Stadium the night of Wednesday, Feb. 11.

The 15-round championship bout, which will be televised nationally, was announced today by James D. Norris, president of the International Boxing Club.

Although ranked third as a contender by the National Boxing Association, the fancy Davey is regarded as TV's best ring showman and his meeting with bolo-punching Gavilan may give the IBC a $225,000 net gate.

Gavilan, making his fifth 147-pound title defense, will get 40 per cent of the net gate with 20 per cent going to Davey.

This is the first big money shot for Davey, who has been carefully brought along the professional trail without defeat in 38 bouts.

A return match within 90 days is guaranteed.

Norris said Gavilan has two bouts preliminary to the title scrap, appearing at Tampa, Jan. 15 and at Washington, D. C., Jan. 21. Davey has one tune-up, fighting Johnny Williams at Toledo, Ohio, next Tuesday.

Jockey Ken Church Injured At Tropical

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 7 — Jockey Ken Church was injured in the first race at Tropical Park today when his mount, Slinger, stumbled at the 16th pole and tossed his head, striking Church in the jaw.

Although stunned for a moment, Church finished the race and also rode in the second on Best Host. Then, on the advise of the track physician, he cancelled the rest of his mounts for the day. The jaw was to be X-rayed.

Christenberry Gets Police Gazette Award

NEW YORK, Jan. 7 (INS)—The Police Gazette announced tonight it is awarding its annual Edward Van Every memorial award to Bob Christenberry, chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission, "for meritorious service to boxing in 1952."

Publisher H. H. Roswell said the award, named for a former Police Gazette sports editor, was made for Christenberry's "courageous though controversial" action in reversing the decision in the Billy Graham—Joey Giardello bout last month.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7 — Bowden Wyatt, young University of Wyoming football coach, said today he will visit Fayetteville, Ark., next Monday to confer with officials about the University of Arkansas head coaching vacancy.

Dizzy Trout Quits Baseball

Bosox Hurler Will Broadcast For Tigers

DETROIT, Jan. 7 — Paul (Dizzy) Trout, ex-Detroit Tiger traded to the Boston Red Sox last year, today announced his retirement from baseball to take a new job assisting in the broadcast and televising of Tiger games in 1953.

The announcement came at a press conference attended by Trout at Briggs Stadium, where "Old Diz" toiled for 13 years in a Tiger uniform.

The righthander, who posted 10 wins and 13 losses during the 1952 American League baseball campaign, said his retirement would be met with "weeping and wailing" throughout the league.

"There's going to be a lot of batters who will take salary cuts and go back to the minors now I'm not pitching," Trout said.

Trout's return to his hometown will start no weeping among Detroit fans. The popular six-foot-three flinger pitched and clowned his way into their hearts.

His best year was 1944 when he won 27 and lost 14, while his lifetime record shows 170 wins and 150 losses.

MELBOURNE, Jan. 7 — With Frank Sedgman and Ken McGregor playing professionally, Vic Siexas of Philadelphia and Mervyn Rose of Australia were favored today to battle it out for the Australian tennis championship.

Seixas, playing captain of the U. S. Davis Cup team, was seeded first in the foreign list while Rose headed the domestic seedings for the tournament starting Thursday.

McGregor won the title last year defeating Sedgman in four sets.

NCAA Favors Bowl Tilts, Greater TV Restrictions

Events Group Report To Be Unveiled Today

By HUGH FULLERTON Jr.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7 — The Extra Events Committee of the National Collegiate Athletic Association today issued a report strongly favoring the continuation of football "bowl" games and other post-season blue ribbon contests.

At the same time, the NCAA Television Committee was expected to recommend that even stricter controls should be clamped down on TV broadcasts of football games than prevailed during 1952.

Wants Tighter Restrictions

A sampling of opinion among the NCAA's 400 college members showed a big majority in favor of tighter TV restrictions.

Last year, amid some outcries by stay-at-home grid fans, the NCAA permitted only one nationally televised game a week, but permitted a few regional telecasts when games were a sell-out.

Notre Dame and the University of Pennsylvania both fought—and are continuing to fight—against the restrictions. Apparently they face a losing battle, at least for the time being.

The Television Committee's report will be made to an NCAA roundtable meeting tomorrow. Until then plans for the 1953 season are officially secret. But off-record discussions indicated that the efforts of the group headed by Notre Dame and Pennsylvania to get unlimited television of football will not bring any results.

The television industry also has been campaigning to eliminate controls, and two or three conferences have proposed a switch from national to regional controls. The latter plan would set up a committee in each of the eight NCAA districts to decide how much football television would be permitted in their area.

Report Is Ready

The Extra Events Committee came up with rather surprising statistics and conclusions in its 63-page printed report which also will be presented tomorrow.

Although replies to a questionnaire showed a majority of college presidents disapprove of football bowl games, the tenor of the report is favorable to bowls and other post-season events. It points out that while 53.8 per cent of the presidents frown on bowl games and only 31.4 per cent approve, the opposition is centered in groups which had little or no experience with such games.

Jim Hearn of the New York Giants handled 71 chances without an error to top the 1952 National League pitchers in the fielding department.

Keyser To Seek Tax To Finance Police Force

SRC Explains Plans For Route 220 Work

KEYSER — The Council instructed City Attorney James H. Swadley Jr., Tuesday to prepare an ordinance providing the assessment of rates, fees and charges for furnishing police protection within the city.

The draft provides for a fee of 10 cents per $100 of value of buildings, structures and improvements on real estate and tangible personal property, goods and chattels to be collected in the same manner as municipal taxes.

The ordinance, if adopted, will provide funds, enable the city government to function better than it has been, due to lack of sufficient money to conduct business of the city.

Russell Queen, Romney, State Road Commission district engineer, and Joseph Melody, Keyser office engineer, appeared before the council to clear up a number of matters in connection with construction work on Route 220, through the south end of Keyser.

An over-pass or under-pass across South Mineral Street fronting the Keyser public school block, was discussed. It was decided to await information from the Mineral County Board of Education, which met Monday and discussed the highway that will pass the school property.

The matter of repairing or renewing drains and water lines in the city was studied. Mayor Chester Compton and City Attorney Swadley told the SRC the city is unable to bear the expense of the repairs and line replacements, due to the lack of finances.

The city will, however, have a survey made to estimate the cost.

Council learned that Lincoln Street will become a dead-end street and that South Mineral Street southward will become a dead-end northward, as the road cuts southeastward from its present junction of South Mineral and Lincoln Streets.

C&P To Spend $79,000 In Mineral

A total of $79,000 was approved for the extension of rural service facilities of the Keyser area, including the section along the New Creek area, at a meeting of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company of West Virginia Board of Directors at Charleston Tuesday.

The money, which will enable the company to clear up the applications for services on hand, will be used to install 379 poles, seven miles of cable and 89 miles of wire. Bus Line Would End Service

Efforts are being made by South Branch residents to keep their only bus transportation into Cumberland from being discontinued.

Mayor David Trenton of Petersburg said the Reynolds Transportation Company of Clarksburg has petitioned the West Virginia Public Service Commission to allow it to abandon its Cumberland to Franklin run.

Both protestants to the action and the bus company have made trips to Charleston to present their views before the Public Service Commission.

Mayor Trenton told the commission that the service is essential to the residents of the valley. He pointed out that there is a duplication of service whereby another firm hauls the mail from Franklin to Cumberland, making a round trip daily. The bus line could get additional revenue if it was low bidder on the service, he declared.

Lonaconing Rejects Pay Increase For Policemen

LONACONING—The Mayor and Council Tuesday night rejected a proposal for increasing the salaries of town policemen.

The action followed a discussion on the salary issue at the council meeting.

Accomodations will be provided for policemen during cold days.

The traffic light at the intersection of Main and Bridge Streets will be in operation at all times for the safety of the citizens.

It was decided that the operation of the light would be continuous in order to provide protection to pedestrians who use the "walk" light.

Up to this time, the red and green lights were used at Central High School dismissal times, while town policemen were at the traffic box, and the caution light was used at other times.

James Getty, town attorney, presented proposals prepared to give to the Allegany County delegation for presentation to the Maryland Legislature.

The proposals have the approval of the mayor and council.

A donation of $100 was made to the Lonaconing City Band from the town special fund to be used for such purposes.

The donations to Good Will Fire company were completed, with six lantern-type lights and 200 feet of hose.

The mayor and council went on record as opposing the transfer of the Post Ofice from its present building to another building because of traffic conditions and other differences.

For use in washing the streets, 300 feet of hose was ordered.

It was ordered to reduce the outstanding debt and pay $2,000 on the town's note at the Liberty Trust Company, leaving a balance of $2,000 due.

Bollino Reports Coverage Of Outpost 24-B

FROSTBURG — Vincent C. Bollino, chief observer of Outpost 24-B, announced that since the start of "Operation Skywatch" on July 19, the outpost has been participating in the National Defense program by operating the post at better than 50 per cent coverage.

William E. Toms, supervisor, reports the post is currently serving approximately 100 hours per week, and has provided a total coverage of 2,092 hours.

Six members have been credited with 100 hours or more service. They are Leland Moses, Joseph A. Clark, Vincent Bollino, Charles P. Rafferty, William T. Toms, Raymond Winner and Adam Kalbaugh.

Bollino pointed out that Frostburg's outpost has one of the best records in the country. Beginning with operations in the building provided by Walter Mackay, the unit later moved to its present location at 80 West Mechanic Street. The new building was built by members of the unit, under the supervision of Raymond Winner and Leland Moses. The Frostburg Lions Club is also playing a vital part in manning the post.

Leaders of the post have set a goal for the new year, and the building committee is planning a domed lookout tower on its present building, while the membership committee is striving for a full 24-hour coverage each day of the week.

Keyser To Seek Tax To Finance Police Force

SRC Explains Plans For Route 220 Work

KEYSER — The Council instructed City Attorney James H. Swadley Jr., Tuesday to prepare an ordinance providing the assessment of rates, fees and charges for furnishing police protection within the city.

The draft provides for a fee of 10 cents per $100 of value of buildings, structures and improvements on real estate and tangible personal property, goods and chattels to be collected in the same manner as municipal taxes.

The ordinance, if adopted, will provide funds, enable the city government to function better than it has been, due to lack of sufficient money to conduct business of the city.

Russell Queen, Romney, State Road Commission district engineer, and Joseph Melody, Keyser office engineer, appeared before the council to clear up a number of matters in connection with construction work on Route 220, through the south end of Keyser.

An over-pass or under-pass across South Mineral Street fronting the Keyser public school block, was discussed. It was decided to await information from the Mineral County Board of Education, which met Monday and discussed the highway that will pass the school property.

The matter of repairing or renewing drains and water lines in the city was studied. Mayor Chester Compton and City Attorney Swadley told the SRC the city is unable to bear the expense of the repairs and line replacements, due to the lack of finances.

The city will, however, have a survey made to estimate the cost.

Council learned that Lincoln Street will become a dead-end street and that South Mineral Street southward will become a dead-end northward, as the road cuts southeastward from its present junction of South Mineral and Lincoln Streets.

Lonaconing Rejects Pay Increase For Policemen

LONACONING—The Mayor and Council Tuesday night rejected a proposal for increasing the salaries of town policemen.

The action followed a discussion on the salary issue at the council meeting.

Accomodations will be provided for policemen during cold days.

The traffic light at the intersection of Main and Bridge Streets will be in operation at all times for the safety of the citizens.

It was decided that the operation of the light would be continuous in order to provide protection to pedestrians who use the "walk" light.

Up to this time, the red and green lights were used at Central High School dismissal times, while town policemen were at the traffic box, and the caution light was used at other times.

James Getty, town attorney, presented proposals prepared to give to the Allegany County delegation for presentation to the Maryland Legislature.

The proposals have the approval of the mayor and council.

A donation of $100 was made to the Lonaconing City Band from the town special fund to be used for such purposes.

The donations to Good Will Fire company were completed, with six lantern-type lights and 200 feet of hose.

The mayor and council went on record as opposing the transfer of the Post Ofice from its present building to another building because of traffic conditions and other differences.

For use in washing the streets, 300 feet of hose was ordered.

It was ordered to reduce the outstanding debt and pay $2,000 on the town's note at the Liberty Trust Company, leaving a balance of $2,000 due.

SWATHED in bandages, Richard Holichek, 5, who was severely burned by a gas explosion, is comforted by his mother, Mrs. Bertha Holichek, in Los Angeles. The child was trying to light the stove oven when the accumulated gas exploded. (International)

Bollino Reports Coverage Of Outpost 24-B

FROSTBURG — Vincent C. Bollino, chief observer of Outpost 24-B, announced that since the start of "Operation Skywatch" on July 19, the outpost has been participating in the National Defense program by operating the post at better than 50 per cent coverage.

William E. Toms, supervisor, reports the post is currently serving approximately 100 hours per week, and has provided a total coverage of 2,092 hours.

Six members have been credited with 100 hours or more service. They are Leland Moses, Joseph A. Clark, Vincent Bollino, Charles P. Rafferty, William T. Toms, Raymond Winner and Adam Kalbaugh.

Bollino pointed out that Frostburg's outpost has one of the best records in the country. Beginning with operations in the building provided by Walter Mackay, the unit later moved to its present location at 80 West Mechanic Street. The new building was built by members of the unit, under the supervision of Raymond Winner and Leland Moses. The Frostburg Lions Club is also playing a vital part in manning the post.

Leaders of the post have set a goal for the new year, and the building committee is planning a domed lookout tower on its present building, while the membership committee is striving for a full 24-hour coverage each day of the week.

Keyser To Seek Tax To Finance Police Force

SRC Explains Plans For Route 220 Work

KEYSER — The Council instructed City Attorney James H. Swadley, Jr., Tuesday to prepare an ordinance providing the assessment of rates, fees and charges for furnishing police protection within the city.

The draft provides for a fee of 10 cents per $100 of value of buildings, structures and improvements on real estate and tangible personal property, goods and chattels to be collected in the same manner as municipal taxes.

The ordinance, if adopted, will provide funds, enable the city government to function better than it has been, due to lack of sufficient money to conduct business of the city.

Russell Queen, Romney, State Road Commission district engineer, and Joseph Melody, Keyser office engineer, appeared before the council to clear up a number of matters in connection with construction work on Route 220, through the south end of Keyser.

An over-pass or under-pass across South Mineral Street fronting the Keyser public school block, was discussed. It was decided to await information from the Mineral County Board of Education, which met Monday and discussed the highway that will pass the school property.

The matter of repairing or renewing drains and water lines in the city was studied. Mayor Chester Compton and City Attorney Swadley told the SRC the city is unable to bear the expense of the repairs and line replacements, due to the lack of finances.

The city will, however, have a survey made to estimate the cost.

Council learned that Lincoln Street will become a dead-end street and that South Mineral Street southward will become a dead-end northward, as the road cuts southeastward from its present junction of South Mineral and Lincoln Streets.

C&P To Spend $79,000 In Mineral

A total of $79,000 was approved for the extension of rural service facilities of the Keyser area, including the section along the New Creek area, at a meeting of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company of West Virginia Board of Directors at Charleston Tuesday.

The money, which will enable the company to clear up the applications for services on hand, will be used to install 379 poles, seven miles of cable and 89 miles of wire. This will include the line on the "cut-off" road from Route 250 on Stoney Run Road, Pine Swamp Road and Laurel Dale Road as far as the Grant County line. It will also include part of the Antioch area.

Expenditures totaling $1,570,000 for improvements and expansions in West Virginia were approved.

Refuse Disposal Meeting Planned In Lonaconing

LONACONING — The mayor and council is sponsoring a public meeting Wednesday, January 14, at 8 p. m. in the council hall, at which the State Board of Health will have engineers present to discuss refuse disposal problems and plan a system which would be of benefit to the town.

George L. Hall, chief of the division of Sanitary engineering, has communicated with the mayor and council in response to Lonaconing's desire to take advantage of the service offered by the state on refuse disposal.

There will be color slide films showing ways of refuse disposal, and proper handling of garbage dumping problems.

It should prove of great interest to all citizens because Lonaconing has a number of problems with dumping of garbage, refuse dumping in Georges Creek and its small tributaries, and refuse disposal.

Hall said the removal and satisfactory disposal of wastes are services that must be provided in the interest of public health and good community housekeeping.

"The open dump is not only a menace to the health of a community, an eyesore and the source of odor and smoke nuisances, but is a reflection on the progress of your town," he said.

Bus Line Would End Service

Efforts are being made by South Branch residents to keep their only bus transportation into Cumberland from being discontinued.

Mayor David Trenton of Petersburg said the Reynolds Transportation Company of Clarksburg has petitioned the West Virginia Public Service Commission to allow it to abandon its Cumberland to Franklin run.

Both protestants to the action and the bus company have made trips to Charleston to present their views before the Public Service Commission.

Mayor Trenton told the commission that the service is essential to the residents of the valley. He pointed out that there is a duplication of service whereby another firm hauls the mail from Franklin to Cumberland, making a round trip daily. The bus line could get additional revenue if it was low bidder on the service, he declared.

Lonaconing Rejects Pay Increase For Policemen

LONACONING—The Mayor and Council Tuesday night rejected a proposal for increasing the salaries of town policemen.

The action followed a discussion on the salary issue at the council meeting.

Accomodations will be provided for policemen during cold days.

The traffic light at the intersection of Main and Bridge Streets will be in operation at all times for the safety of the citizens.

It was decided that the operation of the light would be continuous in order to provide protection to pedestrians who use the "walk" light.

Up to this time, the red and green lights were used at Central High School dismissal times, while town policemen were at the traffic box, and the caution light was used at other times.

James Getty, town attorney, presented proposals prepared to give to the Allegany County delegation for presentation to the Maryland Legislature.

The proposals have the approval of the mayor and council.

A donation of $100 was made to the Lonaconing City Band from the town special fund to be used for such purposes.

The donations to Good Will Fire company were completed, with six lantern-type lights and 200 feet of hose.

The mayor and council went on record as opposing the transfer of the Post Ofice from its present building to another building because of traffic conditions and other differences.

For use in washing the streets, 300 feet of hose was ordered.

It was ordered to reduce the outstanding debt and pay $2,000 on the town's note at the Liberty Trust Company, leaving a balance of $2,000 due.

SWATHED in bandages, Richard Holichek, 5, who was severely burned by a gas explosion, is comforted by his mother, Mrs. Bertha Holichek, in Los Angeles. The child was trying to light the stove oven when the accumulated gas exploded. (International)

Bollino Reports Coverage Of Outpost 24-B

FROSTBURG — Vincent C. Bollino, chief observer of Outpost 24-B, announced that since the start of "Operation Skywatch" on July 19, the outpost has been participating in the National Defense program by operating the post at better than 50 per cent coverage.

William E. Toms, supervisor, reports the post is currently serving approximately 100 hours per week, and has provided a total coverage of 2,092 hours.

Six members have been credited with 100 hours or more service. They are Leland Moses, Joseph A. Clark, Vincent Bollino, Charles P. Rafferty, William T. Toms, Raymond Winner and Adam Kalbaugh.

Bollino pointed out that Frostburg's outpost has one of the best records in the country. Beginning with operations in the building provided by Walter Mackay, the unit later moved to its present location at 80 West Mechanic Street. The new building was built by members of the unit, under the supervision of Raymond Winner and Leland Moses. The Frostburg Lions Club is also playing a vital part in manning the post.

Leaders of the post have set a goal for the new year, and the building committee is planning a domed lookout tower on its present building, while the membership committee is striving for a full 24-hour coverage each day of the week.

Keyser To Seek Tax To Finance Police Force

SRC Explains Plans For Route 220 Work

KEYSER — The Council instructed City Attorney James H. Swadley Jr., Tuesday to prepare an ordinance providing the assessment of rates, fees and charges for furnishing police protection within the city.

The draft provides for a fee of 10 cents per $100 of value of buildings, structures and improvements on real estate and tangible personal property, goods and chattels to be collected in the same manner as municipal taxes.

The ordinance, if adopted, will provide funds, enable the city government to function better than it has been, due to lack of sufficient money to conduct business of the city.

Russell Queen, Romney, State Road Commission district engineer, and Joseph Melody, Keyser office engineer, appeared before the council to clear up a number of matters in connection with construction work on Route 220, through the south end of Keyser.

An over-pass or under-pass across South Mineral Street fronting the Keyser public school block, was discussed. It was decided to await information from the Mineral County Board of Education, which met Monday and discussed the highway that will pass the school property.

The matter of repairing or renewing drains and water lines in the city was studied. Mayor Chester Compton and City Attorney Swadley told the SRC the city is unable to bear the expense of the repairs and line replacements, due to the lack of finances.

The city will, however, have a survey made to estimate the cost.

Council learned that Lincoln Street will become a dead-end street and that South Mineral Street southward will become a dead-end northward, as the road cuts southeastward from its present junction of South Mineral and Lincoln Streets.

C&P To Spend $79,000 In Mineral

A total of $79,000 was approved for the extension of rural service facilities of the Keyser area, including the section along the New Creek area, at a meeting of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company of West Virginia Board of Directors at Charleston Tuesday.

The money, which will enable the company to clear up the applications for services on hand, will be used to install 379 poles, seven miles of cable and 89 miles of wire. This will include the line on the "cut-off" road from Route 250 on Stoney Run Road, Pine Swamp Road and Laurel Dale Road as far as the Grant County line. It will also include part of the Antioch area.

Expenditures totaling $1,570,000 for improvements and expansions in West Virginia were approved.

Epiphany Service Is Held At Piedmont School Field

PIEDMONT—A large crowd atended the Epiphany Service held Tuesday evening on the Piedmont High School athletic field.

The religious service was under the direction of the Tri-Towns Ministerial Association and the burning of all of the Christmas trees collected in Piedmont, Westernport and Luke was in charge of Potomac Fire Company of Westernport and Tri-Towns Fire Company of Piedmont.

William Mayles, Westernport chief, and Charles Hartman, Piedmont chief, and members of the two companies were present. A heavy snow fell during the services and trees were piled about eight feet high.

Preceding the burning of the trees the History of Epiphany was read by Rev. Clyde W. Ash, pastor of Trinity Methodist Church, who had charge of arrangements. Rev. Robert M. Campbell, pastor of Piedmont Presbyterian Church, read the Scripture and gave the benediction. Prayer was offered by Rev. E. W. Welford, pastor of Westernport Assembly of God Church. The audience sang "Joy to the World".

Refuse Disposal Meeting Planned In Lonaconing

LONACONING — The mayor and council is sponsoring a public meeting Wednesday, January 14, at 8 p. m. in the council hall, at which the State Board of Health will have engineers present to discuss refuse disposal problems and plan a system which would be of benefit to the town.

George L. Hall, chief of the division of Sanitary engineering, has communicated with the mayor and council in response to Lonaconing's desire to take advantage of the service offered by the state on refuse disposal.

There will be color slide films showing ways of refuse disposal, and proper handling of garbage dumping problems.

It should prove of great interest to all citizens because Lonaconing has a number of problems with dumping of garbage, refuse dumping in Georges Creek and its small tributaries, and refuse disposal.

Hall said the removal and satisfactory disposal of wastes are services that must be provided in the interest of public health and good community housekeeping.

"The open dump is not only a menace to the health of a community, an eyesore and the source of odor and smoke nuisances, but is a reflection on the progress of your town," he said.

Blood Donor Groups Will Meet Tonight

LONACONING — James Getty, chairman, announces that a meeting will be held at 7:30 p. m. today in the Red Cross Center, Main Street, to plan for the Blood Mobile Unit's second visit to Lonaconing.

All representatives of organizations who were present at the meetings for the first visit are requested to attend this meeting.

February 2 is the date scheduled for the Blood Mobile Unit to be in Lonaconing to receive blood from donors.

Bus Line Would End Service

Efforts are being made by South Branch residents to keep their only bus transportation into Cumberland from being discontinued.

Mayor David Trenton of Petersburg said the Reynolds Transportation Company of Clarksburg has petitioned the West Virginia Public Service Commission to allow it to abandon its Cumberland to Franklin run.

Both protestants to the action and the bus company have made trips to Charleston to present their views before the Public Service Commission.

Mayor Trenton told the commission that the service is essential to the residents of the valley. He pointed out that there is a duplication of service whereby another firm hauls the mail from Franklin to Cumberland, making a round trip daily. The bus line could get additional revenue if it was low bidder on the service, he declared.

Lonaconing Rejects Pay Increase For Policemen

LONACONING—The Mayor and Council Tuesday night rejected a proposal for increasing the salaries of town policemen.

The action followed a discussion on the salary issue at the council meeting.

Accomodations will be provided for policemen during cold days.

The traffic light at the intersection of Main and Bridge Streets will be in operation at all times for the safety of the citizens.

It was decided that the operation of the light would be continuous in order to provide protection to pedestrians who use the "walk" light.

Up to this time, the red and green lights were used at Central High School dismissal times, while town policemen were at the traffic box, and the caution light was used at other times.

James Getty, town attorney, presented proposals prepared to give to the Allegany County delegation for presentation to the Maryland Legislature.

The proposals have the approval of the mayor and council.

A donation of $100 was made to the Lonaconing City Band from the town special fund to be used for such purposes.

The donations to Good Will Fire company were completed, with six lantern-type lights and 200 feet of hose.

The mayor and council went on record as opposing the transfer of the Post Ofice from its present building to another building because of traffic conditions and other differences.

For use in washing the streets, 300 feet of hose was ordered.

It was ordered to reduce the outstanding debt and pay $2,000 on the town's note at the Liberty Trust Company, leaving a balance of $2,000 due.

Bollino Reports Coverage Of Outpost 24-B

FROSTBURG — Vincent C. Bollino, chief observer of Outpost 24-B, announced that since the start of "Operation Skywatch" on July 19, the outpost has been participating in the National Defense program by operating the post at better than 50 per cent coverage.

William E. Toms, supervisor, reports the post is currently serving approximately 100 hours per week, and has provided a total coverage of 2,092 hours.

Six members have been credited with 100 hours or more service. They are Leland Moses, Joseph A. Clark, Vincent Bollino, Charles P. Rafferty, William T. Toms, Raymond Winner and Adam Kalbaugh.

Bollino pointed out that Frostburg's outpost has one of the best records in the country. Beginning with operations in the building provided by Walter Mackay, the unit later moved to its present location at 80 West Mechanic Street. The new building was built by members of the unit, under the supervision of Raymond Winner and Leland Moses. The Frostburg Lions Club is also playing a vital part in manning the post.

Leaders of the post have set a goal for the new year, and the building committee is planning a domed lookout tower on its present building, while the membership committee is striving for a full 24-hour coverage each day of the week.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 7 (INS)—Michael Rennie, who wrote to me from Malta that he couldn't wait to get back because of the expected baby (he and Maggie expect their first in the spring) won't have much time to spend at home.

Michael has been cast in "The Robe" in the very important role of Simon called Peter. Before he checks in for that he'll play opposite Jeanne Crain in "The Ship Story," which starts this week.

Looks to me as if Mike will be bicycling between "The Robe" and "The Ship Story," in which he plays a ship's doctor who saves Jeanne Crain's life. Incidentally, this will be the first time that Mike has ever won the girl on the screen—or is it?

Rumors are flying thick and fast about who will play who in "From Here to Eternity." I can tell you that Burt Lancaster is deep in negotiations to co-star with Montgomery Clift, and Joan Crawford, who was down sick today with a bad cold, is also about ready to put her name on a contract.

I can't say it's settled, because you know and I know that there are too many slips twixt the pen and the paper on movie deals. But it looks as if these stars will have the top roles: Clift, Burt and Joan.

There's an amusing story back of Lezli Gae, 17-year-old sister of Debra Paget, getting a contract at U-I. Seems the studio wanted Debra for the lead opposite Donald O'Connor in "Walking My Baby Back Home."

Debbie knew she couldn't get away from 20th, but she had the bright idea of asking her agent to take Lezli out to the studio to try for the role.

I don't know whether Lezli will get the big break with O'Connor—she probably needs a bit of training before that—but she did get a contract. In these days, that half the battle.

Our most recent bride, Peggy Lee, will soon make her debut as the author of a book of poems called "Softly, With Feeling."

Peggy's attorney, Greg Bautzer, read several of Peggy's verses and was so pleased with them he asked her if she had any more.

"A few dozen," she said, but she brought in about 50 different poems written on scratch paper and on the back of envelopes. Greg sent them to Bennett Cerf who will bring them out in book form.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Nora Eddington denies to me there is any serious trouble between her and Dick Haymes. She said she only went out with other escorts when Dick was out of town.

That white patch Jeff Donnell is wearing over her left eye was put there because she was accidentally hit by a football rooter at the Rose Bowl game. She went with Aldo Ray to help root for his brother who is on the USC team.

June Haver has called off her cruise to the Caribbean because of the illness of her brother.

Gale Storm, who is in the Good Samaritan Hospital recovering from pneumonia, was told that she has been named honorary mayor of Van Nuys—a job without pay and not too much publicity.

Quentin Reynolds' daughter, Joan, who kissed and made up with her bridegroom, Frank Howard, is now back in town to make a test at Paramount with her husband's approval.

Attractive Mrs. Ed Madden with her husband, who is an NBC vice president, were at Rosalind and Hernando Courtright's cocktail party honoring Mrs. Della Rice. Mrs. Madden, who is vivacious and fun, later was at a dinner party at the Beverly Hills Hotel.

At a table for two at Jack's at the Beach, Nicky Hilton was buying Mona Freeman's dinner.

Maggie Whiting has made 1,600 armed forces recordings for the boys in Korea and overseas. While she's at the Cocoanut Grove she'll reserve one table a night for servicemen. Very nice.

That's all today. See you tomorrow!

My New York

by Mel Heimer

NEW YORK—The lineup is an institution peculiar to police headquarters — mugs who have been jugged the night before are paraded in front of cops under bright lights — and I had an idea it couldn't be duplicated. I was wrong. I've just been looking at the ladies' spring fashions and the whole atmosphere was the closest imaginable to the bulls' well-known rigamarole with the "Take a close look at this character, men. He is wanted for armed robbery, murder wtih a sword, etc. . ."

The fashions were being demonstrated in the Seventh Avenue workshop of a leading French couturier for the benefit of out-of-town department store buyers. I turned up a little late and I tell you, men, it was like trying to sneak behind the iron curtain.

I virtually had to tell what my mother's middle name was and whom I voted for for council president in 1939, before they'd let me in. I had a difficult time understanding the need for all the secrecy, especially after I went in and saw the dresses being modeled. They looked like any other dresses. I never could see that one dress looked much different from any other. That may be an isolated reason why I never have been over-successful as a ladies' man.

There was a brightly, harshly-lighted stage in the showroom and the buyers sat around on funeral-parlor chairs in front of it, eyeing the girls in their pretty new dresses as they came out.

You should see the hard, cold eyes on woman buyers looking over a new line of dresses. They looked like medical students sitting in on an autopsy, only not quite so boyishly enthusiastic. One or two of the models were kind of attractive, in an emaciated way—but the woman buyers never noticed. They were looking at fabrics and studying price.

The part of the cop who sing-songs out "Now this is Jakie Schmaltz, men; held up a charlotte russe shop last night and escaped with $14" was taken by a tall, bespectacled, soft-spoken man who apparently owned the joint.

"This is No. 221," he would say proudly as one of the dolls came out, glassy-eyed as if remembering that last highball last night in Jack and Charlie's, but grimly pirouetting and showing off the new spring fashion. "Sixty-nine fifty." Then, proudly eyeing the rocks around the doll's neck: "Some of the diamonds are real."

There are five dolls and each came out from behind the stage in slow, majestic fashion, striking poses all over the place. Everything was so dignified and serene. I'd have liked to have been backstage and watched the scrambling going on. It must have been like that quick-change actor who played 10 different roles in one of Ken Murray's "Blackouts" sketches a few years ago. Or like a Marx Brothers' movie at the very least.

The models acted like high priestesses or goddesses, even when they were showing some obviously ridiculous item like a winter coat with short sleeves. That's right men—short sleeves. Only one of the five resembled a human. She was older and she was obviously hung over, the poor wretch. Every step she took, every grimace she made must have cost her five years of her life.

A couple of the dolls even dragged coats around casually after them. The more costly the coat, the more obviously it was drug. I

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 7 (INS)—Michael Rennie, who wrote to me from Malta that he couldn't wait to get back because of the expected baby (he and Maggie expect their first in the spring) won't have much time to spend at home.

Michael has been cast in "The Robe" in the very important role of Simon called Peter. Before he checks in for that he'll play opposite Jeanne Crain in "The Ship Story," which starts this week.

Looks to me as if Mike will be bicycling between "The Robe" and "The Ship Story," in which he plays a ship's doctor who saves Jeanne Crain's life. Incidentally, this will be the first time that Mike has ever won the girl on the screen —or is it?

Rumors are flying thick and fast about who will play who in "From Here to Eternity." I can tell you that Burt Lancaster is deep in negotiations to co-star with Montgomery Clift, and Joan Crawford, who was down sick today with a bad cold, is also about ready to put her name on a contract.

I can't say it's settled, because you know and I know that there are too many slips twixt the pen and the paper on movie deals. But it looks as if these stars will have the top roles: Clift, Burt and Joan.

There's an amusing story back of Lezli Gae, 17-year-old sister of Debra Paget, getting a contract at U-I. Seems the studio wanted Debra for the lead opposite Donald O'Connor in "Walking My Baby Back Home."

Debbie knew she couldn't get away from 20th, but she had the bright idea of asking her agent to take Lezli out to the studio to try for the role.

I don't know whether Lezli will get the big break with O'Connor—she probably needs a bit of training before that—but she did get a contract. In these days, that half the battle.

Our most recent bride, Peggy Lee, will soon make her debut as the author of a book of poems called "Softly, With Feeling."

Peggy's attorney, Greg Bautzer, read several of Peggy's verses and was so pleased with them he asked her if she had any more.

"A few dozen," she said, but she brought in about 50 different poems written on scratch paper and on the back of envelopes. Greg sent them to Bennett Cerf who will bring them out in book form.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Nora Eddington denies to me there is any serious trouble between her and Dick Haymes. She said she only went out with other escorts when Dick was out of town.

That white patch Jeff Donnell is wearing over her left eye was put there because she was accidentally hit by a football rooter at the Rose Bowl game. She went with Aldo Ray to help root for his brother who is on the USC team.

June Haver has called off her cruise to the Caribbean because of the illness of her brother.

Gale Storm, who is in the Good Samaritan Hospital recovering from pneumonia, was told that she has been named honorary mayor of Van Nuys—a job without pay and not too much publicity.

Quentin Reynolds' daughter, Joan, who kissed and made up with her bridegroom, Frank Howard, is now back in town to make a test at Paramount with her husband's approval.

Attractive Mrs. Ed Madden with her husband, who is an NBC vice president, were at Rosalind and Hernando Courtright's cocktail party honoring Mrs. Della Rice. Mrs. Madden, who is vivacious and fun, later was at a dinner party at the Beverly Hills Hotel.

At a table for two at Jack's at the Beach, Nicky Hilton was buying Mona Freeman's dinner.

Maggie Whiting has made 1,600 armed forces recordings for the boys in Korea and overseas. While she's at the Cocoanut Grove she'll reserve one table a night for servicemen. Very nice.

That's all today. See you tomorrow!

My New York

by Mel Heimer

NEW YORK—The lineup is an institution peculiar to police headquarters — mugs who have been jugged the night before are paraded in front of cops under bright lights — and I had an idea it couldn't be duplicated. I was wrong. I've just been looking at the ladies' spring fashions and the whole atmosphere was the closest imaginable to the bulls' well-known rigamarole with the "Take a close look at this character, men. He is wanted for armed robbery, murder wtih a sword, etc. . ."

The fashions were being demonstrated in the Seventh Avenue workshop of a leading French couturier for the benefit of out-of-town department store buyers. I turned up a little late and I tell you, men, it was like trying to sneak behind the iron curtain.

I virtually had to tell what my mother's middle name was and whom I voted for for council president in 1939, before they'd let me in. I had a difficult time understanding the need for all the secrecy, especially after I went in and saw the dresses being modeled. They looked like any other dresses. I never could see that one dress looked much different from any other. That may be an isolated reason why I never have been over-successful as a ladies' man.

There was a brightly, harshly-lighted stage in the showroom and the buyers sat around on funeral-parlor chairs in front of it, eyeing the girls in their pretty new dresses as they came out.

You should see the hard, cold eyes on woman buyers looking over a new line of dresses. They looked like medical students sitting in on an autopsy, only not quite so boyishly enthusiastic. One or two of the models were kind of attractive, in an emaciated way —but the woman buyers never noticed. They were looking at fabrics and studying price.

The part of the cop who sing-songs out "Now this is Jakie Schmaltz, men; held up a charlotte russe shop last night and escaped with $14" was taken by a tall, bespectacled, soft-spoken man who apparently owned the joint.

"This is No. 221," he would say proudly as one of the dolls came out, glassy-eyed as if remembering that last highball last night in Jack and Charlie's, but grimly pirouetting and showing off the new spring fashion. "Sixty-nine fifty." Then, proudly eyeing the rocks around the doll's neck: "Some of the diamonds are real."

There are five dolls and each came out from behind the stage in slow, majestic fashion, striking poses all over the place. Everything was so dignified and serene. I'd have liked to have been backstage and watched the scrambling going on. It must have been like that quick-change actor who played 10 different roles in one of Ken Murray's "Blackouts" sketches a few years ago. Or like a Marx Brothers' movie at the very least.

The models acted like high priestesses or goddesses, even when they were showing some obviously ridiculous item like a winter coat with short sleeves. That's right men—short sleeves. Only one of the five resembled a human. She was older and she was obviously hung over, the poor wretch. Every step she took, every grimace she made must have cost her five years of her life.

A couple of the dolls even dragged coats around casually after them. The more costly the coat, the more obviously it was drug. I

Those who believe Truman would be more inclined to reduce the sentence of the Rosenbergs (there is no way undr law that they could be given life imprisonment; only 30 years or less) argue that Eisenhower frequently had to and did approve death sentences handed up by military courts. And, also, that as a military man, Eisenhower would take a sterner view of the theft of great military secrets than would a civilian.

On the other hand, we have heard followers of the case assert that the Rosenbergs would have a better chance with Eisenhower. Anyway, we'll soon know. . . And the rival attorneys wished they did right now.

A new manual on alcoholism, put out by the Public Affairs Committee, states that about 4,000,000 American adults have gone beyond the pale of social drinking and must be classed as alcoholics, preposterous as that word will sound to most of them.

An alcoholic, according to the committee study, is one who refuses to admit he (or she) "can't drink." Unwilling to face the fact that body chemistry or nervous reaction makes alcohol poison to them, the person persists in trying to prove that booze is easy to handle.

Other symptoms: Finding it difficult to stop after one or two; getting emotionally upset instead of relaxed, taking a drink before a party or an appointment, losing the power of being able to take it or leave it. The committee goes to some pains to point out that as a disease, can be cured, and that less than 20 per cent of U. S. alcoholics are "skid-row" characters.

Suits Filed In Highway Mishap

Suits were docketed in Circuit Court yesterday by the State of Maryland, for the use of Genevieve Y'Vonne Kalbaugh, against Elizabeth A. Gilmore, administratrix of the estate of Timothy A. Gilmore, for $51,500 in connection with the death of Mrs. Kalbaugh's husband in a highway crash on Route 220 last August 31.

The one suit is for $50,000 and is filed as damages in the loss of her husband's support for herself and three minor children. The second suit is for $1,500 and is for funeral expenses incurred.

Timothy A. Gilmore was the driver of a car in which five young men met their death about 5 a. m. August 31 between Rawlings and Cresaptown. The declarations in both suits, filed by Horace P. Whitworth Jr., attorney for the plaintiff, state that Gilmore was operating the car at an excessively high rate of speed.

So far, there have been 13 damage actions filed in connection with the tragic accident. Defendants in several other suits are the administrator of the estate of Richard Moran, owner of the car; Lewis Howard Allwine and Lewis Thomas Allwine, of New Jersey, driver and owner of a car which was parked on the left side of the highway with its bright lights on. The Moran car crashed into the Allwine machine.

Textile Workers Union To Nominate Officers

Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America (CIO), will nominate officers and make election plans at two meetings next week. Plans for negotiations with the Celanese Corporation will also be discussed.

The first is scheduled next Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. in Textile Hall and the following morning at 10:30 in the same place.

Suits Filed In Highway Mishap

Suits were docketed in Circuit Court yesterday by the State of Maryland, for the use of Genevieve Y'Vonne Kalbaugh, against Elizabeth A. Gilmore, administratrix of the estate of Timothy A. Gilmore, for $51,500 in connection with the death of Mrs. Kalbaugh's husband in a highway crash on Route 220 last August 31.

The one suit is for $50,000 and is filed as damages in the loss of her husband's support for herself and three minor children. The second suit is for $1,500 and is for funeral expenses incurred.

Timothy A. Gilmore was the driver of a car in which five young men met their death about 5 a. m. August 31 between Rawlings and Cresaptown. The declarations in both suits, filed by Horace P. Whitworth Jr., attorney for the plaintiff, state that Gilmore was operating the car at an excessively high rate of speed.

So far, there have been 13 damage actions filed in connection with the tragic accident. Defendants in several other suits are the administrator of the estate of Richard Moran, owner of the car; Lewis Howard Allwine and Lewis Thomas Allwine, of New Jersey, driver and owner of a car which was parked on the left side of the highway with its bright lights on. The Moran car crashed into the Allwine machine.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear mother and grandmother, Mrs. Annie Reed, who passed away 19 years ago today, January 8, 1934.

MOTHER

There is not a day that passes, Mom,
We do not think of you,
Your face is in our memory still,
Your voice, your footsteps too.
Sadly missed by daughter
and granddaughters,
MRS. MARY CORDRY, Warren, Ohio
HELEN, GERALDINE,
MARGARET, MAXINE.

SEGGIE—In loving memory of our dear mother, grandmother and great grandmother, Sarah C. Seggie, who died 5 years ago, January 7, 1948.

Five years ago you left us,
To visit God's garden grand.
The time has been eternal,
But some day we'll understand.
We are comforted to know, dear,
That God needed a soul like you,
To keep His garden growing,
He takes only the chosen few.
And as the days and years go by,
More beautiful His garden will grow,
Our hope is that we meet you there,
And God, may He will it so.
Loving daughters,
SARAH & ANNIE and GRANDCHILDREN

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear mother and grandmother, Mrs. Annie Reed, who passed away 19 years ago today, January 8, 1934.

MOTHER

There is not a day that passes, Mom,
We do not think of you.
Your face is in our memory still,
Your voice, your footsteps too.
Sadly missed by daughter
and granddaughters.
MRS. MARY CORDRY, Warren, Ohio
HELEN, GERALDINE,
MARGARET, MAXINE.

SEGGIE—In loving memory of our dear mother, grandmother and great grandmother, Sarah C. Seggie, who died 5 years ago, January 7, 1948.

Five years ago you left us,
To visit God's garden grand.
The time has been eternal,
But some day we'll understand.
We are comforted to know, dear,
That God needed a soul like you,
To keep His garden growing,
He takes only the chosen few.
And as the days and years go by,
More beautiful His garden will grow,
Our hope is that we meet you there,
And God, may He will it so.
Loving daughters,

understand a whimsical model named Wendy Russell started this custom over in Paris one season, just for laughs, and pretty soon all the dolls were doing it seriously. Broadway actresses, of course, are not considered successful at all if they don't have two mink coats—one to wear and one to drag.

Well, there was this police lineup air about the whole thing and also an atmosphere like that of small girls trying on mother's clothes before the mirror, but I can say truthfully that I have seen next spring's high fashions. Like I said before, dresses will be worn. Any man who can differentiate between dress styles is a better man than I, which of course is no feat at all.

Motors Exception As Stock Market Continues Decline

NEW YORK, Jan. 7 (AP)—The stock market continued its decline today to make it two in a row, but the slump was much more moderate and uncovered late support.

Near the close, the motors came to life, regained their losses and closed with good gains. Chrysler was as low as 92⅞ before it recovered and closed up ⅞ at 94⅝. Other leading motors were somewhat heavily traded and closed higher.

Some recovery was shown in railorads while fairly good plus signs were noted in air lines, aircrafts, radio-televisions, and chemicals. Other areas of the market were steady to lower.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks lost 40 cents at $115.10 with the industrial and railroad components each off 50 cents. Utilities were down 10 cents.

The loss of the 60 stock average was just half of yesterday's decline which was the worst in more than two months.

Benguet Consolidated Mining headed the list of ten most active issues for the fourth straight time. It was up ⅛ at 1¾.

Following it were New York Central up ¼ at 23½, Packard Motor Car up ⅛ at 5½, Affiliated Gas Equipment up ¼ at 9½, and U. S. Steel off ¾ at 43⅛, the only minus sign in the most active list.

Among other losers were Bethlehem Steel off ⅜ at 56½, Goodyear ½ at 54¾, United Aircraft ⅜ at 37⅜, American Telephone ½ at 160¼, Homestake Mining ¼ at 39, Pennsylvania Railroad ⅜ at 22⅞, Chesapeake & Ohio ⅝ at 39½, Standard Oil (NJ) ⅞ at 77⅛, and Texas Co. ½ at 56¼.

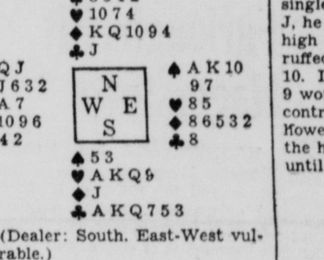
Daily Bridge Lesson

by Shepard Barclay

SURELY UNBALANCED

YOU have to be something of a pessimist, as well as partly optimist, to be a well-rounded bridge player. It is fine to hope for maximum results and try for them. But you should at the same time protect yourself against the worst, if you can. You may be sure a bad division of your vigorously-bid side suit exists in the defenders' hands if one of them leads it during the early play. His only excuse for that would be an unbalanced situation, either with him having a singleton and hoping later to ruff or having so many he feels his partner might be short or even void of the suit and thus able to ruff.



(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 ♣	Pass	1 ♦	Pass
3 ♣	Pass	3 ♦	Pass

You would certainly expect North to bid over that "reverse bid" of the higher-rank hearts after South's earlier club jump, but with the misfit hands it turned out there was no game for North and South in the deal. The 3-Spades, however, should have been made. South, though, was a little too much of a take-things-for-granted optimist and got himself set.

East let the spade Q lead win and overtook the J with the A, then shifted to the club 8 in the hope of ultimately getting a ruff which might beat the low contract. He did not get any ruff, but his return brought co-operation enough from South to produce the same result.

The declarer let the club 8 run to the J, then scored three high trumps, being chagrined to see East's spade discard on the third, leaving West with the high J. Now his case was hopeless. He scored the club A, K and Q, but when he led the 7 West won with the 10, took out South's last trump with the J and scored the diamond A for the setting trick.

Forewarned by East's club lead, South should have safeguarded himself against that being a singleton. Winning with dummy's J, he should have scored only one high trump, then should have ruffed a low club with the heart 10. If the J over-ruffed that, the 9 would have set up to make the contract secure. When it won, However, he should have taken the heart K and Q, then led clubs until the J was used for ruffing.

Tomorrow's Problem

(Dealer: West. Both sides vulnerable.)

If you listened to that bidding, how close could you come to guessing the suit-lengths of East and West without seeing either hand?

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Well, there was this police lineup air about the whole thing and also an atmosphere like that of small girls trying on mother's clothes before the mirror, but I can say truthfully that I have seen next spring's high fashions. Like I said before, dresses will be worn. Any man who can differentiate between dress styles is a better man than I, which of course is no feat at all.

Motors Exception As Stock Market Continues Decline

NEW YORK, Jan. 7 (AP)—The stock market continued its decline today to make it two in a row, but the slump was much more moderate and uncovered late support.

Near the close, the motors came to life, regained their losses and closed with good gains. Chrysler was as low as 92⅞ before it recovered and closed up ⅞ at 94⅝. Other leading motors were somewhat heavily traded and closed higher.

Some recovery was shown in railorads while fairly good plus signs were noted in air lines, aircrafts, radio-televisions, and chemicals. Other areas of the market were steady to lower.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks lost 40 cents at $115.10 with the industrial and railroad components each off 50 cents. Utilities were down 10 cents.

The loss of the 60 stock average was just half of yesterday's decline which was the worst in more than two months.

Benguet Consolidated Mining headed the list of ten most active issues for the fourth straight time. It was up ⅛ at 1¾.

Following it were New York Central up ¼ at 23½, Packard Motor Car up ⅛ at 5½, Affiliated Gas Equipment up ¼ at 9½, and U. S. Steel off ¾ at 43⅛, the only minus sign in the most active list.

Among other losers were Bethlehem Steel off ⅜ at 56½, Goodyear ½ at 54¾, United Aircraft ⅜ at 37⅜, American Telephone ½ at 160¼, Homestake Mining ¼ at 39, Pennsylvania Railroad ⅜ at 22⅞, Chesapeake & Ohio ⅝ at 39½, Standard Oil (NJ) ⅞ at 77⅛, and Texas Co. ½ at 56¼.

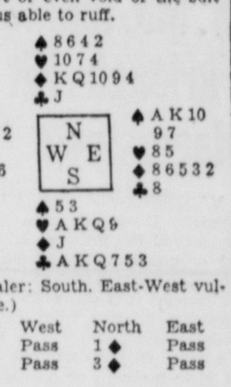
Daily Bridge Lesson
by Shepard Barclay

SURELY UNBALANCED

YOU have to be something of a pessimist, as well as partly optimist, to be a well-rounded bridge player. It is fine to hope for maximum results and try for them. But you should at the same time protect yourself against the worst, if you can. You may be sure a bad division of your vigorously-bid side suit exists in the defenders' hands if one of them leads it during the early play. His only excuse for that would be an unbalanced situation, either with him having a singleton and hoping later to ruff or having so many he feels his partner might be short or even void of the suit and thus able to ruff.



(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 ♣	Pass	1 ♦	Pass
3 ♣	Pass	3 ♦	Pass

You would certainly expect North to bid over that "reverse bid" of the higher-rank hearts after South's earlier club jump, but with the misfit hands it turned out there was no game for North and South in the deal. The 3-Spades, however, should have been made. South, though, was a little too much of a take-things-for-granted optimist and got himself set.

East let the spade Q lead win and overtook the J with the A, then shifted to the club 8 in the hope of ultimately getting a ruff which might beat the low contract. He did not get any ruff, but his return brought co-operation enough from South to produce the same result.

The declarer let the club 8 run to the J, then scored three high trumps, being chagrined to see East's spade discard on the third, leaving West with the high J. Now his case was hopeless. He scored the club A, K and Q, but when he led the 7 West won with the 10, took out South's last trump with the J and scored the diamond A for the setting trick.

Forewarned by East's club lead, South should have safeguarded himself against that being a singleton. Winning with dummy's J, he should have scored only one high trump, then should have ruffed a low club with the heart 10. If the J over-ruffed that, the 9 would have set up to make the contract secure. When it won, However, he should have taken the heart K and Q, then led clubs until the J was used for ruffing.

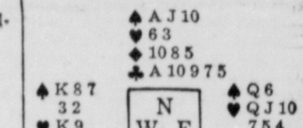
Tomorrow's Problem



(Dealer: West. Both sides vulnerable.)

If you listened to that bidding, how close could you come to guessing the suit-lengths of East and West without seeing either hand?

7 Indictments Are Returned By Grand Jury

46 Witnesses Heard In Three-Day Session

Seven indictments, the lowest number in recent years, were returned yesterday afternoon in the report of the Grand Jury for the January term of Allegany County Circuit.

A total of 46 witnesses went before the jury with William H. Sluss Jr., Frostburg grocer, as foreman. Following the report, Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris, commented on the small number of indictments and said it indicated a drop in criminal violations throughout the county.

After commending the jury members Judge Harris excused them and said they would be subject to recall and will remain members of the jury until the April term of court.

Among the witnesses heard were Police and Fire Commissioner, Fire Chief and Police Chief of Cumberland, the Sheriff and police departments heads of Frostburg, Westernport, Lonaconing, Barton and Luke.

Inspect County Jail

In an inspection of the County Jail the jury found eleven prisoners. The general condition of the jail was very good and Sheriff Edward R. Muir and his deputies were commended.

The jury reported that the Allegany County Commissioners have a four-year program of improvements applicable to all County buildings and that so far as the Court House is concerned, plans are included to modernize the fourth floor and basement. The jury termed the modernization necessary and should be done as soon as possible.

Following an inspection of Sylvan Retreat, the jury's report noted there were a total of 83 patients and found conditions at the institution good. No recommendations as to any improvements were made at this time.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Grim were praised for the orderly conditions and manner in which the premises are maintained at the Allegany County Home. Forty residents were reported at the home.

The general physical condition of property at the County Infirmary was reported as good. Ninety-one patients are at the infirmary, the report noted with 70 persons employed at the institution.

The jury particularly commended Dr. J. E. McLean for his close attention to the patients, and also recommended to future Grand juries that a committee consisting of at least ten members should visit and inspect both the Infirmary and County Home, as these two places are a credit to the county and if possible the Grand Jury should inspect the premises in a body.

In conclusion the jury's report found that the State's Attorney's office conducted its duties effici-

Ski Club Plans Outing Tonight

The Western Maryland Ski Club will hold a ski party tonight at its headquarters at Guntertown, west of Frostburg for members and nonmembers alike.

Club officers said conditions on the slopes are excellent, with more than eight inches of hard-packed base snow and five inches of powdery top snow.

The club also plans to spend Saturday and Sunday afternoons and evenings at the ski lodge. About 40 attended a similar outing last Sunday. The club said both beginners and advanced skiers will be welcome to attend.

Persons who wish to attend tonight's ski party or the weekend outing but need transportation should contact Thomas F. Conlon Jr., club president.

Many Questions Are Facing Legislators At Annapolis

ANNAPOLIS, Jan. 7 (AP)—When should a public road not be a public road? Do injured workmen get enough compensation? Who should have the final say with paroles? Should a man get whipped for beating his wife?

These and other questions face the General Assembly, which convened today. Each question represents a measure ready for action. The query on roads took form of a joint resolution recommended by the Sobeloff Commission, an advisory group appointed to suggest possible means of streamlining the state government.

The commission thinks the attorney general should review all the state's laws relating to highways and streets and recommend to the governor legislation to abandon roads no longer serving a public use and to rid the law books of out-dated statutes.

Would Cut Costs

There solution would authorize the use of existing state agencies for the surveys and, if necessary, to hire outside assistance.

If carried through, this would mean that some little-used roads might be taken off the state or county maintenance lists.

The workers compensation bill, written by the Legislative Council on a proposal by the CIO Maryland Industrial Union Council, would increase the maximum paid to a permanently disabled workman from $32 to $40 a week.

Sets $12,000 Limit

The workman could continue receiving these payments until he had received $12,500. The present law puts the ceiling at $10,000.

The bill also gives him two years, instead of the present one, in which to file his claim for the compensation payments.

The bill dealing with paroles, recommended by the Sobeloff Commission, sets up a parole board that would handle the screening of eligible prisoners and make parole recommendations to the governor.

Gov. McKeldin has indicated he favored turning over the entire responsibility of paroles to a board. But the Legislative Council, in approving the bill, made the board advisory only and retained the final say in the governor's hands.

Has Final Say

The board would consist of three members appointed by the governor to six-year terms.

Through what the Department of Legislative Reference said was an oversight, the commission's original proposal—that the board have full responsibility for paroles— remained in the bill as printed for the Legislature.

But it is a matter of record that the council made the alteration to the commission proposal to give the governor the final word.

May Be Toned Down

Maryland's ancient law providing for lashing a wife-beating husband would be toned down considerably under the bill recommended by the Prisoners Aid Association of Maryland.

The measure would substitute a fine not exceeding $500 for the wording that now permits a sentence of not more than 40 lashes.

McKeldin is giving full backing to the revision. Several months ago he directed a Frederick County magistrate to rescind a lashing sentence.

Optimists Name Steering Group For King Circus

Committees To Be Listed Wednesday

The Optimists Club last night named a five-man steering committee for the presentation of the King Brothers and Cristiani Circus in May.

The circus' appearance here will be sponsored jointly by the Optimist and Exchange clubs, with net proceeds to be used for the benefit of underprivileged children.

Members of the Optimist steering committee named last night by S. Allan Staggers, club president, are Harold E. Naughton, Byron Kight, James Honeycutt, Homer S. Higgins, and Staggers.

The steering group will select committeemen to help promote the circus, which will be here Monday, May 11.

Optimist committeemen will work with members of committees named by the Exchange Club Tuesday night. The Optimist committees will be announced at the weekly meeting next Wednesday at 6:30 p. m. at Central YMCA.

Plans for the circus occupied most of the discussion at last night's meeting, first to be held by the Optimists since December 17 because of the holiday period.

The King Brothers circus will stage Cumberland's first circus parade in several years on the morning of its performance day here.

The circus will arrive on Saturday, May 9, and will hold its parade Monday, May 11, at 11:30 a. m. The Big Top will be set up at Community Ball Park.

W. Md. Railway Furloughs Hit Hagerstown

HAGERSTOWN, Jan. 7 (AP)—The Western Maryland Railway today announced the furlough or dismissal of another 70 shop employes, saying they no longer will be needed because it is converting its Hagerstown division from steam to diesel locomotives.

Another 65 shop workers received their furlough or dismissal notices ten days ago and their jobs ended today. The latest 70, bringing the total to 135, will be through Friday.

The railroad explained it will not need boiler workers, blacksmiths, machinists, sheet metal workers and helpers after the conversion to diesel locomotives. The diesels do not require nearly as much repair and maintenance work as steam engines.

Ten new diesel units are scheduled to arrive here in the next few weeks and the railroad plans to replace all but a few comparatively new steam engines.

There was little apprehension here immediately about the layoffs.

The Western Maryland's dieselization program had resulted in the furlough of about 110 workers previously and most of them were absorbed quickly into other industries because of their skills.

The Hagerstown area has had a shortage of skilled labor for several years and many of the railroaders went to work at the Fairchild Aircraft plant, the city's largest industry.

State Employment officials here said up to now they had encountered little trouble placing the furloughed workers.

Railroad Smoke Record Is Good

Both the Baltimore and Ohio and the Western Maryland Railway turned in good smoke abatement records last month.

Reports released at a Terminal Smoke Meeting yesterday at City Hall showed that the Western Maryland had a perfect record from 19 observations.

The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad was charged with one violation in 206 observations.

The violation was excused, however, when testimony disclosed that Engine 4059, at the Back Shops, was being lighted off and not in service.

The Smoke Abatement ordinance allows smoke for nine minutes while a locomotive is being lighted.

Auto-Truck Crash Injures Four Persons

Victims Conditions Reported Serious

Four persons were seriously injured yesterday afternoon in a car-truck headon collision on U. S. Route 219 near Parsons, W. Va.

Taken to Tucker County Hospital were Pfc. Otto Pennington, 24; his wife, Mrs. Charlotte (Lawrence) Pennington, 16; and his two brothers, James, 18, and Ray, 16.

Trooper G. H. Phillip, of the State Police Detachment at Thomas, W. Va., said the accident occurred at 2:45 p. m. one mile from Parsons in front of a stone quarry, the scene of a fatal two-truck crash which killed Arthur DiBacco of near Parsons in September, 1948.

According to police, a sedan driven by Pennington and a truck loaded with crated chickens crashed head on. Trooper Phillip said the two vehicles had to be pulled apart by a wrecker after the crash.

Driver of the truck, Roy Randall Glotfelty, of McHenry, Md, Md., was not hurt.

Pennington's wife and two brothers were riding with him in his auto while he was enroute to Hendricks from Petersburg where he was visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Doyle Pennington.

Although details of injuries were not available last night, at least one passenger of the auto was reported in critical condition. The other three were serious.

Pennington was home on leave from Fort Riley, Kansas, and was visiting his wife at her parents' home in Petersburg. He returned to the United States from Korea October 20 to attend the funeral of his brother, Pfc. Doyle Pennington Jr., 19, who was killed in action in Korea in August.

Trooper Phillip is continuing his investigation of the crash.

Milk, Ice Cream Forum Planned Here Friday

A training session for employes, foremen and managers of milk and ice cream plants will be sponsored here Friday by the Allegany County Health Department.

Dr. Winter R. Frantz, city and council health officer, said the classes will be held from 9:30 a. m. to 4:30 p. m. in the health department training center in the County Building, 111 Union Street.

Registration for the anticipated 75 persons to participate will be the first matter of business.

There will be a talk on "Canning Fresh Milk" by C. B. A. Bryant, field sales manager of Johnson and Johnson Company, Montgomery, Mich.

R. H. Haycock, supervisor of engineering for the Cherry-Burrell Corporation, will speak on "Planning Your Plant for Profits."

The afternoon session will begin with a demonstration and discussion of BDI detergent tests for fat in milk and other dairy products by O. S. Sager, chemist for the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Bryant will speak again on farm tank holding of milk and farm tank pickups.

C. M. Moore, official of Cowles Company of Cleveland, will discuss new methods of sanitation in dairy plants and new farm sanitation procedures.

City Registration Is At 15,674 Mark

A total of 15,674 voters were on the city registration books on December 31.

That represents a drop of 11, since there were no new registrations and the names of 11 dead were dropped from the rolls.

One voter changed to another precinct during December.

Melting Snow, Rain Form Ice Layer On Roads

Tired Cinder Crews Called Out Again

Yesterday's snow-melting temperatures backfired into trouble for area state police, motorists and cindering crews last night as wet roads began to grow a layer of ice.

On top of dropping thermometers last night, the Cumberland area got more trouble as a downpour of rain started about 9:30 p. m. to form potential ice.

State Road Commission and city cindering crews, tired from their night and day work of clearing six inches of snow yesterday, were again on the job last night salting and ashing icy roads.

SRC, county and city workers had highways and streets all but cleared yesterday allowing buses to catch up on schedules. Last night only Blue Ridge Transportation Company and C and W Transit Company lines reported buses a little late.

Blue Ridge buses were having trouble especially in Garrett County where ice began to form on roads early yesterday afternoon.

State Police in Maryland, West Virginia and Pennsylvania last night warned motorists that roads were becoming icy and hazardous.

The Tri-State area got rain, sleet and snow in separate sections yesterday with Cumberland receiving .5 of an inch of snow and a downpour of rain late last night. The light snow fell between 4:30 p. m. and 6:30 p. m.

West Virginia State Police at Romney last night reported a light rain and snow had fallen in that section yesterday afternoon and roads were icy.

At Bedford, Pa., state police said snow was falling hard in that section and roads were covered within an hour after snow started at 6:30 p. m. Police added roads were slippery and a few accidents occurred in that section during the day.

State Police at LaVale called roads in this area slippery in spots but warned they would probably be icy before midnight. They especially said roads from Frostburg west were extremely slick.

It was sleeting last night at Deal and Rockwood, Pa., on top of 10 inches of old snow. Temperatures there were 24 and 32 degrees.

Communities west on the B and O Railroad line only had cloudy weather yesterday with temperatures all above freezing. There is about 13 inches of old snow in that area.

It was reported snow was falling east on the railroad line at Orleans Road and Harpers Ferry, however. Temperatures there were just below freezing. About seven inches of old snow blankets that section.

All along the Western Maryland Railway line it was either raining or sleeting. Elkins and Thomas, W. Va., were having rain there last night with mercury at 36 degrees.

Plans For New Structure Will Be Received Soon

By C. W. BLACKBURN
News Staff Writer

The City of Cumberland this month will receive plans for a new bridge to span Wills Creek at Baltimore Street.

The design of the bridge, which is to be built in connection with the $17,000,000 Cumberland-Ridgeley Flood Control Project, will make use of the most modern ideas in bridge construction.

It will be built at the strategic spot on Wills Creek where up to a dozen spans, illustrating most of the history of bridges in the United States, have stood.

Until recent years, most of the bridges were damaged or carried away by what Lowdermilk, in his "History of Cumberland" called freshlets.

Perhaps the terms is a good one, for the virgin forests which covered this area in the 18th century would have held back part of the runoffs which constitute a serious flood menace today.

Is Carried Away

In 1755, a bridge was built across Wills Creek. It must have been a pretty good one, for it stood until 1790, when it was carried away by a freshlet.

During that summer, a wooden bridge was built on the site of the present Baltimore Street bridge.

Lowdermilk said the structure was built up of wooden piers and by frequent repairs was kept in operating condition until 1804, when it was damaged by high water.

In January, 1805, the General Assembly authorized the county commissioners to hold a lottery to raise not more than $2,000 for the purchase of a fire truck for Cumberland and the construction of a bridge across Wills Creek.

Lowdermilk notes there is no record that the lottery was held but that the bridge was built, only to be washed away by the "great freshlet" of 1810, when the creek flooded Mechanic Street.

Ferry Is Established

Following that big flood, a ferry was established at the site until a new bridge could be built.

The ferry equipment included a rope stretched across the creek, with the ends lashed to walnut trees.

A flat boat was attached to a ring which slipped along the cable.

Shortly afterwards, another wooden bridge was built. It lasted until 1820, when a suspension chain bridge was built.

This bridge was erected upon orders of county authorities upon a plan invented by James Finley, of Fayette County, P., in 1796.

Finley, designer of the first suspension bridges in the United States, had already built structures with spans of 200 feet before the Cumberland span was erected.

Big locust posts were used to form the piers of the span and from the uprights were stretched the chains which held up the 115½ foot span.

The floor was wide enough for only a single line of vehicles.

Three Escape Death

New and heavier posts were installed in 1831 after several of the posts gave away.

Meister Case Continues To Baffle Police

Reward Offered For Information

Baffled police last night continued to hope for a clue to the whereabouts of Mrs. Odessa Frances (Molinari) Meister, but reported no important new developments in the case.

Mrs. Meister dropped out of sight Saturday, December 20, and has not been seen since.

Investigators, who asked that anyone having information in the case come forward, said their appeal so far has brought no tangible lead in the case.

Mrs. Virginia Farrin, sister of the missing woman, said yesterday the family has received several anonymous letters advising them to seek the advice of certain fortune-tellers.

Police said they had received no such letters, but that a few anonymous tips had been phoned in. All proved valueless.

Anthony Molinari, Mrs. Meister's father, yesterday announced he would give a reward for information leading to discovery of Mrs. Meister's whereabouts.

Rumors, which have hindered efforts of investigators from the start, continue to spread. One of the latest had it that Mrs. Meister had returned to her Columbia Street apartment.

However, Mrs. Farrin said last night that she and her mother, Mrs. Molinari, had been to the apartment to do some housecleaning. She said she may have been mistaken for Mrs. Meister.

City Asks Bids On Equipment For Fluoridation

Another step toward the fluoridation of the city water supply is being taken today as the Water Department advertises for bids for equipment needed for the process.

The first step was taken on December 8 when the Mayor and Council unanimously approved a City Board of Health resolution calling for the addition of flourine in the water as a means of reducing tooth decay.

Bids for the equipment will be opened by the Mayor and Council January 26 at 10 a. m., according to William J. Edwards, commissioner of water and electric light.

Specifications call for solution type equipment necessary to inject one part of flourine into 1,000,000 parts of filtered water.

The equipment must include safety handling controls needed to protect the Lake Gordon plant personnel who handle the fluoride compounds.

The successful bidder will be required to prepare plans and specifications for approval of the equipment by the Maryland and Pennsylvania health boards, which must grant approval before the equipment may be used.

In general, the control specifications set by the state health boards for fluoridation corresponds with those set up for the addition of chlorine, except that the latter process is mandatory.

Trial Begins In Slaying Of Local Man's Brother

Defendant Says He Was Drunk

Attorney William Rardin told a jury in Point Pleasant, W. Va., yesterday that his defense of a 22-year-old riverman accused of first-degree murder would differ but slightly from the prosecution.

Rardin said he would show that Oshel Gardner Jr. was drunk the night he killed Roy Jackson, brother of Lonnie Jackson of Cumberland.

Being drunk, the court-appointed attorney said, Gardner was incapable of premeditated murder. Rardin added that there had never been trouble between the two men.

The slightly - built defendant pleaded innocent earlier in the day in the jam-packed courtroom.

Had No Enemies

Gardner set quietly as a state trooper read his signed statement admitting the slaying of Jackson, described at the time of his death as a man who had no known enemies.

Jackson was the owner of a taxi company and a former fire chief.

The jury, selected in a surprisingly short time, was qualified to return a death verdict.

State Trooper C. R. Smithers, one of ten witnesses called by the state, read Gardner's confession. In it, Gardner said he visited several beer joints in and around Point Pleasant on the night of October 14 and then hired Jackson to take him home to Gallipolis Ferry.

At his home, the statement said, Gardner told the taxi owner to wait and went inside. He returned with a shotgun and ordered Jackson to drive south.

Shot And Killed

On an isolated road about eight miles south of here, he ordered Jackson from the car and shot him, the statement said.

The next day he returned to Gallipolis Ferry. Smithers said Gardner was arrested on tips from two unidentified persons.

The state policeman said the defendant confessed on October 16.

Mrs. Jackson, wife of the dead man, testified briefly. She answered routine questions about when she had last seen her husband, and identified the jacket and hat he wore the night he was killed.

Two more witnesses remain to be called by the state today before the defense presents its case.

Tree Collection Is Heavy Here

Tuesday night's heavy snow made the job of collecting Christmas trees and garbage in the South End difficult early yesterday morning, but officials said only one street had to be skipped.

Extra crews used open bed trucks to pick up 16 loads of Christmas trees in the area.

Officials said the six inches of snow which fell in the city made the garbage collection job very difficult, but added that only one area, City View Terrace, had to be bypassed.

They said the garbage there will be picked up as soon as the trucks can get over the steep street.

Trees will be collected in North Cumberland tonight and in South End Friday night. They should be placed at the curbs with the regular garbage or ash containers.

Officials said the tree collections have been heavy.

Blazes Extinguished

East Side firemen extinguished a flue fire at the home of Rowan McCleaf, 220 Union Street, at 11:30 a. m. yesterday. There was no damage.

South Cumberland firemen were called to the home of Joseph Green when an overheated stove caused soot in the stovepipe to ignite. There was no damage.

OPERATION SNOW REMOVAL—It may be a lot of fun when it's sled-riding time, but on sidewalks, it's something that's got to go. But Judy Ann Jones, six-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John A. C. LET IT SNOW—Six year-old Douglas Brown figures it's about time he got a chance to try out that sled as he coasts down the main entrance drive at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club, where his father, Thomas Brown, is manager. "Boots," Douglas' three-year-old Boxer, takes the snow in stride. To the pooch, it's a call to high adventure. Freezing temperatures may mean more sledding today.

7 Indictments Are Returned By Grand Jury

46 Witnesses Heard In Three-Day Session

Seven indictments, the lowest number in recent years, were returned yesterday afternoon in the report of the Grand Jury for the January term of Allegany County Circuit.

A total of 46 witnesses went before the jury with William H. Sluss Jr., Frostburg grocer, as foreman. Following the report, Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris, commented on the small number of indictments and said it indicated a drop in criminal violations throughout the county.

After commending the jury members Judge Harris excused them and said they would be subject to recall and will remain members of the jury until the April term of court.

Among the witnesses heard were Police and Fire Commissioner, Fire Chief and Police Chief of Cumberland, the Sheriff and police departments heads of Frostburg, Westernport, Lonaconing, Barton and Luke.

Inspect County Jail

In an inspection of the County Jail the jury found eleven prisoners. The general condition of the jail was very good and Sheriff Edward R. Muir and his deputies were commended.

The jury reported that the Allegany County Commissioners have a four-year program of improvements applicable to all County buildings and that so far as the Court House is concerned, plans are included to modernize the fourth floor and basement. The jury termed the modernization necessary and should be done as soon as possible.

Following an inspection of Sylvan Retreat, the jury's report noted there were a total of 83 patients and found conditions at the institution good. No recommendations as to any improvements were made at this time.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Grim were praised for the orderly conditions and manner in which the premises are maintained at the Allegany County Home. Forty residents were reported at the home.

The general physical condition of property at the County Infirmary was reported as good. Ninety-one patients are at the infirmary, the report noted with 70 persons employed at the institution.

The jury particularly commended Dr. J. E. McLean for his close attention to the patients, and also recommended to future Grand juries that a committee consisting of at least ten members should visit and inspect both the Infirmary and County Home, as these two places are a credit to the county and if possible the Grand Jury should inspect the premises in a body.

In conclusion the jury's report found that the State's Attorney's office conducted its duties effici-

Ski Club Plans Outing Tonight

The Western Maryland Ski Club will hold a ski party tonight at its headquarters at Guntertown, west of Frostburg for members and nonmembers alike.

Club officers said conditions on the slopes are excellent, with more than eight inches of hard-packed base snow and five inches of powdery top snow.

The club also plans to spend Saturday and Sunday afternoons and evenings at the ski lodge. About 40 attended a similar outing last Sunday. The club said both beginners and advanced skiers will be welcome to attend.

Persons who wish to attend tonight's ski party or the weekend outing but need transportation should contact Thomas F. Conlon Jr., club president.

Many Questions Are Facing Legislators At Annapolis

ANNAPOLIS, Jan. 7 (AP)—When should a public road not be a public road? Do injured workmen get enough compensation? Who should have the final say with paroles? Should a man get whipped for beating his wife?

These and other questions face the General Assembly, which convened today. Each question represents a measure ready for action. The query on roads took form of a joint resolution recommended by the Sobeloff Commission, an advisory group appointed to suggest possible means of streamlining the state government.

The commission thinks the attorney general should review all the state's laws relating to highways and streets and recommend to the governor legislation to abandon roads no longer serving a public use and to rid the law books of out-dated statutes.

Would Cut Costs

There solution would authorize the use of existing state agencies for the surveys and, if necessary, to hire outside assistance.

If carried through, this would mean that some little-used roads might be taken off the state or county maintenance lists.

The workers compensation bill, written by the Legislative Council on a proposal by the CIO Maryland Industrial Union Council, would increase the maximum paid to a permanently disabled workman from $32 to $40 a week.

Sets $12,000 Limit

The workman could continue receiving these payments until he had received $12,500. The present law puts the ceiling at $10,000.

The bill also gives him two years, instead of the present one, in which to file his claim for the compensation payments.

The bill dealing with paroles, recommended by the Sobeloff Commission, sets up a parole board that would handle the screening of eligible prisoners and make parole recommendations to the governor.

Gov. McKeldin has indicated he favored turning over the entire responsibility of paroles to a board. But the Legislative Council, in approving the bill, made the board advisory only and retained the final say in the governor's hands.

Has Final Say

The board would consist of three members appointed by the governor to six-year terms.

Through what the Department of Legislative Reference said was an oversight, the commission's original proposal—that the board have full responsibility for paroles— remained in the bill as printed for the Legislature.

But it is a matter of record that the council made the alteration to the commission proposal to give the governor the final word.

May Be Toned Down

Maryland's ancient law providing for lashing a wife-beating husband would be toned down considerably under the bill recommended by the Prisoners Aid Association of Maryland.

The measure would substitute a fine not exceeding $500 for the wording that now permits a sentence of not more than 40 lashes.

McKeldin is giving full backing to the revision. Several months ago he directed a Frederick County magistrate to rescind a lashing sentence.

Optimists Name Steering Group For King Circus

Committees To Be Listed Wednesday

The Optimists Club last night named a five-man steering committee for the presentation of the King Brothers and Cristiani Circus in May.

The circus' appearance here will be sponsored jointly by the Optimist and Exchange clubs, with net proceeds to be used for the benefit of underprivileged children.

Members of the Optimist steering committee named last night by S. Allan Staggers, club president, are Harold E. Naughton, Byron Kight, James Honeycutt, Homer S. Higgins, and Staggers.

The steering group will select committeemen to help promote the circus, which will be here Monday, May 11.

Optimist committeemen will work with members of committees named by the Exchange Club Tuesday night. The Optimist committees will be announced at the weekly meeting next Wednesday at 6:30 p. m. at Central YMCA.

Plans for the circus occupied most of the discussion at last night's meeting, first to be held by the Optimists since December 17 because of the holiday period.

The King Brothers circus will stage Cumberland's first circus parade in several years on the morning of its performance day here.

The circus will arrive on Saturday, May 9, and will hold its parade Monday, May 11, at 11:30 a. m. The Big Top will be set up at Community Ball Park.

W. Md. Railway Furloughs Hit Hagerstown

HAGERSTOWN, Jan. 7 (AP)—The Western Maryland Railway today announced the furlough or dismissal of another 70 shop employes, saying they no longer will be needed because it is converting its Hagerstown division from steam to diesel locomotives.

Another 65 shop workers received their furlough or dismissal notices ten days ago and their jobs ended today. The latest 70, bringing the total to 135, will be through Friday.

The railroad explained it will not need boiler workers, blacksmiths, machinists, sheet metal workers and helpers after the conversion to diesel locomotives. The diesels do not require nearly as much repair and maintenance work as steam engines.

Ten new diesel units are scheduled to arrive here in the next few weeks and the railroad plans to replace all but a few comparatively new steam engines.

There was little apprehension here immediately about the layoffs.

The Western Maryland's dieselization program had resulted in the furlough of about 110 workers previously and most of them were absorbed quickly into other industries because of their skills.

The Hagerstown area has had a shortage of skilled labor for several years and many of the railroaders went to work at the Fairchild Aircraft plant, the city's largest industry.

State Employment officials here said up to now they had encountered little trouble placing the furloughed workers.

Railroad Smoke Record Is Good

Both the Baltimore and Ohio and the Western Maryland Railway turned in good smoke abatement records last month.

Reports released at a Terminal Smoke Meeting yesterday at City Hall showed that the Western Maryland had a perfect record from 19 observations.

The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad was charged with one violation in 206 observations.

The violation was excused, however, when testimony disclosed that Engine 4059, at the Back Shops, was being lighted off and not in service.

Auto-Truck Crash Injures Four Persons

Victims Conditions Reported Serious

Four persons were seriously injured yesterday afternoon in a car-truck headon collision on U. S. Route 219 near Parsons, W. Va.

Taken to Tucker County Hospital were Pfc. Otto Pennington, 24; his wife, Mrs. Charlotte (Lawrence) Pennington, 16; and his two brothers, James, 18, and Ray, 16.

Trooper G. H. Phillip, of the State Police Detachment at Thomas, W. Va., said the accident occurred at 2:45 p. m. one mile from Parsons in front of a stone quarry, the scene of a fatal two-truck crash which killed Arthur DiBacco of near Parsons in September, 1948.

According to police, a sedan driven by Pennington and a truck loaded with crated chickens crashed head on. Trooper Phillip said the two vehicles had to be pulled apart by a wrecker after the crash.

Driver of the truck, Roy Randall Glotfelty, of McHenry, Md, Md., was not hurt.

Pennington's wife and two brothers were riding with him in his auto while he was enroute to Hendricks from Petersburg where he was visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Doyle Pennington.

Although details of injuries were not available last night, at least one passenger of the auto was reported in critical condition. The other three were serious.

Pennington was home on leave from Fort Riley, Kansas, and was visiting his wife at her parents' home in Petersburg. He returned to the United States from Korea October 20 to attend the funeral of his brother, Pfc. Doyle Pennington Jr., 19, who was killed in action in Korea in August.

Trooper Phillip is continuing his investigation of the crash.

Milk, Ice Cream Forum Planned Here Friday

A training session for employes, foremen and managers of milk and ice cream plants will be sponsored here Friday by the Allegany County Health Department.

Dr. Winter R. Frantz, city and council health officer, said the classes will be held from 9:30 a. m. to 4:30 p. m. in the health department training center in the County Building, 111 Union Street.

Registration for the anticipated 75 persons to participate will be the first matter of business.

There will be a talk on "Canning Fresh Milk" by C. B. A. Bryant, field sales manager of Johnson and Johnson Company, Montgomery, Mich.

R. H. Haycock, supervisor of engineering for the Cherry-Burrell Corporation, will speak on "Planning Your Plant for Profits."

The afternoon session will begin with a demonstration and discussion of BDI detergent tests for fat in milk and other dairy products by O. S. Sager, chemist for the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Bryant will speak again on farm tank holding of milk and farm tank pickups.

C. M. Moore, official of Cowles Company of Cleveland, will discuss new methods of sanitation in dairy plants and new farm sanitation procedures.

City Registration Is At 15,674 Mark

A total of 15,674 voters were on the city registration books on December 31.

That represents a drop of 11, since there were no new registrations and the names of 11 dead were dropped from the rolls.

One voter changed to another precinct during December.

Tree Collection Is Heavy Here

Tuesday night's heavy snow made the job of collecting Christmas trees and garbage in the South End difficult early yesterday morning, but officials said only one street had to be skipped.

Extra crews used open bed trucks to pick up 16 loads of Christmas trees in the area.

Officials said the six inches of snow which fell in the city made the garbage collection job very difficult, but added that only one area, City View Terrace, had to be bypassed.

They said the garbage there will be picked up as soon as the trucks can get over the steep street.

Trees will be collected in North Cumberland tonight and in South End Friday night. They should be placed at the curbs with the regular garbage or ash containers.

Officials said the tree collections have been heavy.

Blazes Extinguished

East Side firemen extinguished a flue fire at the home of Rowan McCleaf, 220 Union Street, at 11:30 a. m. yesterday. There was no damage.

South Cumberland firemen were called to the home of Joseph Green when an overheated stove caused soot in the stovepipe to ignite. There was no damage.

OPERATION SNOW REMOVAL—It may be a lot of fun when it's sled-riding time, but on sidewalks, it's something that's got to go. But Judy Ann Jones, six-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John A. C. Jones, 654 Fayette Street, doesn't seem to mind as she digs into a big pile of the five-inch snowfall which blanketed the city Tuesday night. More snow, and rain, fell yesterday.

LET IT SNOW—Six year-old Douglas Brown figures it's about time he got a chance to try out that sled as he coasts down the main entrance drive at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club, where his father, Thomas Brown, is manager. "Boots," Douglas' three-year-old Boxer, takes the snow in stride. To the pooch, it's a call to high adventure. Freezing temperatures may mean more sledding today.
